SWEET TAKES STAND AGAINST LIBERAL 'DRY' ENFORCEMENT

Speaker Says Beer and Wine Legislation Would Be Futile Pending Court Decision.

SUPPORTED BY ROOSEVELT

CILLETT TO PRESS FIGHT

Cuvillier Tells Speaker His Attitude, if Maintained, Will Spell Republican Defeat.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 11.—Speaker Sweet tonight threw down the gauntlet to ex-service men and others in the Assembly who are preparing to press for the enactment of a bill that would legalize the sale of beer and light wine. The Speaker in an interview announced unequivocally his opposition to legislation of such a character at the present session.

After the interview, Colonel Ransom H. Gillett, sponsor for the most popular of the beer and light wine measures pending in the Assembly, declared that the Speaker's attitude would make no difference to him and that he would press his bill to final passage. Assemblyman Cuvillier, author of the resolution for the investigation of the Anti-Saloon League, had a talk with Speaker Sweet in which, according to his statement, Mr. Cuvillier told the Speaker that if he persisted in his present frame of mind it would spell defeat for the Republicans this Fall.

The Democrats without exception are "wet," and would, it is believed, line up behind a wet or semi-wet measure regardless of personal views. The thirty ex-service Republicans, with the exception of two or possibly four, favor wine and beer legislation. Two sure exceptions are Lieut. Col. Roosevelt and Frank G. Jacobs of Greene County. The Democrats and ex-service men between them can muster 95 votes and the 11 necessary to make the required majority of 76, they believe, would be supplied by Republicans from New York and other large cities.

"I am not for light wine and beer legislation," said Speaker Sweet in his statement. "I believe prohibition should be given a fair test. Anyhow until the higher courts have construed the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act any such legislation would be futile, for the prohibition amendment and the Volstead act would supersede them as the law of the land."

The Speaker said he did not care to state what enforcement measure he would favor until after the hearing next week before the Judiciary Committees of both Houses when all the enforcement and "liberal construction" bills of which there are a dozen before the Legislature, will be weighed.

"If Speaker Sweet takes that stand," said Colonel Gillett, "He might as well say that the Legislature should be prorogued and Congress invited to come in and make our State laws. I do not believe my light wine and beer bill would run counter to the amendment. I believe that under the concurrent jurisdiction clause in the amendment, Legislatures have the right to pass sumptuary laws based on their own interpretation of what the amendment means, as long as the interpretation is a reasonable one."

The conference of the ex-service men, originally called for Monday night, has been postponed until Tuesday. Colonel Roosevelt is likely to make a fight then on united support of "liberal" enforcement on the ground that it would involve dragging the American Legion into politics. Assemblymen James T. Carroll of Kings and Arthur E. Brundage of Orange apparently have been won over by Colonel Roosevelt.

Assemblyman Cuvillier in the Assembly today asked Speaker Sweet to instruct the sergeant at arms to bar all agents of the Anti-Saloon League from the Assembly chamber. The Speaker had not issued any instructions to that effect up to the time he started for his home in Oswego late this afternoon.

In his brief speech Cuvillier assailed Superintendent Anderson as a "moral and physical coward," and attacked the Republican majority in the Assembly for knuckling down to Anderson so long, thus "lowering the dignity of the House."

After the Assembly session Mr. Cuvillier sought the Speaker in his room.

"I told the Speaker," said Mr. Cuvillier, "that by obstructing liberal enforcement legislation he was paving the way for Republican defeat at the polls. I told him that a Democratic Governor would be elected, and that not a single Republican candidate for the Legislature would win below the Bronx."

Tonight the Assemblyman suggested that "if the Speaker did not want the Republicans seated" he had better change his mind.

"Would you vote for seating them?" he was asked.

"I am not saying how I would vote," was his reply.

The Rev. Dr. Freeman, following his advice the Assemblyman said, had decided to sue Superintendent Anderson for accusing the minister of having been a saloon keeper. The clergyman spent the day at the Capitol preparing a statement, which tonight he gave to the press. He reiterated his former denial of the accusation made by Mr. Anderson.

30,000 Anti-Red Workmen Fight Way to Manchuria

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 12.—Colonel John Ward, M. P., has received a telegram from General Hobart stating that a gallant anti-Bolshevist army of 30,000 workmen have fought their way through from the Urals to Manchuria.

The story of the army is that when the Bolsheviki advanced from the Urals toward the end of 1917 the atrocities of the Commissar and Red Guards so troubled the workmen in some mining districts that in defense of their homes and families they organized themselves into an army 30,000 strong and to such purpose that they successfully withstood the Bolsheviki near Kushva.

They continued to hold them at bay ever since and were left intact when Kolchak and the other White armies were driven back. They have now fought their way into Manchuria.

COLUMBIA STUDENT DIES IN BOXING BOUT

BOXED ONLY HALF MINUTE

Law Review Editor's Young Opponent Held—Blow Was Slight One.

Milton Sternfeld, 24 years old, graduate of Columbia Law School and one of the editors of the Columbia Law Review, died at 11:45 last night at St. Luke's Hospital, following a friendly boxing bout in Earl Hall with Andrew Lockett, 23, of 532 West 114th Street.

According to the police the two young men had been boxing in the gymnasium early in the evening. At about 10:30 o'clock they were invited to Earl Hall, where the Engineering Society was having a lecture and smoker. There had been an address by Harrington Emerson and several students volunteered to furnish some entertainment.

Clad in their gymnasium clothes, Sternfeld and Lockett adjourned to the assembly room. According to the account of eye witnesses, Lockett and Sternfeld boxed for perhaps thirty seconds. Lockett gave Sternfeld a light tap on the jaw, and he fell to the floor. The collapse of the young man did not alarm the students, of whom there were about 100, but when efforts to revive him failed and first aid was of no avail, a hurry call was sent in for an ambulance. Dr. Paine of St. Luke's Hospital found Sternfeld unconscious, and removed him to the hospital, where he died at 11:45.

Opponent Grief-stricken.

Lockett was taken to the West 125th Street Station here after being questioned by the police, and was locked up on a technical charge of homicide. The young men were friends, and Lockett was stricken with remorse.

One version of the story was that the two young men had not been in the gymnasium, but were present at the lecture, and were asked to give a boxing exhibition. All accounts agreed that the blow on Sternfeld's chin was a light one, and that it was not of sufficient strength to cause a "knockout." He failed to revive after reaching the hospital.

Sternfeld was said to be a particularly brilliant student at the law school, from which he was graduated last month. He was admitted to the bar and his professors had predicted a brilliant future for him. He gained the coveted honor of a post as editor on the Columbia Law Review and was secretary of the Board of Editors of the publication. He was well built and weighed about 160 pounds.

The tragic end of an evening of instruction and entertainment sent the students home in sober mood. A knot of young men gathered in front of Earl Hall and some went to St. Luke's to inquire after Sternfeld's condition.

Union College Graduates.

Sternfeld won the Phi Beta Kappa key and was a member of the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity. He leaves a mother, who makes her home at 24 Hawk Street, Albany. When attending school, Sternfeld lived at Livingston Hall. During the war he was an artillery instructor at Camp Zachary Taylor. He was a graduate of Union College, Schenectady.

Sternfeld was taking postgraduate courses in order to prepare himself in several specialized branches of law before entering on his practice.

It was said by those who witnessed the boxing bout that no hard blows were exchanged by the boxers, and it seemed to them quite inconceivable that Sternfeld should have met his death because of the glancing blow on the chin delivered by his friend. They said he did not fall as if he had been struck a heavy blow, but just seemed to collapse, his knees bending under him as if in a fainting spell.

Lockett will be arraigned today in the Washington Heights Court to answer a technical charge of homicide.

Though Mr. Lodge might be willing to allow the compromise seekers all the time thought necessary, it was evident today that the period of procrastination was drawing near its close. Irreconcilables said that they would not permit the delay to become unreasonable. They saw no reason, they said, for putting off much longer a vote on something. They do not particularly care whether the compromise is offered, and are doing nothing to prevent it, but would, of course, prefer that the Senate vote only on the Lodge reservation, which they regard as much stronger.

Senator Brandegee, one of the irreconcilables, declared today in the Senate that the Simmons-Watson reservation was the very thing the President wanted. He said it did not put the United States on record as declining to assume any obligation to preserve the territorial integrity and political independence of other nations, but merely declined to assume an obligation to use certain means of fulfilling the obligation.

"The President could say to the other nations," said Mr. Brandegee, "that the Senate had come to his way of thinking; that the reservation left the obligation intact, and merely left in question the means to be used in fulfilling it."

Ashurst Sees Political Tactics.

Senator Ashurst vigorously urged the Senate to ratify the treaty, in spite of what any leader, inside the Senate or outside of it, might want.

"Why is there no vote upon this treaty?" he asked. "Eighty-two Senators want a treaty. Are eighty-two to be overriden by fourteen? I am just as much opposed to a White House irreconcilable as I am to a Lodge irreconcilable. I want the Senate to do its duty regardless of Mr. Wilson's views, Mr. Lodge's views, or Mr. Hitchcock's views.

"We talk about Presidential candidates. I say again that Mr. Hoover never will be President, because he is not a Democrat; but if he would say the words, 'I am a Democrat,' he would be elected President because he can do things.

"On behalf of the American people, I ask for action. I demand that the politicians who are now screening themselves behind this treaty come forth.

"Let me tell you why the politicians want the treaty before the Senate and want the treaty before the country in the coming campaign. The politicians hope that if they can keep the League of Nations (the Peace Treaty) on the screen before the country those politicians will escape a discussion of military training. They are afraid to discuss that. They can escape a discussion of a means of establishing a merchant marine. They know if they can keep the League of Nations before the country as an issue in the campaign they will not be required to discuss the Government ownership of public utilities, and the politicians dare not discuss that.

"They know that if they can keep the League of Nations before the country it will serve as artful camouflage behind which they can take refuge and prevent a discussion as to why they have failed to appropriate $250,000,000 for the irrigation of the deserts of the West. It will serve as artful camouflage to explain why you have passed no soldiers' settlement land laws. The Peace Treaty and the League of Nations, if it goes into the campaign this Fall, will serve as artful camouflage to excuse you from reducing the cost of living and curbing the profiteer.

"It is time some masks were torn from the faces of officials in the Senate and out of the Senate so that the American people may know that their Government is capable of grappling with great public problems and settling them. They are asking us why we are not passing bills which will say to the American business man: 'You may' instead of always saying to the American business man: 'You may not.' It is time we stopped ping-ponging great questions in this Chamber. It is time to call the roll so that the American people may know who is responsible for the death of the Peace Treaty.

"As a friend of the President, as one who has loyally followed him, I solemnly declare to him this morning: If you want to kill your own child because the Senate straightened out its crooked limbs you must take the responsibility and accept the verdict of history."

SALVADOR ACCEPTS LEAGUE

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, March 10.—The Congress of Salvador today ratified the executive decree under which Salvador becomes a member of the League of Nations.

A list of the neutral nations invited to become members of the League of Nations, cabled from London on Wednesday, showed that all but two of the thirteen nations non-signatories of the Versailles Treaty invited to become original members of the league had definitely accepted. These two nations, the list showed, were Salvador and Venezuela. The definite action now taken by Salvador leaves Venezuela as the only uncertainty on the list.

REVOLUTION NEAR IN MESOPOTAMIA

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, March 12.—In a report just issued of Major Gen. Sir George MacMunn, the officer commanding the Mesopotamia expeditionary force, the General declares himself "much struck with the volcanic possibilities of the country," and describes no fewer than three risings which occurred between May and November last year.

The first was a small affair, but the second, headed by Sheikh Mahmud, one of the principal Chiefs in South Kurdistan and Britain's own nominee, was serious. The revolt was only suppressed by two months' hard campaigning in difficult country. The third, in Central Kurdistan, sprang out of a surprise rising of Mohammedans at Amadia, eighty miles north of Mosul. They murdered the British political officer and the Christian gendarmerie, and the rising which followed was only suppressed by three months' "arduous operations and considerable fighting in most difficult country."

WALLACE INVITED TO LEAGUE MEETING

Ambassador Has to Decline to Join Discussion on the Mission to Russia.

PLACE FOR OUR AGENT

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 11.—Ambassador Wallace received today an invitation to attend the meeting on Saturday of the Council of the League of Nations at which will be named the commission to make a study of Russian affairs. The Ambassador has returned the invitation, as he did the invitation to attend the first meeting of the Council which was held in Paris.

I learn, however, that the Allies will in all probability extend a formal invitation to the American Government to send an agent to accompany the commission in order that he may report to his Government should America not see fit to name an official member of the commission, which would not be displeasing to the Allies.

The commission will consist of eleven members. It is stated that no newspaper correspondents will be taken officially with the mission, but that the Council of the League will concern itself with obtaining permission for correspondents to go to Soviet Russia at the same time as the mission and to remain in close touch with it while in Russia.

PARIS, March 11 (Associated Press).—The Council of the League of Nations, it was decided today, will meet for the third time in this city on Saturday. Those present will be Léon Bourgeois, representing France; Arthur J. Balfour, for Great Britain; Tomasso Tittoni, for Italy; Baron Matsui, for Japan; Count Quinones de Leon, for Spain; Dr. Gastos da Cunha, for Brazil; Paul Hymans, for Belgium, and Athos Romanos, for Greece. M. Romanos replaces M. Venizelos, the Greek Premier.

The principal business of the meeting will be the recent communication of the Allies asking that the Council of the League of Nations consider the appointment of a commission with the view of obtaining impartial and authorized information concerning the present situation in Russia.

This request was forwarded on Feb. 24 by the British Premier, David Lloyd George, as President of the Supreme Council, to Sir James Eric Drummond, Secretary General of the League of Nations, by letter. The communication says:

"I have the honor to inform you that the attention of the Supreme Council has been drawn to a proposition forwarded by the International Labor Bureau, which is a branch of the League of Nations, proposing to send to Russia an investigation commission to examine the situation. The Allies agree in thinking it extremely desirable to obtain impartial and authorized information on present conditions in Russia.

"Nevertheless, they think such investigation would have greater authority and more chance to succeed if made on the initiative of the Council of the League of Nations itself and under its supervision. The Supreme Council asks that we beg you to invite the Council of the League of Nations to act in this sense."

FRANCE PROTESTS WILSON CHARGE

the most convincing proofs of our pacific desire. He opposed indefinite occupation of the Rhine districts and in exchange offered us a treaty of military assistance. Up to date our occupation has been strictly limited. On the other hand, what has become of the treaty of assistance by which our renunciation was bought?

Quotes Letter from Noyes.

"But that is not all. On May 29, 1919, Wilson came into the Supreme Council very agitated and communicated to Messrs. Clemenceau and Lloyd George the following letter which he had just received from one P. B. Noyes, American delegate on the Interallied Rhine Commission:

To Hon. Woodrow Wilson,
President of the United States,

Sir: After a month passed in the Rhine territory as American Commissioner I fear that a disastrous error may be committed. The convention for the administration of these territories, such as was elaborated under date of May 11 by the military representatives of the Supreme War Office is more brutal, in my opinion, than its authors themselves would wish after reflection. It is preparing intolerable oppression for 6,000,000 people during long years.

This convention cannot be adopted without great modifications. That which alarms me, however, is that none of the new editions of this document of which I have had knowledge admits that its fundamental principle is bad—that the fact of establishing in peacetime the quarters of a hostile army in a country of which it is mistress and billeting troops on the inhabitants will provoke hatred and finally lead to disaster.

I have long discussed this question with American officers of occupation. These men have been able to see at close range in six months what the military occupation is. These officers indorse the above declaration very energetically. They say that an army of occupation, even if animated by the best intentions, must necessarily be guilty of excesses and that mutual irritation rapidly grows despite all efforts to prevent it. Force, always force, must be the history of such occupation if it is prolonged considerably.

Putting aside the apparent ambitions of the French and only taking into account objections of a political nature, I have sketched below a project which appears to be the maximum plan of military domination in the Rhine district after the signature of peace. Our army commanders and other military chiefs who have studied the question on the spot support this program.

Concessions on the Rhineland.

"The program follows: It is in effect the convention signed with Germany June 28, 1919, for the occupation of the Rhineland. For at the meeting on May 29 President Wilson was able to impose on the Council four opinions.

"The plan of the Council of Versailles was reversed. A new commission, Marshal Foch, General Bliss and General Wilson received imperative orders to prepare a new project on the basis of the American ideas.

"The Germans demanded a Commissioner of Empire. There was given to them not only a Commissioner, but a Civil Commission of Administration. That is to say, much more than they claimed. In these words Marshal Foch sums up the affair today:

"'The consequences are obvious. The Rhineland participates fully in the life of unified Germany. The work of France is compromised.'

"After such an example of our moderation as has in this way been given to him, Mr. Wilson has not the right to talk of our imperialism. He has not even the right to retire, as he threatens, from the affairs of Europe. He has intervened in a matter affecting our security in the highest degree. He has not kept his word. We have still the confidence that sooner or later the American people will rectify the error of the President."

Wants Germany Made Powerless.

The Temps tonight says:

"Peace will be assured only if we disarm Germany materially and morally. We will not have disarmed Germany unless we take away the material means of making war and all her taste of continuing her propaganda of revenge. Our future depends on that."

Marshal Foch today called the attention of the Council of Ambassadors to the fact that Germany had not punished those guilty of attacks on French officers in the Baltic and asked that firm action be taken with regard to those incidents as well as the more recent indignities to officers in Germany. He further asked that the allied Governments provide details for inspection of the fortifications in Germany in the east as well as the west as provided in the treaty. These illustrate the point that France intends to maintain a firm front toward eGrmany.

Says Wilson Wrote in Haste.

Alfred Capus, editor of the Figaro, says that he believes President Wilson wrote hastily in bad information when he said that France was controlled by the military party. He adds: "The services which President Wilson has rendered to France cannot be forgotten, but the mistakes which he has made at our expense also cannot be forgotten."

At the conclusion of his article he says:

"This injustice to us is, perhaps, due to the effect of advice by some one who is badly informed. We believe the character of President Wilson is above such a level. We ought to seek the source of his error. Whatever may be the origin of his mistakes, the result is none the less deplorable, since it puts our great ally in the position of speaking the same language as our enemies."

The Action Francaise remarks:

"Far from hurting France, Mr. Wilson's attack puts on our side the most powerful men and most influential party of the Senate, which, after all, controls the treaty outcome. It is a situation which ought to be understood. Mr. Wilson throws us aside with disagreeable words. Mr. Lodge addresses to us the word of friendship. And it is not Mr. Wilson, but Mr. Lodge, who controls the situation."

The Eclair says:

"Mr. Wilson assures us that Americans desire to remain associated with the Allies in the work of peace. But so far as we can see the United States is an associate of little advantage. We may compare America to a man, very rich, who, speaking to other men about to join in a co-operative society, says:

"'It is with great pleasure you see me join your combination. Is it not? Very well. It is not absolutely opposed in principle. Perhaps I will accept what you do, but I refuse under any form and in any fashion to invest anything in your society. I will, however, sit in your committee of management and I will share your benefits.'

"We do not understand what advantage we can draw from such an arrangement."

The Intransigeant says:

"The sick Mr. Wilson, in a letter to Senator Hitchcock, exhales his bitter breath and goes so far as to accuse Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy of imperialism and militarism. Is it thus he describes the efforts which nations attacked by surprise in 1914 are taking to prevent a repetition of such a war?"

The Figaro sums up its comment by saying:

"As far as France is concerned we have only regret that we sacrificed material guarantees of our security for moral guarantees which those who proposed them are working to efface. Mr. Wilson in his letter to Senator Hitchcock flatters himself that the military party was beaten while he was present at the Peace Conference. The vote of the American Senate will tell him know whether he ought to consider his success other than a deplorable error."

L'Information says:

"This country, wearied, has only the wish never itself again to be at the mercy of an implacable enemy, but without ceasing to be calm it does not wish to be a dupe and is resolved to protect its life."

Jusserand Refuses to Comment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Cabled advices from Paris leave no doubt that President Wilson's assertion in his letter of March 8 to Senator Hitchcock that militarists are again in control in the counsels of France has offended the sensibilities of French officials and the French people generally. Tonight's report from THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent in Paris that Ambassador Jusserand has been instructed by the French Government to inform the State Department that his Government was surprised at the references which President Wilson made to France and would welcome an exposition of the President's utterance indicated the anxiety of the French Government on the subject.

Confirmation of the report that Mr. Jusserand had received such instructions was lacking tonight at the White House, the State Department and the French Embassy. When THE NEW YORK TIMES dispatch was brought to the attention of Acting Secretary Polk he refused to make any coment.

M. Jusserand refused to comment and Mr. Tumulty would not say whether such representations had been received from France.

In his letter to Senator Hitchcock President Wilson, after declaring his view that Article X as it stands would be a guarantee against militarism, made this reference to France:

"Throughout the sessions in Paris it was evident that a militaristic party, under the most influential leadership, was seeking to gain ascendancy in the counsels of France. They were defeated then, but are in control now. The chief arguments advanced in Paris in support of the Italian claims on the Adriatic were strategic arguments; that is to say, military arguments, which had at their back the thought of naval supremacy in that sea. For my own part, I am as intolerant of imperialistic designs on the part of other nations as I was of such designs on the part of Germany. * * * Every imperialistic influence in Europe was hostile to the embodiment of Article X in the covenant of the League of Nations, and its defeat now would mark the complete consummation of their efforts to nullify the treaty."

This is the only part of the President's letter in which there is any direct reference to France.

What probably also wounded the sensibilities of the French is the fact that in his note of Feb. 10 in the Adriatic controversy the President mentioned the proposed treaty of defense between the United States and France and indicated that if the Adriatic controversy were settled without consulting the United States he would have to consider seriously the withdrawal from the Senate not only of the treaty of Versailles but also the treaty of defense with France. Dispatches from Paris have indicated that the American attitude toward Article X of the league covenant and the lack of assurance that the treaty would be ratified by the Senate, as well as the treaty of defense between this country and France, were having an important bearing on the French Government's military plans, and that without definite guarantees of American help France would have to maintain a larger army as a safeguard against Germany trying later to crush France.

The military question has been under committee consideration in the French Chamber and there have been unofficial reports that France might have to maintain an army of 1,000,000 men until there was absolute assurance that fewer men are needed as a safeguard against Germany.

CALLS WILSON UNMANNERLY

London Globe Criticises President's Reference to French Militarists.

LONDON, March 11.—The Globe is the first paper in this country to break the editorial silence regarding President Wilson's letter to Senator Hitchcock. It says:

"President Wilson's letter to Senator Hitchcock raises the query as to whether it is indicative of his being so far restored to health that he must needs speak plainly and vigorously, or whether it shows his condition to be such that he cannot restrain himself from manifesting his private petulance by public indiscretions. * * * Be that as it may, the President's true friends will deplore an unworthy and almost unmannerly outburst which will lay him open to pointed retorts on the part of our French allies."

Reviewing the position of President Wilson in Paris making The Globe declares that he "is temperamentally unfitted to deal successfully with a position demanding a certain measure of give and take. * * * The world has suffered and is suffering.

"We won't enter into any detailed discussion of the President's conduct in writing publicly that 'the French Militarist Party is now in control,' for we know that our friends across the Channel will deal faithfully with that egregious statement. But we cannot help wondering what would be said in the United States should Deschanel write to Millerand, asserting that the money-making element is in control of the United States. We fancy that the shrill American outcry would be distinctly heard across the Atlantic.

"It is no exaggeration to say that the illness of President Wilson has provoked the sincere sympathy of the whole civilized world, but his recent ebullitions elicit a certain degree of sympathy for the United States."

BERNSTORFF ASSERTS MILITARY BLUNDERED

BERLIN, March 11 (Associated Press).—Count von Bernstorff entertained a largely attended meeting at the Grunewald last night with a recital of his Washington experiences. The former Ambassador told the audience he was confident his efforts to keep the United States out of the war would have been successful but for the intervention of the German military "crowd" at the moment when prospects were brightest.

President Wilson's failure to secure recognition of his fourteen points, he believed, was due to the fact that Premiers Lloyd George and Clemenceau were more dominating figures in the conference.

Von Bernstorff was cross-examined for fully an hour after he had concluded by his auditors, most of whom, wanted him to explain why the President had ostensibly worked for a just peace in the Fall and Winter of 1916-17 and then failed to negotiate one subsequently.

Von Bernstorff asserted that even today he was not informed as to what military quarters in Germany had inspired the American plots and crimes not charged up to Von Papen, Boy-Ed and others.

Weakness of Country Has Been Exaggerated—New Anger Felt Toward Germany.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 11.—There are signs that France is getting rather tired of playing second fiddle to her allies. America's failure to ratify the treaty, enter the League of Nations and confirm the Franco-American alliance has caused the growth of a sentiment that France was being rather "let down." This feeling is intensified by the recent tendency on the part of England and Italy to act contrary to French desires regarding Russia and Germany. The French are beginning to wonder whether the rest of the world was not taking rather too much for granted in treating her viewpoint as a secondary—if not negligible—consideration.

It is true the French have in some measure to thank themselves if this be the case. More than any other nation Frenchmen are prone to criticise each other and the policy of their Government, and outsiders cannot be blamed if they sometimes take such remarks for gospel. Secondly, France appears to have thought that by emphasizing her war suffering and losses of men and money she would more readily obtain assistance from her former allies and associates. The assistance has not been forthcoming, but the idea of France's weakness has been propagated to an exaggerated extent.

President Wilson's reference to French militarism coming on top of the hard struggle to persuade the London Council to alter the terms of the economic manifesto has proved the last straw and convinced France of the need of asserting herself.

Strength of French Position.

In point of fact, though the national finances are in a highly unsatisfactory condition, France is in a much stronger position than many foreigners appear to imagine. Even financially, it is bad methods rather than actual lack of money which is the cause of weakness. The terrific hole in the budget, which is one of the principal causes of the depreciation of French currency, and the reluctance of Great Britain or America to give assistance which would remedy matters are both due to the continuous refusal throughout the war of French Finance Ministers to impose taxation sufficient to balance the budget.

What France needs is a Minister with the courage to explain to the people—not only the big profiteers but the very much greater number of small ones, such as the agricultural class, which on whole has been vastly enriched by war—that they gain more by paying a tax as high as 25 per cent. on their total fortunes and seeing the remainder worth, say two-thirds its face value than by keeping the whole lot and have it worth a little more than third of its face value. A frank explanation along these lines of the country's true financial position might rapidly change the present apparent weakness into real strength.

As regards the losses in the invaded territory, they doubtless are terrible, but in many places, such as Roubaix and Lille, business is steadily recovering, and it must not be forgotten that during the war France had energy enough to reconstruct a great part of her lost manufactories in the neighborhood of Lyon, Paris and at other points not so bad. As to the transportation situation, here again the trouble is more due to faulty management and slipshod methods than fundamental weakness. Rolling stock and tracks brought in by the Americans and British, not to mention the immense stocks handed over by the Germans, have compensated in very large degree for the losses during the war.

Despite incessant strikes, the labor situation is more satisfactory than it looks, owing to the fact that a very large majority of the French population lives by agriculture—an element traditionally conservative and as a result of the war at present very prosperous, and therefore strongly opposed to change. There are some 4,000,000 small proprietors in France and nearly half a million more tenant farmers, large and small, who own outright from 30 to 60 per cent. of the land they cultivate.

As regards the military force France possesses by far the largest and strongest army in Europe fully trained and equipped with a General Staff and high command that deserves the French boast, "They are the best in the world."

Finally, and this is most important of all, the French are an intensely patriotic, proud and clear-minded people. Once they have leaders who really lead, who will trust them and not be afraid to speak frankly, they will do anything. Clemenceau proved that. Millerand seems to be not an unworthy successor when it is a question of defending France's interests, and he has behind him a Chamber that represents France's sturdy agrarian backbone, not only intensely patriotic, but containing a lot of new blood, including many Deputies who proved their worth and their courage in the sternest of all schools—war.

If the feeling of resentment above mentioned—which not only is felt by the French governing class, but already is widespread and growing stronger throughout the country—is not checked by a better recognition to which France feels she is entitled, the world may receive a considerable surprise in the near future. This applies particularly to Germany, whose recent treatment of French officers and soldiers within her borders seem to the French to justify the belief that if you act decently toward the German he thinks you are afraid of him.

Waldeman Exempted as Legislator.

ALBANY, March 11.—Louis Waldeman, one of the suspended Socialist Assemblymen, sought exemption from military service on the grounds that he was a member of the Legislature as well as a conscientious objector. Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, one of the most pronounced anti-Socialists in the Legislature, today made public a telegram from the United States Attorney General, giving this information and adding that the local Draft Board exempted Waldeman because he was an Assemblyman.

ALLIES FACE PERILS IN TURKEY IN ASIA

TOO MUCH WAS ATTEMPTED

But for Britain to Leave Now Would Give Land Over to Massacre and Looting.

By MAJ. GEN. FREDERICK MAURICE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 11.—Since the armistice we have been kept in quite unnecessary ignorance of what has been going on in the countries of the nations with whom we have been at war. In no part of the world has the veil been grater than in Asia Minor, Transcaucasia and Kurdistan. We had no authoritative statement as to the areas we have been occupying from time to time and not the smallest indication of the policy which has taken us into those areas. We have been dosed with soothing syrup and therefore are quite unprepared for the crisis which is now developing.

Rumor is again busy. Great concentrations of troops about Constantinople are reported. We are said to be on the verge of a renewal of war with Turkey. I was assured yesterday that the French were on the point of being driven from Syria and that we were in difficulties in Kurdistan and the Euphrates.

Just a fortnight ago Mr. Churchill was holding out to us the prospect of very large reductions in the army during the present financial year. I pointed out at the time that the possibility of realizing these reductions depended very much upon the conduct of certain peoples in Asia over whom we had no control.

Mr. Churchill got his estimates, but would the House have refused them if he had been a little franker about some of the difficulties which have been worrying his military advisers for months past? Would it not have been better to have explained that we had not yet settled with the Turk, and that the lives of thousands of Christians in Asia Minor depended upon our being able to settle with him effectively?

The public mind is agitated with the problem of whether the Turk is to be turned out of Europe or not, but the real problem is how he is to be made to behave in Asia. We have 70,000 troops in Mesopotamia, because we added there more than 1,500 miles to our land frontiers, and those frontiers are bordered by unsettled and unruly tribes. We have thrown our mantle over peoples who are looking to us for protection, and the difficulty is with the means at our disposal to afford them the protection which they seek.

We were drawn into a vast extension of our commitments when the situation was utterly different to that which prevails today. It is the situation of today we have to face and the sooner we are allowed to face it with knowledge of facts the better it will be for us all.

The Turk collapsed so completely in the last months of the war that it was assumed somewhat light-heartedly that we could do what we liked with him. We sent troops into the Caucasus and to the shores of the Caspian, we advanced beyond Mosul into Kurdistan, through Syria to the borders of Anatolia and attempted to control the greater part of the valley of the Euphrates. Greeks and Italians occupied portions of the Levant.

It was hoped vaguely that the greater part of Turkey in Asia would settle down under the rule of the mandatory powers, acting under the authority of the League of Nations, and that the Turk would accept what no one else wanted.

This policy, such as it was, came to grief when the United States fell out. It was at one time confidently expected that America would accept the mandate for Armenia, but she refused. This left France and ourselves faced with greater responsibilities than we could possibly accept.

The French insisted on having Syria, despite the fact that not all the influence and tact of Emir Feisal could induce the Syrian Arabs to welcome them.

Within the area occupied by ourselves in Mesopotamia, in Kurdistan and along the valley of the Middle Euphrates, there are tribesmen who have for generations been masterless, who have the strongest objections to European ideas of law, order and sanitation, have no intention of paying taxes and are always ready for a row which holds out any promise of loot.

There are, therefore, troubled waters in plenty in which the unscrupulous adventurer can fish to his own advantage. As is usually the case the opportunity has produced the man. For want of means the Allies have been compelled to leave Anatolia severely alone, and while they have been busy with other matters or been haggling over the settlement Mustapha Kemel has been organizing a Turkish force in Anatolia. He is believed to have collected a force of 30,000 first line troops, and to have behind them a considerably larger number of armed irregulars (a polite term for brigands), whose object is massacre and booty.

It is certain Mustapha Kemel has neither ammunition nor transport to enable him to undertake great military expeditions. He could not make any serious inroad into Syria or Mesopotamia, but he is sufficiently strong to carry on a long and troublesome guerilla warfare in the mountains of Anatolia. He could only be turned out by a large and costly expedition and while he is master there he is able to stir up trouble in any direction which promises to give him good results.

It is extremely doubtful whether the Sublime Porte in Constantinople has any control over him or whether he, having stirred up trouble, could now check his followers even if he wished to do so.

There is today no settled Government in Turkey in Asia beyond the range of the allied guns. The problem is to establish a settled government and it is not going to be easy.

We have already in Mesopotamia alone a far larger territory within our occupation than we can administer effectively except at ruinous cost. We have to accept the fact that our policy in Asia Minor has been mistaken. It has left us with more to manage than suits our pocket.

Having made a mistake, it will be long before we can retrieve it, for it is out of the question that we should at once abandon to be slaughtered people whom we are now protecting and require to build up autonomous States from the Christian and Arab peoples who were formerly under Turkish rule, and to reduce the territory directly under our administration to manageable populations.

The temptation to extend our bounds for the sake of oil and railway concessions must be sternly resisted. We cannot afford to mortgage any more of our capital for the sake of posterity.

We must have an Eastern policy to suit our means. At present we are drifting into unknown seas.

WANTS NEW POLICY ON TURKS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 11.—The following article by Pertinax will appear in the Echo de Paris tomorrow morning:

"The days pass and the measure of intimidation of Turkey announced with much noise by Mr. Lloyd George, are not executed. It is known that by the terms of the first proposals, certain Ministers and agitators were to be arrested and the Sultan called upon from a impatry which would cooperate with the powers. The high commissioners representing the Allies in the Turkish capital, having strongly disapproved of this plan, the projects have been much changed.

"Today it is a matter only of occupying the War Ministry, seizing the central office of telegraph communication and obtaining the dismissal of Mustapha Kemel, as Governor of Erzeroum.

"But the High Commissioners persist in their opposition. What do they say—'Take care, for sixteen months you abandoned Turkey to herself. Turkish nationalist leaders have little by little gone from Europe into Asia. You are free to strike at the Sultan, the Ministry, the Parliament of Constantinople; a new Sultan, a new Ministry, a new Parliament much more free and much more intractable are ready to rise up in Erzeroum. Do you wish to exalt the Asiatic capital and to confer upon it a monopoly of power? It is necessary only to humiliate and annihilate the European capital. You are warned.

"Don't say later when you have accomplished your present plans that the consequences were not foretold. Concern yourselves with the massacres of Frenchmen, watch over Cilicia, and even Syria, where the Prince of Feysal, in connection with Turkish Protestants, has just taken a royal crown. Where are the allied soldiers? Until the present we see only the transports which arrive at Constantinople, only the troops leaving Asia to rest on the Bosphurus. They ought to turn around."

It is understood that the Council of London hesitates and temporizes after having heard such advice. But is it still master of events? Probably not.

"These facts and two ancient faults are before them. The first was the check to General Fpanchet d'Espray in October, 1919; as he was about to enter Constantinople as conqueror Admiral Calthorpe, wishing to stomp him, signed too hastily preliminaries of peace. Thus was lost the chance to force Turkey to obedience, an unparalleled opportunity. The second was the disembarking of the Greeks at Smyrna, decided on rapidly by Wilson, Clemenceau, and Lloyd George to punish Italy for her Adriatic resistance. Thus was begun this policy of a division of Turkey, more or less disguised, which, considering the military insufficiences of the allied powers, will become perhaps a policy of fanaticism, of massacre and of chaos.

"If there is time let us change about."

Held in $15,000 Bail as Red.

Vitto Marriani, 29 years old, of 305 East 115th Street, was held yesterday by Magistrate Sweetzer in Harlem Court in $15,000 bail for the Grand Jury on a charge of criminal anarchy preferred by an investigator of the State Attorney General's office.

Marriani was arrested on Feb. 27 last. Detective John Miletch of the bomb squad testified that he found in the man's home copies of various radical newspapers printed in Italian, and that the defendant had told him he was the editor and publisher of three of the newspapers. Articles in the papers, the detective testified, advocated the overthrow of the Government and referred to the President as a Czar.

BILLY SUNDAY RECEPTIVE.

Would Take Republican Nomination for President—Chooses Cabinet

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 11.—The Rev. "Billy" Sunday is ready to run for President on the Republican ticket. More than that he announced today his tentative Cabinet, to be named if he wins the Presidential race. Here are his leading selections:

Attorney General, Judge Kenesaw M. Landis of Chicago; Secretary of Labor, Police Commissioner Curtis of Boston; Secretary of War, Leonard Wood; Secretary of the Interior, Governor Henry Allen of Kansas; Secretary of State, either "Ma" Sunday or Henry Cabot Lodge; Postmaster General, Herbert Hoover.

SALMON CAUSES DEATHS.

Canned Fish Blamed for Poisonings in Dannemora Prison.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 11.—Charles F. Rattigan, State Superintendent of Prisons, returned here tonight after spending a week at Dannemora Prison investigating mysterious cases of poisoning among the prisoners, two of which resulted in deaths.

Thirty prisoners became affected on Feb. 20, the symptoms indicating poisoning which the prison authorities at first believed due to the consumption of wood alcohol. They later concluded that canned salmon served in the prison refectory, was responsible.

CURZON BLAMES US FOR TURKISH SNARL

to Ambassador Davis the preliminary draft of the Turkish treaty, with the request that he transmit it to President Wilson.

This is said to be supplementary to the action of the Allies a few days ago in instructing their Ambassadors in Washington to ascertain the President's opinions on certain important points in the Turkish treaty. It is possible that the President asked for fuller information and this led to the latest move of handing tentative proposals to Mr. Davis for transmission to the State Department.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, March 12.—The Daily Chronicle, commenting editorially on that part of Lord Curzon's speech wherein he stated that the difficulties of the Turkish problem were due to America's delay, says:

"Lord Curzon put his finger on the real point when he said the treaty of peace with Turkey should have been taken up a year ago. At that time the Turks were prostrate before the military blows which had been dealt. Then we still had large forces on the spot which overawed our potential enemies. The prestige of the Allies stood high and their word was then law.

"But since, during the long protracted negotiations and differences the Turks have been gathering new courage, reorganizing their forces, combining their propaganda with that of the Bolsheviki, and by degrees assuring themselves that they could safely defy the will of Europe, which was ready for anything rather than action."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Announcement from Paris that the Supreme Council has handed to Ambassador Davis a preliminary draft of the proposed Turkish settlement for transmission to Washington will, after the receipt of the document by the Washington Government, result in President Wilson giving to the Allies his views as to the Turkish settlement. Up to a late hour tonight the State Department had not received the draft.

Surprise was expressed at the State Department over Lord Curzon's statement in the House of Lords. It was stated that this Government had not received anything official as to the tentative decisions reached by the Allies as to how they thought that settlement should be made. Not knowing the nature of the decisions, the American Government has not been in a position to state its attitude.

It is understood that the President will not have the least hesitancy in stating his attitude on features of the proposed Turkish settlement, and it is believed that he will welcome receipt here of the preliminary draft of the Turkish treaty reported to have been handed to Ambassador Davis today, for it will enable him to have something official on which to base his opinions.

The only information on the preliminary decisions reached by the Allies thus far in the hands of the State Department is such as has been contained in the press reports. This unofficial information is fragmentary, and in some cases contradictory.

The Allies have at various times, in the past, asked the State Department whether the United States would participate in the Turkish treaty and when this Government would express its views of the questions involved. These inquiries, however, do not apply to the present case, because they called for an expression of opinion on the general question of peace terms with Turkey before any definite plan of settlement was framed.

Bay Harbord Mission Urged Mandate.

WASHINGTON, March 11 (Associated Press).—Recommendations that the United States accept a mandate over Armenia are understood to be contained in the report of the American Mission under Major Gen. Harbord which recently made a tour of inspection in that country to obtain first-hand facts as to Turkish rule.

The report never has been published, although the Senate twice has requested President Wilson to transmit a copy of it. The first request was made last November, but no reply was received and last week the Senate adopted a second resolution asking for the document.

It was said today that some Senators had knowledge of the recommendation of an Armenian mandate and that they had attributed the President's silence to the presence of this recommendation in the report.

Reports from Paris last October, after the mission had returned there, said the civilian and military members were sharply divided as to the advisability of recommending that the United States accept a mandate for Armenia, the former supporting and the latter opposing such a recommendation. General Harbord has consistently refused to discuss the mission's report.

Representatives in this country of the Armenian National Council have repeatedly urged that the Armenian Government accept a mandate over their suffering peoples, but no definite policy has ever been announced by the Administration. Opposition to mandates has been freely expressed in the Senate in the long discussion of the Peace Treaty.

CLERGY TO FIGHT ANDERSON AT POLLS

ALL PARTIES ARE WARNED

Attacks on Church Likened to Sultan of Turkey's Demand for a Holy War.

Clergymen of the Catholic diocese of Brooklyn, yesterday, through an editorial in the Tablet, a weekly newspaper published by priests and prominent Catholic laymen in that borough, served notice on the Republican and Democratic Parties in the State, "and all politicians in particular," that they will oppose "any candidate for public office who is indorsed by the Anti-Saloon League or who indorses the league."

The editorial denounces William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League," for his attempts in the past week to stir up bigotry and hatred," and declares that such attempts "are not only dishonest and hypocritical, but outclass the work done by the most depraved bartender or the most intoxicated barfly."

"The greatest of sculptors cannot etch a discord," the editorial says. It is equally impossible for any respectable person to do full justice to William H. Anderson, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, for his recent bigoted attacks on the Catholic Church. Three times have we essayed to write on this demagogue—this man who wields his influence as autocratically as a Prussian, as despotically as a Czar, as recklessly as an anarchist, and as indecently as a Chinaman throwing ill-smelling bombs—and thrice have we laid down the pencil in despair. As there are depths of the sea, to which the plummet will not descend, so there are depths of intolerance which the mind of a respectable person cannot measure.

"Anderson's loathsome attempts of the past week to stir up bigotry and hatred are not only dishonest and hypocritical, but outclass the work done by the most depraved bartender or the most intoxicated barfly. It is so revolting that it makes Roventiow's 'Hymn of Hate' sound like a Sunday School song, and places its author in the category of the Sultan of Turkey, who demands a 'Holy War.'

Not Concerned with Parties.

"Catholics are not concerned with any political party. They do not follow the leadership of the clergy on political matters. Even the clergy themselves do not vote as a unit."

"Is the Catholic Church, then, entirely guiltless of Anderson's charges?" the editorial continues. "Emphatically no. She pleads guilty to one offense. She has refused to be browbeaten, bulldozed, bludgeoned, bamboozled, and blackmailed by the Anti-Saloon League. She has refused to turn her pulpits into soapboxes for political meetings. She has refused to throw open her doors to these sanctimonious frauds and sacrilegious fakers in their mad quest for graft.

"She had refused to prostitute the name of religion and the cause of Christ to this domineering political Moloch and his machine. Her priests have refused to stump on the corner, ring door bells or pass the hat around at a salary and commission for the Anti-Saloon League. With them Anderson's meat ax has ever been a feather duster, his literature a fit decoration for the waste paper basket. For this reason, and this alone, has the Catholic Church earned the enmity of the Anti-Saloon League, its get-rich-quick promoters, its friends of 'law and order' plus the cash, and its 'moral forces,' whose angelic wings are held at half mast only when the graft starts to diminish.

"Lately the Assembly at Albany decided to investigate the league, and like a greedy canine who fears its bone may be taken away, it has started to growl, and madly snaps at the nearest thing to it. Anderson and his political-religious octopus cannot befog the question by raising a false issue.

"The Catholic Church is not opposed to prohibition. Some Catholics favor it, others are opposed to it. The church preached temperance and administered the pledge for abstinence centuries before the predecessors of the present political quacks and hacks started to get the hereditary itch for luore.

"Lastly, we hereby serve notice on the Republican and Democratic parties of this State in general, and all politicians in particular, that we will strongly oppose any candidate for public office who is indorsed by the Anti-Saloon League or who indorses the league. This is now a recognized anti-Catholic organization in this State, and in self-defense we shall retaliate on any one, any society or any political party that permits itself to affiliate with its anti-American and anti-Catholic campaign."

Anderson sent a letter to members of the Assembly Wednesday, headed, "Some Plain Talk and Square Defiance to the Assembly," in which, among other things, he said:

"The Anti-Saloon League has never sought popularity with the Assembly. It has been impossible for anybody to be really true to the prohibition constituency in the matter of aggressiveness and be on good terms with the General Assembly of New York the way it has done the bidding of the liquor interests for many years. This threatened investigation is furnishing further proof that the activity of the league counts against and hurts the 'wets.'

"The public will fully understand that if the Anti-Saloon League alone is singled out and nothing is done with respect to other organizations that have pursued the same policy it is proof that it is not a supposed violation of the law, but a desire to punish and silence the league that has actuated the investigation."

Do Not Fear Disclosures.

Anderson said that the Protestant churches which are back of the Anti-Saloon League do not fear possible disclosures at the legislative investigation. He also asserted that the Republican legislators are taking advantage of Catholic opposition to Socialism to "inveigle Tammany into furnishing votes for throwing out the Socialists," and described the move as "pretty smooth."

Anderson sent a letter to the Men's Bible Forum of the First Congregational Church of Plainfield, N. J., in reply to a letter condemning his attack on the Catholic Church. He declares that the citizens of New Jersey "have enough to do at home on the liquor question without criticising the prohibition work of another State."

Anderson yesterday refused to reveal the location of the saloon he alleged several days ago was owned by the Rev. W. H. Freeman, a Presbyterian clergyman, who had criticised Anderson and the Anti-Saloon League as mercenary. He also defied Mr. Freeman to sue him for libel.

Edgar Truman Brackett, former State Senator from Saratoga, yesterday was retained by Anderson to represent him and the league at the Assembly investigation.

ILLINOIS SPLIT ON LIQUOR.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 11.—Illinois Democrats, as well as those in Missouri and elsewhere, are sharply divided at present on the question of whether a wet or a dry plank shall be inserted in the State platform when the State Conventions are called to order.

The call for the Illinois Democratic State Convention, issued today, fixes the time and place as May 10, at noon, in the capitol building at Springfield. The Republican State Convention in Illinois will begin at the same hour in the Armory at Springfield.

The issue has been somewhat confused in the last few days by the announcement of the Wet forces that they are only seeking to legalize the sale of beer and light wines.

LOSES $50,000 IN PEARLS.

Chicago Society Woman's Gems May Have Been Stolen at Watkins.

CHICAGO, March 11.—A rope of pink pearls, valued at $50,000, was stolen from Mrs. Robert F. Carr, a Chicago society woman, while she was a guest of the Glen Springs Hotel, Watkins, N. Y., on March 2, it became known today when Lloyd's Insurance Agency offered a reward of $15,000.

The necklace was said to consist of seventy-eight perfectly matched pearls.

ELMIRA, N. Y., March 11.—Mrs. Robert F. Carr at the Glen Springs health resort at Watkins, stated today that the reward for the loss of her pearl necklace valued at $50,000 was $1,000 instead of $15,000, as reported from Chicago.

Mrs. Carr said she does not know whether the pearls were lost or stolen. She stated that she left the Glen Springs for a short walk on March 2 and remembered having had the pearls around her neck. She missed them, she said, when she returned to the hotel.

TO SUE GOVERNMENT FOR TAKING FENCE

DARK DEED OF SIX MEN

Working by Flashlights, "Gang" Refused to Belay and Official Letter Awed Policeman.

The Staten Island correspondent reports that there's likely to be a law suit as a result of the tearing down of Cap'n Oscar Staffrizen's fence up at the end of Brownell Street in Stapleton. The fence, designed to maintain the privacy of Brownell Street against the United States Marine Hospital, was ripped to smithereens early yesterday morning.

Wrapped in Staten Island darkness was Stapleton at 2 o'clock in the morning when six men, referred to as a gang, came to the end of Brownell Street. The men carried flashlights, crowbars, sledges and pickaxes. Seemingly, they had instructions not to let the neighbors in on their plans, for one of the hospital's ambulances was backed out and the engine started in order to muffle the annihilation of the Cap'n's fence.

But the Cap'n's house in Kay Street had windows looking out on Brownell Street and years and years of "listening" through fog—Staffrizen was a Sandy Hook pilot before he became one of the island's largest taxpayers—had sharpened the Cap'n's ears. And he heard blow after blow upon his fence. From his windows the shipper addressed the gang, advising them to belay. His voice, powerful with indignation, brought a number of Brownell residents out to see what was up. Then Cap'n Staffrizen went out to the gang himself. He is more than six feet tall and bulky, but the gang kept right ahead on the twenty-seven-foot fence.

Finally, the Stapleton Police Station heard about the affair. Policeman Matthews pried himself loose from the comfort of the back room and hustled around to Brownell Street. The foreman of the gang showed him a letter from the Attorney General in Washington directing that the fence come off alleged Government property; a contract for $380 showing that the gang was getting that much for tearing down the fence, and a lot of charts criss-crossed with surveyors' marks. Matthews felt it was too much for him and he said he guessed the fence would have to come down.

It did, and a sailor was on the job last night to prevent the Cap'n from carrying out his threat to rebuild it at once. Staffrizen engaged Arthur Simonson, a lawyer, yesterday, and said he planned a "suit against the Government."

SPRING SHAPES

Do not get under a hat that is beneath you!

A Derby or a Bowler, if it is to have any individuality and style, must be made by a professional hatter, and not turned out by a mere manufacturer for the million.

The hats we are now showing for Spring are the productions of the most exclusive London and American hatters, and possess that infinite nicety of balance between crown and brim, that compact, well-turned spic-and-span sufficiency which makes them something more than something to hang up!

STEAMER ESPERANZA ASHORE OFF MEXICO

BELIEVE PASSENGERS SAFE

Succoring Vessels Expected to Reach Her Quickly — Tyee Now Being Towed In.

TAMPA, Fla., March 11.—The naval wireless station here picked up a radio message today from the Ward Liner, Esperanza, saying that she was aground on Madagascar reef, forty-five miles off Progreso, Mexico.

The Esperanza was bound for New York from Vera Cruz, via Progreso, with passengers and cargo.

She reported her main sea pipes broken and both engines out of commission, but naval men here say that unless there was a heavy sea she probably was not in any immediate danger.

Two steamers, the Bald Hill and Amsteldijk, were directed by radio to go to the Esperanza's assistance.

News of the grounding of the Ward Line steamship Esperanza, with forty-five passengers and a crew numbering 100, at Madagascar Reef, off the entrance to the port of Progreso, Mexico, was received by radio by the Naval Communication Service at 44 Whitehall Street early yesterday morning.

Other messages from Captain J. R. Curtis of the Esperanza confirmed this.

Last evening the line received a brief message stating that the Ward Line freighter Panuco was in the vicinity of the reef and was then on her way to the Esperanza. The Bald Hill and Amsteldijk also reported going to the Esperanza.

In his message to the Navy Communication Service Captain Curtis stated that his engines were disabled and the boiler room was flooded. He said nothing regarding the passengers, and because of that officials of the line do not believe they are in any danger.

The company sent out a wireless to all of its vessels in those waters to go to the assistance of the Esperanza. Tugs were also ordered from Progreso and it was believed here that some of the latter were already at the side of the stranded vessel.

The Esperanza left New York on Feb. 25. At Tampico she loaded 700 tons of lead consigned to the American Smelting and Refining Company. Besides, she carried about 600 tons miscellaneous cargo, consigned partly to Havana and some to New York.

The Esperanza was launched at the Cramp Ship Yards in Philadelphia in 1901 and she has been regularly engaged in service between this port and Mexican ports ever since she went into commission. A sister ship of the Ward liner Monterey, she is of 4,702 gross tons, 341 feet long and of 48 feet beam.

Tyee Being Towed.

A wireless message from the steamship Tyee, reported disabled on Wednesday night 180 miles east of Ambrose Channel, brought word to the Naval Communication yesterday that she had been picked up by the steamship Lake Markham, which was towing her into the Delaware Breakwater.

The ship is short of food. She was bringing 17,500 bags of sugar from Jucaro, Cuba, to Boston.

The White Star liner Adriatic, bound for this port on Wednesday, rescued the crew of the British schooner Maid of La Havre, according to a message received by the line yesterday. The schooner was abandoned about 600 miles east of New York. The Adriatic is expected to reach port today. The Maid of La Havre was on her way from St. John, N. B., to Bahia, Brazil.

The office of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company here was advised by cable yesterday of the safe arrival at Yokohama on March 4 of the steamship Ecuador, and of her sailing the following day for Kobe. The steamship is carrying a large consignment of silver bullion and there had been a recent report that she was missing.

HEADS OF TREASURY OPPOSE BONUS BOND

Houston and Leffingwell Say Issue Would Cause Disaster —Think Tax Plan Better.

HARDING SUPPORTS THEM

Reserve Board Governor Convinced That Inflation Would Ensue and Raise Living Costs.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Opposition to raising money for the soldiers through bond issues was expressed by Secretary Houston of the Treasury Department, Assistant Secretary Leffingwell, and W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, who appeared today before the Ways and Means Committee to give their views as to the effect an increase in taxes by bonds or direct taxation would have upon the financial stability of the country.

The Treasury officials were not asked to give their views upon the policy but to explain how best the $2,000,000,000, estimated to be required for soldiers' bonuses, could be raised if Congress should decide on such legislation. The consensus of opinion was that the sale of another great issue of bonds might bring disaster, that the interest rate would have to be increased to 6 per cent., and that this would force down the value of outstanding Liberty bonds and other Government obligations.

Mr. Leffingwell thought that it would be impossible to float another big bond issue unless the war-time machinery was revived.

All three witnesses favored direct taxation rather than bonds. Mr. Leffingwell suggested that the money might be obtained by increasing the normal taxes on individuals and corporations.

Secretary Houston said that in the light of present understandings and with the practice of economy by Congress, no additional tax levies would be necessary. Both he and Governor Harding admitted that a loan for $2,000,000,000 could not be floated with advantage.

Thinks Taxation Least Harmful.

"If any proposal to pay the soldiers a bonus is adopted it would be much less vicious to provide the necessary revenues by taxation," testified Secretary Houston. "but then arises the question of whether additional levies would dry up the sources of revenue.

"Prices have shown a tendency downward at present, at least there are no evident increases, and the tendency downward will be increased if not retarded by unusual developments. Any proposal to expend $1,000,000,000 or $2,000,000,000 would present a very serious situation for the people to confront at this time.

"I am not alarmed as to the financial conditions of the Government now," added Mr. Houston. "The situation is not critical, and with good sense, economy on the part of the people and Congress, this nation can proceed in its orderly processes despite the impact of European conditions.

"To issue additional bonds at this time might bring on disaster. It would tend to inflation, credit, expansion, increase the cost of living, and then we would have rising prices, the demand of the working people for additional wages, and the same old vicious circle.

"If any such proposal is considered, the least harmful way of doing it would be through increasing taxes. Whatever process by which you approach it, you add to the burden of every man, woman and child when you meet the increase by taxation and even more so by increasing the credit structure of the nation."

Governor Harding told of some of the difficulties which the Federal Reserve system has encountered since the signing of the armistice. These difficulties, he said, were greater since the end of the war than before.

After the armistice, he stated, the floating indebtedness of the country, in certificates of indebtedness, was $6,000,000,000. This has been reduced to $3,000,000,000.

The actual basic reserve in gold now held by the Federal Reserve Banks, the committee was told, is about $2,000,000,000. Thirty billion dollars in deposits and $5,000,000,000 in Federal Reserve notes and other liabilities of the Reserve system are resting upon this basic foundation.

"Just now the United States is the only free gold market in the world," Governor Harding declared. "We are paying our international obligations in gold."

"The question of issuing $2,000,000,000 in bonds under the present circumstances," Governor Harding continued, "is more serious than during the war. First, we lack the moving impulse of patriotism; second, there is the competition of all kinds of investment and commercial demands.

"It would be infinitely better if the proposed expenditures were met squarely by taxation rather than by any other form of credit.

"Bonds Would Depress Market Prices."

"The proposition that bonds be issued and given direct to the beneficiaries in order to avoid flotation of an issue by the Government is particularly dangerous from both an economic and banking standpoint. The man who can lock up his bond and keep it doesn't need it. If the man who cannot afford to keep his bond trades it in for merchandise the dealer is going to consider its market value and regulate his prices accordingly. Therefore, these bonds will find their way back into the market, and they would be reflected in further expansions of credit.

"The issuance of bonds in small denominations to be given direct to the soldiers would be only slightly less vicious than a new issue of 'greenbacks' of civil war fame. They would inevitably come back into the banks as an element of expansion and thus aggravate the high cost of living in an increasing degree.

"As representing the Federal Reserve Board, I feel authorized to say unhesitatingly that from our point of view it will be best to pay as you go."

"I do not think that a consumption tax would be a good way to raise such a large amount of money. Such a tax would only increase the cost of living and place an additional burden on the poor man whose income is now about absorbed. Such a tax would not reach the rich," Mr. Leffingwell stated.

"If Congress should authorize the issuance of $2,000,000,000 in bonds at the same rate of interest and under the same terms and conditions as the Victory bonds," asked Representative Crisp, Democrat, of Georgia, "what would be the effect upon the market value of the $22,000,000,000 worth of bonds now outstanding?"

"My offhand opinion," replied Governor Harding, "would be that any further issue of bonds would depress the value of the obligations already outstanding."

Pressed further, he declared the depression would be "very serious."

Opposes McAdoo Plan.

Mr. Leffingwell went into all phases of the financial problems involved in issuing another loan and took exception to ex-Secretary's McAdoo's recent statement that taxes should be reduced by selling bonds.

"I want to be perfectly clear," said Mr. Leffingwell, after he had said that he was opposed to Mr. McAdoo's plan. "I do not think it wise or feasible to carry out the plan suggested by Mr. McAdoo. I do not think the United States Government should fail to carry out the details of the plans on which the Liberty and Victory bonds were issued. I do not think the Government should borrow money to pay the interest on its indebtedness.

"I do not think taxes should be reduced until Congress determines that expenditures will be less than the taxes after interest and the sinking fund are provided for. The sinking fund is a moral obligation of the highest sanction. Withdrawal from the market of the support the sinking fund provides would depreciate the value of the outstanding bonds. Mr. McAdoo suggested that the sinking fund not be used at all and a corresponding amount in taxes be remitted."

Taking up the general economic situation, Mr. Leffingwell declared:

"The position of Europe today is far from improved, though fifteen months have elapsed since the armistice conditions arose. The world is now practically homogeneous economically, if not politically. The reason the Liberty and Victory bonds are depreciated in value today lies not in the terms, interest rates or tax exemption features of those issues. The reason will be found in the fact that the demand for capital exceeds the supply, because the whole world has been exceeding its income for five years.

"If there should be another bond issue what actually will happen will be that the value of all securities outstanding will be reduced in the relative proportion of the new securities to the total value of the securities already outstanding. You will still have the same number of dollar values but distributed over a greater number of securities."

Mr. Leffingwell "entirely agreed" with an assertion by Chairman Fordney that "the credit of this country has not been extended to the limit." The Assistant Secretary added: "In fact, it has not been strained at all. There is no question of the soundness of the Government's credit. But bonds or taxes cannot create new wealth. We have anticipated our income for years to come and are proud that we have done it, because it was done to win the war. We can only create new evidences of indebtedness without increasing the wealth of the country. The trouble is that there are not enough loanable funds to go around."

Mr. Leffingwell read a statement compiled by experts of the Treasury Department which estimated that the loss to the Government for the years 1917 and 1918 under the decision of the Supreme Court that stock dividends are not taxable will amount to about $75,000,000.

In conclusion, Mr. Leffingwell said that if Congress decides upon bonuses the money should be raised by taxation, and he suggested that an additional tax might be imposed on normal incomes.

Here Comes The Boy!

Time was when people were willing to give boys house room merely because they came in handy to do the chores. What mattered it that ogres and hideous monsters lurked behind cellar stairs. Though he have his little heart bleached white every night, the boy must go down and get the coal. And no one was supposed to suspect that he had a tongue except to "Yes'm" and "No, sir," with, until he was fifteen or thereabouts.

But times have changed. People have found out that perhaps the most logical reason why this earth is cluttered up with so many grown-up no-accounts is that we haven't paid much attention to the boy while he was growing.

Trace back to boyhood the life of any man who has turned out 100% American and you are sure to find that he was raised on the theory that some day he would have to be responsible for his country's welfare. And, as soon as he became a man, this early training broke out all over him like the measles—and he was an American!

The Rotary Club of New York has devoted every atom of its energy and many of its dollars to Boys' Work during the past six months—and now comes the big civic movement in which the most influential men in all walks of life are interested—Boys' Week, May 1st to 8th, 1920. During that week there will be ceremonies and celebrations daily to emphasize the importance of training the underprivileged boy, as the most forceful means of annihilating radicalism and bolshevism—the two great foes of patriotism.

Rotary is enthusiastic on the subject and earnestly solicits the efforts of all Americans to make Boys' Week a phenomenal success.

COLBY HIMSELF NOT UNDER INQUIRY

Senate Committee's Investigation Concerned Only with Other Persons So Far.

TWO WITNESSES HEARD

Some Members Say It Appears as If Attempt Was Being Made to Manufacture Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today continued its secret sessions relative to the nomination of Bainbridge Colby for Secretary of State. After two witnesses had been heard it was stated that the inquiry would go on tomorrow.

It was definitely established that the committee's investigation has concerned persons other than Mr. Colby, and that he was in no way connected with their activities. Why the investigation is being continued, under these circumstances, is not clear, inasmuch as all the committee members stated today that no charges had been made against the nominee.

Some members said it appeared as if an effort was being made to manufacture charges where no basis for them existed. They said, however, that they would interpose no objection to the continuance of the present line of inquiry, if it was the desire of other members to continue it. They were confident Mr. Colby would be confirmed without serious opposition.

The first witness today was Captain John B. Trevor, head of the Army Intelligence Service in New York during the war. He is understood to have testified about the work of his office relative to trading with the enemy. He left books and papers with the committee.

Former Sergeant Victor Braegger was the other witness. He is known as an expert with the dictagraph. He described the interception of telephone messages and the transcribing of conversations overheard through a dictagraph installed in a New York office.

One of the functions appertaining to the Secretary of State in which the Government will be seriously hampered if the Senate fails to confirm the nomination of Mr. Colby before the expiration of the thirty-day period next Monday, in which Under-Secretary Polk can be Acting Secretary of State, is the signing of passports for foreign travel.

Mr. Polk, it is stated, will not have authority to attach his signature to American passports.

BAKER OVERPAYS HIS TAX.

War Secretary Is Informed He Has Refund of $480 Due Him.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Secretary Baker has overpaid his income tax.

He was notified today by the Internal Revenue Bureau that he was entitled to a refund of $480 for last year as the result of an error in figuring his surtax.

A Cabinet officer gets $12,000 a year and a surtax is charged on part of a salary over $5,000.

Mr. Baker, himself a lawyer, had a lawyer assist him in making out his return. He said he was unable to discover where he had made the error.

Canada to Bar Nonessential Imports.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Canada is expected to issue in the near future a decree placing drastic restrictions on the importation of non-essentials, according to an official dispatch today to the Department of Commerce. The unfavorable foreign exchange situation was said to be the reason for the proposed action.

Early Spring Frocks
FOR MISSES

Grouped enticingly about that attractive Department on the Second Floor, are frocks of many types and many phases of loveliness—but all of them vastly desirable.

Frocks that are quaint; frocks that are elegant; frocks that are, if anything, more youthful than youth; and frocks that are simply too "ultra" for description—if you get what we mean.

For street, and for everyday wear in general, there are frocks of tricotine, of serge, and of the fashionable wool twills—each revealing some quite individual idea in its outlines or its trimming.

For afternoon wear, there are charming frocks of meteor, of crepe de Chine, and of the always adorable printed georgettes; and for evening—well, the evening frocks are those which no one can really describe, simply because all the most descriptive words in one's vocabulary seem commonplace beside them.

And then, the embroidered voiles!—but these are "another story."

Hand Tailored Spring Suits of Distinctive Individuality
Expressing the Newest of Mode Innovations

New Suit of Tricotine with Embroidered Waistcoat

ACHIEVING the very height of tailored artistry and mode charm in their smartness of line and effect are these new sports suits and mannish tailleurs for Spring. One model in particular is a braid bound serge suit with inverted pleats, finished with silk stitching. Another, a pleated sports model with the coat a trifle longer than the average and broad pleats at front and back, and a third is a pleated lounge suit of Tweeds, a model of careless simplicity.

Very Specially Priced

AN air of quiet elegance characterizes these distinctive types of tailormades as evidenced by an Eton jacketed suit of Tricotine, set off by a gold embroidered satin waistcoat and pleated skirt. Another model in a box-coated effect is very elaborately silk embroidered, and a braided mannish model is given distinction by a gilet of rich tinsel brocade.

Very Specially Priced

CONTRIBUTING touches of novelty in their unique variations are these new Springtime tailleurs. A suit of Tricotine is given unusual grace of line by horizontal tucking and puffed-out hip effects. Another, a severely tailored model, its masculine lines accentuated by braid binding, and a third is most lavishly embroidered in unusual designs. Skirts are pleated, circular or two piece effects.

THE mode for ornate embroidery is emphasized in these exquisite suits; one suit of Tricotine has a heavily embroidered Bolero jacket with gilet of rich silk and pleated skirt, in another, the embroidered box-coat reveals a gilet of tinsel brocade; while still another, a longer coated model, is delicately hand embroidered in artistic designs and shows a circular skirt.

Springtime Frocks of Fascinating Variety and Diversity of Design

REFLECTING the beauty and brilliancy of the new modes for Spring in models of unique originality are these frocks of Taffeta Silk, Satin, Tricotine and Georgette, sometimes beaded and embroidered and given individual charm by the use of frills, ruffles and tucks, novel necklines and brief sleeves.

Very Specially Priced

REFLECTING the myriad hues of blossoming Spring flowers are these rarely beautiful frocks of Georgette, Crepe Meteor and Satin. Decorative motifs are expressed by beading, ornately artistic in design, while striking new mode effects are produced by pronounced hip lines and waistcoats of metallic brocade or lace.

GOULD ANGERS LOWDEN MANAGERS

Issues Letter to the Governor Asking Where He Stands on Universal Training.

RETORT BY LOWDEN MEN

They Want to Know Why General Wood Is Seeking Democratic Support.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The feeling that has lately arisen between the two forces campaigning for the Republican Presidential nomination for General Wood and Governor Lowden of Illinois, respectively, was sharpened today when a letter addressed by Representative Gould to Governor Lowden was made public here and in New York. Mr. Gould, who is the Eastern manager of the Wood campaign, wrote:

"My Dear Governor—On Washington's Birthday I had the honor of addressing you a telegram expressing satisfaction with the announcement by your campaign manager, Representative Frank L. Smith, that you approved in part the then recently adopted platform of the Republicans of the State of New York. As a member of the national House of Representatives from the Thirty-sixth New York District and as a member of the Committee on Resolutions of the Republican State Convention I sought at that time to direct your attention to the fact that Mr. Smith, probably through an oversight, had neglected to make clear whether you indorsed the platform in its entirety, or whether in speaking for you he avoided specific approval of the plan on universal military training because he feared to commit you upon this subject or because he had been informed that you had not decided what your course should be with respect to the training issue.

"Since I cannot believe that you have failed to determine upon such a subject as universal training, I feel I shall cause you no fresh embarrassment by once more urging you to make your attitude plain, so that the people of the State of New York may form an intelligent opinion of your candidacy in its relation to those of other Republicans whose position upon the matter of universal training has been made without any thought of political consequence, but in the firm conviction that beneath it lies a principle which is fundamental, and which is best for a nation which stands at the very top and envied summit of the world.

"Under no circumstances shall I hold the opinion, unless you yourself shall assure me I must, that you do not favor training for the youth of America, such as Theodore Roosevelt believed in and fought for with all his unflinching soul, and I feel my previous telegram to you must have been overlooked in your efforts to speak face to face with the people of other States upon other issues now before them and the whole American people. If this assumption is correct, I am sure I need only call your notice to the facts to obtain from you, with all the celerity your decisive mind indicates to you, a full and free expression of your views on universal training, spoken with candor and simplicity, so that Republican voters can understand your position upon that question as they understood your noble record as Governor of the great State of Illinois.

"All the more am I convinced that this will be your wish when I tell you reports have been published lately that some of those connected with your campaign are whispering in such ears as bend to hear that the candidacy of General Leonard Wood, an ardent advocate of universal training, suffers because he wears the uniform of his country. That you have had no prompting in this whispering, no sympathy with sentiments so un-American, I know is without the shadow of a doubt. This impression is so strong upon me that I shall take the liberty of assuming that you would have me answer such bankrupt critics of General Wood with words he himself has used to answer them. I have no apologies to make for the American uniform. If I had it would be an insult to every soldier who died in France or in previous wars we have waged.

"No man who has served his people as you did in Congress or in the Governor's chair of the great State that furnished Abraham Lincoln and General Grant to a distressed nation, would listen with unperturbed resentment to an apologist for the uniform which millions of brave men have worn so buoyantly from the heights of Bunker Hill to the rain-soaked woods of the Argonne. So confident am I that the same thought would leap to utterance with you as would burst from the hearts of the mothers of millions of American boys who served in France when the dirty heel of gossip trod upon the splendor of that uniform, that from this time forward it is my purpose to deny for you that the source of these rumors can in any way be connected with you or with those who profess to speak for you.

"I recite this because I wish you to see how its denunciation, which every patriotic man must desire, would fit in with a definition upon your part of your position on universal training and how a stand by you upon that question would play a part in refutation of this slander against the uniform which rouses the ire of every man."

The Gould letter was the chief topic of political discussion here today, and the Lowden headquarters thereupon attacked the Wood candidacy, alleging that in his efforts to defeat Lowden in the Illinois primaries Wood was seeking the aid of Democrats.

The charge was made, for instance, that the Wood committee wired from its Chicago headquarters to Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, one of the prominent Democrats of the House of Representatives, urging his co-operation in the Wood campaign.

The Lowden forces make public the following letter from Representative Rainey to the Wood National Campaign Committee:

"I note your request to me to suggest men in my district who are favorable to General Wood so that you can put them on a committee. I cannot send you a list of names for the following reasons:

"1. It would not be proper for me to interfere in any way in the primary contest in my district conducted within a party which I do not belong.

"2. It would be impossible for me to suggest Republicans in my district who are friendly to General Wood and his candidacy for the reason that I know of none.

"I also note from your telegram that you are starting a campaign to show that the sentiment in Illinois is for Leonard Wood. I take it that you mean sentiment in the Republican Party in Illinois. In this matter I can only speak for my section of Illinois and I have no hesitancy in saying that the sentiment in the Republican Party for Governor Lowden appears to me to be practically unanimous in my district. If the sentiment for General Wood in other districts is not stronger than it is in my district it is most negligible.

"I know General Wood very well indeed, and have a very high personal regard for his ability and qualifications as an army officer, but I am not aware that his developed abilities along that line especially qualified him for the Presidency."

Hitchcock Drops Alabama Worker.

Special to The New York Times.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 11.—Information was received in Birmingham tonight that Pope M. Long of Cordova, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, had been advised by Frank H. Hitchcock, manager of the Wood campaign, that Joseph O. Thompson of Birmingham was no longer connected with the Wood management. Thompson, who is one of the most prominent Republicans in the State, has taken an active part in the Wood campaign.

New Wood Manager in Nebraska.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., March 11.—Managers of the Nebraska campaign of General Wood for President have gotten into a row, and Frank H. Hitchcock has appointed as new leader in this State N. P. Dodge of Omaha. Previously the campaign had been managed by Frank T. Carrick.

"It has never been done before"

THAT'S what the Emergency Fleet Corporation said when we offered to build two marine engines a week.

Some said, "It can't be done. It takes six weeks to cast and machine one intermediate cylinder alone."

So we revised our estimate and offered them three a week. They were incredulous.

The orders were placed with us, and instead of two or three, we delivered four complete 2800 h. p. engines a week.

This is ample evidence of the resourcefulness of Hamilton Engineers and workmen. The same organization has designed and built Hamilton Sugar Mills for many years, and engines for generations.

With their wide experience and intimate practical knowledge of all working conditions in the grinding of sugar cane, with the resourcefulness of the personnel and the extensive mechanical facilities in the big plant at Hamilton, it is reasonable to suppose that Hamilton sugar mill equipment is best for the job.

But there are installations in many big Centrals in Cuba that prove the quality of Hamilton equipment. Their records, showing the high percentage of juice extraction and the enormous amount of cane ground during the busy seasons, are wonderful testimonials, for in not one instance was there an interruption of service.

JOHNSON TO LEAD FIGHT IN NEW YORK

Senator's Managers Decide to Enter Contest for Delegates in City and State.

SPEAKING TOUR PLANNED

Nightly Meetings to be Held Until Primary Day, and Watchers Placed at Polls.

A real battle for control of the New York delegation to the Republican National Convention is to be waged in New York City and State by United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson, it was decided yesterday by the Johnson campaign managers. Senator Johnson himself will lead the fight. He will devote the last week of March to a Statewide speech-making tour, beginning with a speech at Cooper Union on March 25 and ending with a Brooklyn speech on April 1.

The candidates for delegates on the Johnson ticket are to meet the Johnson leaders tomorrow at the headquarters in the Pennsylvania Hotel and plan their campaign. The contest for primary election votes will be made in every district where Johnson delegates have decided to battle with the Republican organization. Ex-State Senator William M. Bennett will supervise the New York campaign. He said yesterday there would be nightly meetings in every district, with a squad of spellbinders working right up to Primary Day, April 6. At the primary election there will be Johnson watchers to see that there is no violation of the election laws.

"We are not going to take any chance on being counted out," declared Bennett.

After his Cooper Union speech Senator Johnson will address a meeting at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn on March 26. He will then go up-State, speaking at Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Albany, Utica, Schenectady and Troy, returning to this city to speak at a women's mass meeting at Carnegie Hall on March 31 and at another Brooklyn meeting the following day.

There probably will be one more big meeting in New York City on the eve of the primaries before the Senator goes on his proposed tour of New Jersey.

Angus McSween, Eastern campaign manager for Senator Johnson, declared yesterday that the outlook for the Senator's nomination at Chicago was getting brighter every day.

"We have had most encouraging reports from South Dakota as the result of Senator Johnson's visit there," he said, "but we are not going to make any extravagant claims.

"We are putting Senator Johnson before the people as the one great champion of Americanism as against the internationalism represented by the League of Nations covenant. President Wilson has this week made the issue. It is article X., and Senator Johnson is willing to take the President's challenge and go to the people on that issue.

"Senator Johnson merely hinted in his South Dakota speeches at what we are up against. With no funds at our disposal, we are doing the best we can to crystallize the sentiment for Johnson which we know exists throughout the country in tremendous measure.

"For instance, the regular Republican organization and the Non-Partisan League of North Dakota both indorsed the candidacy of Senator Johnson. But when he went to North Dakota to speak he made plain in every address his position with respect to the attempts of the Non-Partisan League to further his candidacy. Yet one of the astute campaign managers has benevolently allowed Senator Johnson the support of the Non-Partisan League and hinted that their delegates will not be seated at Chicago. The North Dakota delegation will be a regularly elected Republican delegation and it will support Senator Johnson as the people of North Dakota wish it to do."

Judge John R. Davies, manager of the Nicholas Murray Butler campaign, received a telegram yesterday from Benjamin E. Chapin, editor of The Railroad Employe, in which he declared that there is comparatively little Wood sentiment in Florida and other sections of the South, while Butler and Lowden seem to be the most talked of candidates, especially among the delegates.

It was announced at the Wood headquarters that complete returns from the New Hampshire primary election show that General Wood received eight pledged delegates, the entire State delegation. Early and incomplete returns indicated that Senator Johnson had captured one delegate and Wood only seven.

Among the telegrams received at the Wood headquarters was one from South Dakota stating that General Wood was in the lead there with Johnson second and Lowden third. John Darst, State Auditor of West Virginia, sent word that indications are that the General will receive the support of that State's entire delegation.

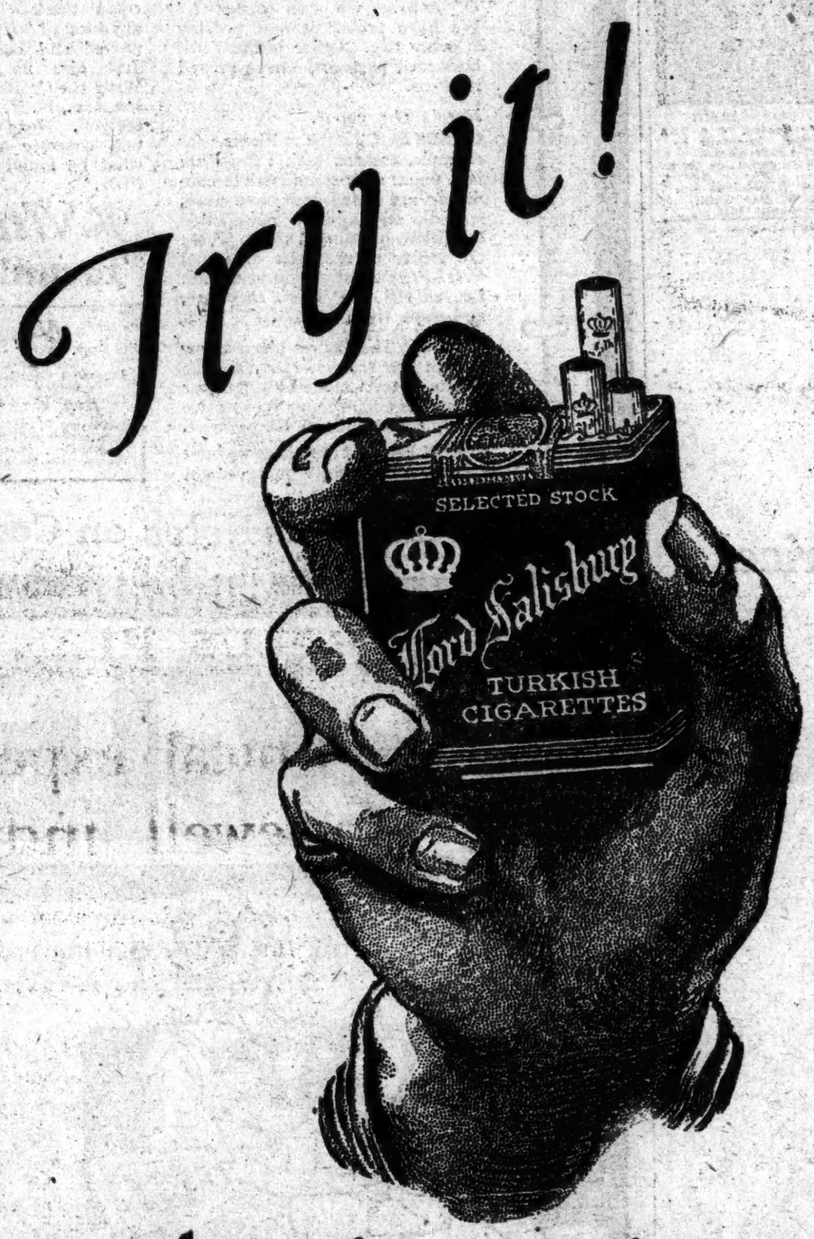
Henry G. Hogan, Indiana manager of the Wood campaign, reported that he is confident of the State delegation. General Wood will speak in Indianapolis tonight.

Word came from Chicago that National Manager William Cooper Procter said he had assurances that Wood will win all twenty delegates from Tennessee. Two delegates in that State have already been pledged to him. Manager Gould said:

"The next Eastern primary is to be held in Connecticut on March 23. Wood supporters base their confidence in Connecticut on a recent poll which showed he had a commanding lead for the State delegation."

Camden Republicans "Good Sports."

TRENTON, N. J., March 11.—County Clerk Frank Patterson of Camden issued a statement today that Camden County Republicans would support both of Jersey's United States Senators and State Chairman E. C. Stokes, as delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention in Chicago. "Camden County Republicans," said Mr. Patterson, "are good sports and not insurgents."



Try it!

It's an American trait to try

The American people are the fairest traders in the world. They will give anything a fair trial. And in this manner, many of the products of today have been built to greatness.

This trait settles all doubts. The people often discover articles of merit. They likewise discover the imitations. The merchant who has something worth while, profits by it. The other chap doesn't.

When they have made the trial, they know. And they can't really know until they do. That's why we ask you to try LORD SALISBURY. We know what a superior cigarette it is, but you don't unless you have tried it. And you won't know until you do.

A great many people have tried LORD SALISBURY Cigarettes, with the satisfying result that the sales of 1919 increased 25% over the sales of 1918.

WOOD ASKS WOMEN TO ENTER POLITICS

"Get Into a Party and Clean House Within That Party," He Says.

ADVISES THEM TO BE ACTIVE

Suggests That They Work with the Men and Get on All Big Committees.

General Leonard Wood sent a message of thanks yesterday to the New York City women who are supporting his candidacy for the Republican nomination for President in a telegram to Miss Julia Cutting, head of the women's Wood organization, which is now being formed in the East. General Wood said:

"Get into a political party and clean house within that party. Women can be a tremendous influence in politics. They can bring a harmonizing element into our government, they can benefit the conditions of the laboring class and they can work for child welfare and public and private morality, but they must not make the mistake of working in small groups. Work with the men. Demand membership on all big committees, for, now that you have the vote, you have no right to sit back and then complain about the government."

Miss Harriet Vittum, head of the Wood women's organization in the West, is expected to visit New York City late in March, and a conference will be held to make plans for greater activity of women in the Wood campaign.

Reports received by the women's Wood headquarters in the Hotel Imperial stated that the personality of Mrs. Wood was proving a factor in bringing women to the support of her husband. Mrs. Wood was active in Red Cross work during the war and nearly all the 4,000 women who worked under her were said to favor General Wood for the nomination.

Women from all sections of the country were said to be indorsing General Wood. Among the callers at headquarters yesterday was Mrs. Edwin Herbert, a cousin of Frank L. Polk, Acting Secretary of State.

General Wood yesterday declined an invitation to address the Government Club, of which Mrs. George Owens is president, at the Hotel Astor on April 5, for the reason that his duties in the army will prevent him from coming East until after April 20.

HEARST BOOM IN BROOKLYN.

Publisher Asked to Form Third Party and Run for President.

A boom for a national third party, with William R. Hearst as its candidate for President of the United States, was launched in Brooklyn yesterday, according to John B. Thomas of 420 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, formerly prominent in the Progressive Party. Mr. Thomas said that a petition with fifty signers, ten of them women, representing eight of the twenty-three Assembly districts in Kings County, had been sent to Mr. Hearst, asking that he form a third party and agree to lead the fight as a candidate.

Mr. Thomas added that the work of organizing the movement had been under way for three or four weeks, and that it is planned to extend it throughout the country if Mr. Hearst will agree to support it. None of those signing the petition excepting Mr. Thomas has been prominent in Brooklyn politics. At one time he was editor of the Progressive Party's official organ.

SHIPPING BOARD IN LONDON.

Opening of Department to Promote American Trade Abroad.

The establishment in London of a special department of the United States Shipping Board to assist managing agents of its steamers in the handling of foreign business, and to aid and promote American commercial relations generally, was announced here yesterday.

The department will be in charge of Tarleton Winchester and will be a clearance house for the development of business.

HITCHCOCK BACKERS WELCOME BRYAN ISSUE

Will Meet the Ex-Secretary in Every Nebraska Precinct, Says J. H. Mithen.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 11.—W. J. Bryan's recent statement that if elected a delegate to the Democratic National Convention he would not vote for the Presidential nomination of Senator Hitchcock, has been replied to by J. H. Mithen, manager of a Hitchcock-for-President club, with a statement that "Senator Hitchcock's friends welcome the issue," and "will meet Bryan in every precinct in Nebraska."

Replying to Mr. Bryan's assertion that if Nebraska voters instruct for Senator Hitchcock, he would allow an alternate delegate in the convention to vote in his place, Mr. Mithen said that Mr. Bryan had "spent years preaching in favor of instructions and now he asked the people of Nebraska to elect him as delegate and instruct him, and then serves notice on them in advance that instructions given him will not be binding."

"He has always taken the position that the rules that govern men's actions do not apply to him," Mr. Mithen added.

Among reasons given by Mr. Bryan for his opposition to Senator Hitchcock was that the Senator had voted against submission to the states of the Federal prohibition and suffrage amendments.

BRYAN TO SPEAK HERE SOON

Guest at Aldine Club, March 19, and Later of Marquette Club.

"The Federal Prohibition Amendment" will be the subject of an address by William Jennings Bryan when he appears before the Civic Forum of the Marquette Club at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel soon. Mr. Bryan will be the guest of honor of the club, which is conducting a series of talks by well-known Americans on the subject, "Constructive Americanism."

On the evening of March 19 the Bryan Birthday Dinner Committee will give Mr. Bryan a birthday party at the Aldine Club, 200 Fifth Avenue. Former Judge Samuel Seabury is Chairman of the Dinner Committee, with Health Commissioner Royal S. Copeland, Deputy Commissioner Cornelius M. Sheehan of the Water Board; Francis P. Bent, Charles H. Ingersoll, George A. Carden, Dr. George W. Thompson, Robert S. Doubleday, Charles Johnson Post and J. W. Hughes as the other members. "Beware the Dam" is to be the subject of Mr. Bryan's speech, and it is said he will talk on several issues.

"Wonderful if it's true," they say--- "but can you prove it?" Can we? We have!

NATURALLY I meet with skepticism. "If Vitri-Flux will increase compressive strength 50%," they say, "increase hardness 75% or 100%, and waterproof the concrete at the same time, it's wonderful stuff. No one ever even claimed so much before. But can you prove it?"

Of course we can prove it! We have proved it—are proving it every day. Other people—disinterested engineers—have proved it for us.

Here's the proof.

CONSTRUCTION: Floors, for example, treated with Vitri-Flux laid under almost impossible conditions are giving, and have given, splendid service under remarkable conditions of unusual wear. There are plenty of examples of actual Vitri-Flux construction years old. Let us tell you where they are, and show them to you.

TESTS: The figures given below are not our figures,—they are the results of tests made by a number of famous engineers as prospective customers in official laboratories.

SAMPLES: At our office we have samples of concrete and cement products made with different mixtures under different conditions that prove every claim we make. Let us show them to you.

Are you skeptical? So were we. We questioned and tested and tried Vitri-Flux for three long years, under more numerous and more rigid requirements than you could think of. We never say anything of Vitri-Flux we haven't proved and can't prove to you. Just give us the opportunity. Write the Granitex Co., 171 Madison Ave., N. Y. C. and I'll call to see you. Next week I'll let a certain concrete authority tell you what he found out about Vitri-Flux.

FOREST HILLS RENT RISE TO BE FOUGHT

Tenants of the Gardens Unite to Test Legality of 200 Per Cent. Advance.

COMMITTEE HIRES LAWYER

Claim Will Be Set Up That Landlord Obtained Leases Under Duress.

Tenants of the fashionable Gardens Apartment at Forest Hills, L. I., held a meeting last night and decided to begin a legal battle to determine whether the Gardens Apartment, Inc., owner of the property, was entitled legally to advance their rent from 100 to 200 per cent. It was announced that the case will be fought to the highest court in order to test the law with relation to a landlord's rights over his property.

The first step will be an injunction suit restraining Guyon L. C. Earle, agent of the Gardens, from taking possession of the apartments when the present leases expire and also to prevent him from leasing any of the apartments in question from now until October 1. The case will be followed with great interest by thousands of tenants in New York and elsewhere who are complaining of exorbitant increases in their rentals.

A committee of six tenants called yesterday on Harold G. Aron, a realty lawyer, of Aron & Wise, 50 Pine Street, and it was decided at the meeting last night to ask Mr. Aron to handle the case. So far as the committee knows the action of the tenants of the Gardens will be the first attack made on the right of the landlord to force tenants to sign drastic leases. It will be maintained that the element of mutuability was not present when the tenants were asked to sign new leases at the increased rentals and that the landlord obtained the leases under duress, taking advantage of the shortage of apartments.

Test Suit to be Brought.

One tenant will be chosen to act as a test plaintiff. The action will probably be taken in a few days, as the tenants have been informed by Mr. Earle that they have until March 15 to give notice of their desire to renew their leases.

The Gardens was constructed two and a half years ago. There are sixty-two tenants in the house. Twenty-five tenants are said to be actively engaged in the legal fight. Seventeen have already met the increases or have decided to move.

One of the leaders in the movement is William W. Bruce, of the Texas Oil Company, who has been notified that after Oct. 1 the rent of his three-room apartment which was $70 in October, 1917, will be $165 next October. Another tenant, G. N. Cherrington, it was said, has been asked to pay $2,700 for an apartment which was $1,140. Apartments renting at $75 and $125 have been advanced to $150 and $250, it was said. Among the tenants are Eugene Carr, cartoonist; Walter Claypoole, novelist and Julius Tannen, actor.

In a letter to Mr. Bruce, Mr. Earle, the agent said that he did not feel "that the company is doing anything unreasonable in placing a heavy increase on your apartment," because he had been warned that if he took a lease for but one year he might expect a heavy increase. The agent said that the corporation was constructing two new apartment buildings, "but building costs have increased terrifically over what was contemplated and the first building must share the burden of amortising this cost."

Agent Taunts Oil Man.

Mr. Earle said that other property owners were increasing rentals 100 to 150 per cent. "because of the unsatisfactory returns they have received for many years on realty investments, and because of heavy increases in expenses. Rentals in New York City have been far too low for many years without the tenants offering any sympathy, so that if the pendulum of adjustment swings somewhat the other way in real estate, the realty owners will only be following the policy of practically all other commodities, especially oil."

In reply to which Mr. Bruce said it was unfortunate that the agent picked out the oil business in order to justify "the outrageous advances" in rentals. He pointed out that the advance in the price of tank wagon gasoline in New York over 1917 prices was 10.5 per cent. as against the increase of 135 per cent. on his apartment.

"Our annual dividend is 10 per cent., whereas I understand that one of your stockholders has boasted of receiving 27 per cent. on his stock. That disposes of your fling at the oil business and shows that, when compared with the management of the Gardens Apartments, we are mere infants at the game of getting all that the traffic will bear.

Tenant Disgusted with "Greed."

"You state that my letter of Feb. 25 indicated that a serious increase in the rent would distress me. It does distress me. And not only that, but such unconscionable greed and selfish trafficking in one of the prime necessities of life thoroughly disgust me. If it be true that only a wise man can successfully combat sudden prosperity, then it is obvious how to classify those responsible for the policy of the management of the Gardens Apartment at Forest Hills."

The committee which called on Mr. Aron yesterday in reference to the legal fight consisted of Albert Rohrback, in the motion-picture industry; P. L. Robbins, a bond broker; Frank Y. Low, engineer, E. F. Shiel, in the carpet business; H. MacRobert, drugs, and Mr. Bruce.

Mr. Earle said that he had come to no decision with respect to the protests of the tenants and would await their action.

The first of a series of non-partisan meetings to organize public sentiment on the pending rent bills in Albany was held last night at Public School 51, Trinity Avenue and 158th Street. The speakers were Senator Peter Abeles, John J. Boyle, Jr., and Alfred Simonds.

Senator Abeles explained the pending rent bills in Albany and urged the 400 men and women present to send representatives to Albany to urge the passage of the measures designed to relieve the situation.

OIL SHORTAGE MAY LEAVE CITY GASLESS

OTHERS SEE FAMINE COMING

Nixon Calls a Public Hearing—Navy and Wider Business Use Have Denuded Markets.

The New York and Richmond Gas Company has notified the Public Service Commission that its contract with the Gulf Refining Company for gas oil expires on March 31; that it could not renew the contract, and that without oil it would not be able to continue serving its customers.

Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon thereupon announced that a public hearing would be held at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning to inquire into the situation and discover whether the same problem confronts any of the other gas companies. He said that before complaining to the commission the Richmond Company had sought to contract with the Standard Oil companies, but was told they would not bid or consider any proposition to supply the oil, even for a limited period.

The New York and Richmond Company explained to the commission that it manufactures only water gas, made by a combination of steam and oil, and that it could not change its plant to make coal gas in less than nine or ten months. Mr. Nixon said that the company serves a large population in Richmond County. If it was compelled to suspend business there would follow great inconvenience and financial loss.

Robert E. Livingston of the Consolidated Gas Company, said last night that the companies in the other boroughs were facing a similar situation, though their oil contracts run nearly to the end of the year.

"The price of gas oil," said Mr. Livingston, "has increased from 3 or 4 cents a gallon to 7 to 15 cents. There is a great scarcity throughout the country, because large quantities are being used by the navy and by business concerns. Word from points in the West and South is that the market practically is denuded of gas oil, and nowhere is there any sign that the situation will improve."

Mr. Livingston said water gas was used extensively throughout the city and that even if only coal gas was manufactured it would have to be enriched with oil.

"The difficulty of obtaining gas oil," Mr. Nixon said, "is getting to be a serious concern to all gas companies in this city. Some have contracts expiring in April and June, and only a few have succeeded in renewing them. I have asked representatives of all the companies to attend the hearing and invitations have been sent to the various oil companies."

NAVY READY TO SEIZE OIL.

Needs 25,000,000 Barrels, 1,000,000 Was Offered, Says Daniels.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The navy is prepared to commandeer the fuel oil necessary for its fighting ships if its requirements are not covered at "reasonable" prices in the bids to be opened Tuesday for the next fiscal year, Secretary Daniels announced today. Less than 1,000,000 barrels were covered of the 25,000,000 asked in recent requests for bids.

"While it is noped that the exercise of our commandeering authority under the Lever act will not be necessary," Mr. Daniels said, "the American Navy must have its fuel."

The navy now is paying 83 cents a barrel f. o. b., Gulf ports, against a market price of around $3, for navy standard oil. The Secretary would not say what he considered a "reasonable" price on new contracts.

HALF-POUND BABY GAINS.

Jeanne Ousset, Smallest Infant on Record, Takes on Four Ounces.

The smallest baby on record, Jeanne Ousset, who weighed half a pound when born seventeen days ago to Mrs. Louis Ousset, 229 East Thirty-fifth Street, has gained a quarter of a pound, according to her doctor, H. Harris, of 152 East Thirty-fifth Street, and her nurse, Miss Louise Bernard, who were called to the home on the night of Feb. 23. On Feb. 24 twins were born. A boy, weighing three-quarters of a pound, died soon after birth, but as soon as it was discovered that the girl was gaining weight several prominent specialists were notified.

Dr. Henry Koplik, 30 East Sixty-second Street, an authority, said the case was unparalleled in his experience. He said he had not investigated the case, but if accurately reported it should be of great interest in medical circles. M. Budin of the Maternity Clinic of Paris quotes the record of his precedessor as to a baby weighing a trifle less than a pound.

Open Bazaar to Aid Foot Clinics.

A bazaar to raise funds to carry forward the work of the Foot Clinics of New York, an organization giving free foot treatment to the poor, will be held tonight and tomorrow night at the Chateau, 144 East Eighty-sixth Street. Mrs. Royal C. Copeland, wife of the Commissioner of Health, will open the bazaar. Last year the clinics treated 11,000 persons.

NEWBERRY DEFENSE COMPLETES ITS CASE

Suddenly Rests, and Arguments of Counsel Will Begin Tomorrow or Monday.

TRIAL MAY END IN A WEEK

Senator Has Nothing to Add to What Has Been Revealed in Letters to Paul King.

Special to The New York Times.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 11.—The Newberry defense suddenly rested its case this afternoon, after announcing that Paul H. King, one of the main respondents, would be able to appear in court tomorrow for cross-examination by the Government. But there is some doubt as to King being able to attend court tomorrow, and in that case the taking of testimony will be prolonged until Monday, with the case reaching the jury the following Saturday. If King is cross-examined tomorrow the trial will be closed Saturday, with arguments made and the Judge's charge delivered by Thursday of next week.

Only four of the eighty-five respondents testified, Paul H. King, Clarence L. Sibben, secretary to King; Mark T. McKee, King's former law partner, and George S. Ladd of Stockbridge, Mass.

Senator Newberry, it is said, has nothing to add to what has been revealed in the letters which passed between him and King. Attorneys for the defense assert that it would not be dignified for a United States Senator to testify in a trial of his character, where the main part of the conspiracy charged lies with the campaign managers and not with Newberry.

Arguments to the jury for both sides will take about sixteen hours, with the court taking a recess every two hours to give the Government attorneys a chance to rest, as the prosecution will have only two attorneys against fourteen for the defense. This means if the arguments begin Monday they will last into Wednesday forenoon. Requests to charge the jury will be voluminous, as every defendant will make requests to the court.

The list letter from King to Newberry, written Aug. 20, 1918, which Attorney Daily forced into the records over the objections of the defense, treated with Lieut. Gov. Dickinson's exposure of the Newberry money campaign, in which Newberry was called upon to withdraw from the race.

King said in that letter that he had convinced one newspaper that the question of expenditures in the campaign was not an issue and that he would not ask for space to deny anything the Lieutenant Governor had said.

The Government contends that this letter tends to show that when Dickinson called attention to an alleged violation of the law in the primaries, King held that expenses were not a factor. Two weeks later the committee's expense report was filed and showed expenditures of $176,000.

Seven on Police Force Promoted.

Police Commissioner Enright made seven promotions yesterday. Sergeants James F. Mooney of the Alexander Avenue Station, Bronx, and Harry V. Callahan, Atlantic Avenue Station, Brooklyn, were made Lieutenants. The five policemen who were advanced to Sergeants were Luke H. Grace, Marine Division; Joseph Pribyl, Traffic B; James J. Shuell, Bureau of Missing Persons; Anthony F. Battle, Motor Cycle Squad 2, and John F. Murphy, Snyder Avenue Station, Brooklyn.

WON'T MAKE PERSHING PERMANENT CHIEF

House Rejects Amendment—Leaves War Secretary Free to Pick Head of Staff.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Without a record vote, the House today refused to amend the Army Reorganization bill so as to make General Pershing the permanent Chief of Staff. In doing so, it approved the section permitting the Secretary of War to make the selection.

Representative Strong, Republican, of Kansas, offering the amendment, declared that "without it Pershing's war experience in the management of the army will be lost." But Representative Greene, Republican of Vermont, and Representative Caldwell, Democrat of New York, contended that the Secretary of War should be free to choose "the chief military adviser." General Pershing's assignment as Chief of Staff, Mr. Caldwell said, "would be a step down."

Objections by both Republicans and Democrats that the General Staff would be permitted to rule the War Department and the army under the Reorganization bill resulted in adoption of an amendment that would prevent assumption of administrative functions by the staff.

Representative Johnson, Republican of South Dakota, tried to have the bill amended so as to provide for radical changes in the administration of military justice. A motion to include the Chamberlain-Johnson court-martial measure, was voted down, 74 to 66.

To Judge Columbia Football Song.

Victor Herbert, Albert W. Putnam and John Philip Sousa have been selected as judges of the contest for the best Columbia football song. It was announced yesterday. The competition, open to all students and alumni, is for a $100 prize offered by the Columbia Alumni News, and is to be awarded on Commencement Day, June 2. The contest closes April 1.

But it doesn't happen often—unless you are the exception, or have been very lucky in your choice of a bed.

Beds are made to sleep in—yet the chances are that your bed (whether wood or the ordinary metal bed) creaks slightly here, is a little unsteady there. Not much perhaps, but quite enough to disturb that complete relaxation you must have for perfect repose.

• • •

It is wonderful how the right kind of Bed Spring invites perfect relaxation and deep, sound sleep.

The good spring is taut and flat, yet resilient. It supports the body at ease in any sleeping position—conforms to the contours—never weakens, lumps or sags.

Look at the Springs built by Simmons Company—Springs built for sleep.

For forty years Simmons Company has been making Beds and Springs to promote sleep.

It is the maker of really noiseless Metal Beds—beds that stand sturdy and firm—not a shake, creak or rattle anywhere.

• • •

If you know only wooden beds or ordinary metal beds and springs—ask the leading dealer in your section about Simmons.

With the addition of Mattresses to their well-known Metal Beds and Springs, the Simmons line is the most popular complete sleeping equipment in America today—built for sleep.

They are built for sleep—yet they cost little if any more than the casual merchandise of the ordinary store.

And when you are selecting your Simmons Beds with an eye to their appearance in the room, you will see that Simmons has for the first time established beautiful and authoritative design in Metal Beds.

Sleep is a big subject! Write us for the brochure, "What Leading Medical Journals and Health Magazines Say about Separate Beds and Sound Sleep." Free of charge.

AS FRANCE SEES IT.

Since the Peace Treaty was drafted nothing has wounded the French people more than the reflection, charge or insinuation that they have yielded to the military party and called militarists to the Government. The passage in Mr. WILSON'S letter to Senator HITCHCOCK in which there was an intimation to that effect implied that the French should have had more faith in the ratification of the Peace Treaty and the acceptance of the covenant, but it should also be read in the light of the declaration that Governments which reject Article X. will be guilty of bad faith to their own people, who made "infinite sacrifices," and "will be acting also in "bad faith to the opinion of the world "at large, to which they appealed for "support in a concerted stand against "the aggressions and pretensions of "Germany." Public opinion in France does not understand, quite naturally, that Mr. WILSON is arguing with the best intentions for favorable action by the United States Senate upon a compact that would have the effect of relieving France from the burden of keeping up her armaments for defense against Germany. Mr. WILSON'S reference to France was not tactful, but he used it as an illustration to persuade his opponents in the Senate that delay in ratification accounted for what he regarded as a return to militarism in France, which he deprecated strongly.

The French have not been mollified by Mr. WILSON'S good intentions. They turn the argument upon him and say that it was only because the United States had failed them, or shown itself indifferent to the ideals and guarantees of the covenant, that France was compelled to look to her powder to see that it was dry and to stand on guard. Surely it is not Mr. WILSON'S fault that the United States has not kept the faith. It is true, as ANDRE TARDIEU and other publicists say, that France has borne the heaviest burden of occupation duty, while the United States has taken no such weight upon its back and, furthermore, has not shared in the mandates which required the protection of populations against massacre in Anatolia, Armenia, Cilicia. And for almost a year the United States has failed to ratify the Peace Treaty, so that France has had to consider the defense of her territory by her own sword. That is the French answer to Mr. WILSON. And the French believe that as a people they hate militarism.

THEY USUALLY COOL OFF.

A report from Italy, which may or may not be well founded, predicts the not very distant arrival of a Socialist Ministry headed by Mr. TURATI. The forty Socialist Deputies in the War Chamber were increased to 150 in the elections last Fall, but Mr. NITTI'S internal reforms have cut a good deal of the ground from under their feet. Socialism in Italy is largely Bolshevistic, and the new men who were brought into the Chamber by the recent elections came in with desperate plans, and formidable programs which were to bring about the millennium before Christmas. Advice of older and wiser persons induced them to give up their plan of insulting the King and generally making life in Parliament unendurable, and except for some occasional fist fights and exchanges of harsh words they have behaved very tamely.

But there remains the social program, and if a Turati Ministry is as near as the dispatch from Milan would suggest, one might expect a great upheaval in Italian social life. But the same dispatch gives a summary of TURATI'S policy:

> His internal measures include improvement of national agriculture, regional adaptation of water power for the needs of industrial progress, abolition of socially unproductive landlordism, and requisition of uncultivated and badly cultivated areas for transformation into vast national agricultural domains under the trusteeship of peasant groups and of co-operative labor organizations.

Nothing like a political revolution in this; if the public were compelled to guess at the author of such a program, except as to peasant group trusteeship, suspicion might easily fall on HERBERT HOOVER or FRANKLIN K. LANE. State control of agriculture, to be sure, will be somewhat more intensive than has been necessary here, but that can be ascribed to local conditions. What is TURATI'S foreign policy? According to the same authority, it is, in effect:

> War against war, general disarmament, open ports, whole-hearted adoption of the free trade system, international facilities for exchange of raw materials and colonial reform on the basis of humane co-operative management.

At home and abroad this is nothing more than a rather advanced liberalism taking forms specially adapted to the present needs of Italy. Mr. TURATI is a veteran in Parliament; he has seen the workings of government for a long time, and knows what can be and what cannot be done overnight. Doubtless most of his fire-eaters who are now sitting for the first time in the Chamber will undergo a somewhat similar transformation with more experience.

FEDERAL SUFFRAGE IN SIGHT.

West Virginia makes the thirty-fourth State to ratify the Anthony amendment, granting full Federal suffrage to woman all over the Union. Only two more States are needed to ratify the amendment, and Delaware and Washington are about to act on the matter at special sessions of their Legislatures called by the Governors of those States.

It is practically certain that the necessary thirty-six States will have ratified the amendment in time to give women the privilege of voting in the Presidential election. By this amendment ratified by State Legislatures suffrage is imposed, not granted. States that do not want it in their own territory because of local conditions are compelled to accept it. The suffragist answer to this charge is that it is only the men of those States who do not want it, and that women are people.

It is only an assumption to say that the women of those States want it. They are just as likely to oppose it in their own boundaries as are the men, and for the same reasons. It would quite probably be found that in such States only a minority of women would favor suffrage. Where the women really want the vote the men have always stood ready to grant them the privilege. That is why suffrage has made such headway in the States; where there has been a doubt the men have given the women the benefit of it.

EXCESS PROFITS TAXATION.

It is good news that Secretary HOUSTON takes up the movement for the reconsideration of the excess profits tax which Secretary GLASS started, and which he can be relied upon to support in the Senate. The tax was imposed as punishment of the rich at all times, not as punishment of war profiteers. In practice it has been found that the rich are able to protect themselves by putting their property in tax-exempt securities, the refuge provided for them when these taxes were imposed. The contradiction between the tax and its antidote is glaring, but it was not intentional, a mere blunder, one of many. The vengeance which the excess profits tax fails to visit upon the too rich cannot be escaped by anybody else. In practice the excess profits tax turns out to be a consumption tax or commodity tax. When possible it is shifted by the producers of goods upon the consumers of goods, with a little more to make sure that the calculation favors those making it.

The laws of 1913 and 1916 attempted to tax the owners of the shares of the corporations with excessive surpluses as if the dividends had been declared. Those laws failed, and there is no public record of any collection of undistributed excess profits under the laws of 1918 or 1919. The law of 1917 also failed in the attempt to levy a surtax on the corporations whose profits were accumulated rather than divided, but that attempt also was a failure. In connection with the stock dividend decision there are published long lists of accumulated surpluses which have been piled up, and which may be divided without taxation under the Supreme Court's decision this week. This is being represented as the exemption of the rich from taxation, with the result of overtaxing the poor. That is a false and inflammatory representation of the working of the law designed to overtax the rich, without recognition or statement that the law itself is the cause of the trouble, so far as it exists.

The extent to which bad tax laws are evaded is the strongest argument for better laws, for taxes not too burdensome to pay, and which will not constrict trade. It is not a happy suggestion that the loss by repealing excess profits taxes shall be made good by an increase of the surtax in the upper brackets. Secretary GLASS reported that "the upmost brackets of "the surtax have already passed the "point of productivity, and the only "consequence of any further increase "would be to drive possessors of these "great incomes more and more to "place their wealth in the billions of "dollars of wholly exempt securities."

If the production of revenue is made the main object, there are many taxes in the history of both this country and other countries which can be collected without excess burden on any class, and therefore with benefit to trade. The mystery recurs why the framers of the taxes which are so disappointing in their workings did not resort to any of many stamp taxes which have been productive in great degree and which are both difficult to evade and easy to collect. Also, Mr. OTTO KAHN has made convincing arguments in favor of taxing consumption with a view to reducing the excess of demand over supply, rather than to tax wealth and investment with the reverse effect of decreasing production and thus enlarging the excess of demand over supply, with the result of high and higher cost of living. There is no reluctance to pay just taxes, and there is almost an embarrassment of taxable resources.

ULSTER YIELDS.

With what Lord MORLEY would call "a sombre acquiescence," the Ulster Unionist Council, following the advice of Sir EDWARD CARSON, has resolved not to oppose the new Home Rule bill. That bill erects into a separate jurisdiction, represented in a separate Northern Parliament, the so-called Six-County area of Ulster, a pretty homogeneous region. Thus Northeast Ulster would be a district of a Protestant majority and a Catholic minority, just as in the South and West there will be a Catholic majority and a Protestant minority. This exclusion of Northeast Ulster has been promised by Mr. LLOYD GEORGE and various other politicians. It is the minimum of concession that Ulster would accept. The Protestants in three other Northern counties are said to be distressed because they, too, are not included in the Northern jurisdiction.

Admitting the necessity of the division, however, the one arrived at is as just as could be expected. It is unpleasant to mention religious animosities of old date, and perhaps much too much has been made of them. Ulster is a great industrial district. Rightly or wrongly, it has feared that its economic effectiveness and strength would be injured under a Government dominated by the South and West. If the South and West can be brought to accept the principles of the new Home Rule bill, which, of course, may yet receive considerable amendment; if the Dublin Parliament should show a zeal for orderly and effective administration, for sound and just laws; if the South and West should be prosperous, the suspicions and fears of the North might be abated, might slowly die away. It will be for Dublin to convince, to win Belfast.

Both the South and the North can make strong arguments on their sides of the controversy. The trouble is that neither is just to the case of its opponent. It is true that Ulster has had to yield, in a sense, because if the new Home Rule bill isn't passed the suspended Home Rule act of 1914 will be revived and there will be a Home Rule Parliament for all Ireland in Dublin. In principle Ulster is sturdily opposed to Home Rule, but the exclusion of the Six-County area gives her her main object if the legislative Union of Ireland and Great Britain is no longer possible.

In the South and West the Unionists appear to be unreconciled. It is for the majority to show them that their dread of the proposed new arrangement was unjustified. It is to be hoped that acts of violence by the extreme Sinn Feiners will cease. The new bill, which will come to a second reading some time this month, is a compromise. Its reservation to the Imperial Parliament of control over the customs and excise taxes is necessary, for some time at least, as a guarantee to the business interests of the North. It remains to be seen whether the radicals of the South and West are beyond control by the moderate, thrifty and orderly parts of the population.

THE PEACETIME REACTION.

The first anniversary of the founding of the New Symphony Orchestra is an occasion delightfully out of harmony with what has seemed to be the spirit of these times. Public schools and universities admit that they are losing their best teachers for the lack of funds. Army and navy, likewise, are threatened with anaemia where the blood should be richest and most vigorous. Publishers lament that they can no longer afford to assist new talent to a career, and the libraries are seriously hampered in their service of the reading public. But in a single year an orchestra devoted to classical music of the highest quality has become a metropolitan institution, and one of the most valuable. Such a phenomenon gives optimism a new warrant.

Twelve months ago a group of orchestral players banded themselves together with the humble aim of giving six concerts in the weeks between the end of the fashionable musical season and the beginning of Summer. Their success was instantaneous, and demonstrated the highly important fact that the love of the best music has ceased to be the distinction of cult and coterie and has spread to the general public. After the second of the three programs, ARTUR BODANZKY, with the permission of the Metropolitan Opera, took charge of the orchestra and made his bow as a symphonic conductor. This season eight pairs of concerts have been given, and two are to come. Midway in the season CLARENCE H. MACKAY took the Presidency of the society and ADOLPH LEWISOHN the Chairmanship of the Directors. Beginning in June, the orchestra will play nightly for the ten weeks of Summer in the Lewisohn Stadium. Next season, instead of twenty concerts, the orchestra will give sixty, extending its recitals to neighboring cities. The sole leadership of such an organization would obviously clash with Mr. BODANZKY'S duties to the Metropolitan Opera, and he is to have the assistance of the eminent Dutch conductor WILLEM MENGELBERG for a part of the series.

There have been other indications of late that the intellectual and artistic reaction which has come with peace has been exaggerated and, indeed, misunderstood. Universities and schools are frequented in the usual numbers, in spite of the weakening of the teaching forces. Cramped as the public library is in its administrative resources, the number of readers and of books called for has increased 17 per cent. in the last year, far outstripping all other libraries, including that of the British Museum. Even the theatre, supposed stamping ground of the war-made rich, has found a huge public for artistic drama of the first order.

The public is alive to things of the mind and the spirit as never before. No stronger argument has yet been advanced for a liberal response to the needs of all our great institutions of light and leading.

A THOROUGHLY BAD BILL.

Senator BURLINGAME of Brooklyn is Chairman of the State Senate Judiciary Committee. It is he who says he does not intend to grant a hearing on his bill to withdraw the Borough of Richmond from the Second Judicial District, which now comprises all Long Island and the Borough of Richmond, and add it to the First Judicial District of Manhattan and the Bronx. The only conceivable purpose of the measure is to make the Second Judicial District even more Republican and the First Judicial District even more Democratic. Last year's elections may have convinced Mr. CHARLES F. MURPHY that Manhattan and the Bronx are far from impregnably Democratic, are capable of an independence and surprises most annoying to a boss.

Against the bill are all the Bar Associations, divers Judges and civic societies, the Republican organizations of the Bronx and Manhattan, Richmond, Suffolk, Brooklyn Young Republican Club, the Kings County Democratic Organization. There is no excuse for the bill. As Senator LOCKWOOD of Kings says, "it is bad policy and bad politics." The attempt to make it a caucus measure failed. Five Republican Senators refuse to support it. It can be passed only by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats. Will they dare to pass it? Will they dare to defy public opinion?

BEARS IN WESTCHESTER.

If any one is looking earnestly for a sign of Spring, the appearance of Ursus Americanus on the Croton Aqueduct above Tarrytown should be conclusive, for the black bear is supposed to be a hibernating animal. The bears reported are through with Winter and are foraging, but why they have fared so far south would puzzle even WILLIAM T. HORNADAY, who has hunted from Java to Sonora and has an intimate knowledge of plantigrade creatures. What cannot be understood is why any bear should be so intrepid as to wander about the country place of CASPAR WHITNEY, who has invaded the Barren Lands in quest of musk ox. By staying quietly at home he might have had a shot at a black bear from his dooryard. According to the author of "Gleanings from Nature," bears "do not confine "themselves to animal food, but eat "succulent vegetables and honey." At this time of the year these luxuries are not to be found outdoors in Westchester. The bears reported within electric train service of the metropolis must have been as disappointed as the dog of Mother Hubbard.

After a hard Winter it will not do to be skeptical about stories of bears visiting country estates looking out on the Tappan Zee. The evidence that specimens have been seen with the naked eye might be better, but it is in favor of credibility that the times are dry. Upon the testimony of an estimable gentleman, the tracks of a bear were once seen in the Pleasantville region of Westchester, but the actual bear escaped his scrutiny. Now we have the unsworn but solemn statements of several persons that bears, one three feet high, probably an orphan, have penetrated the Washington Irving country. The great war seems to have affected even wild life with unrest.

After all, bears are common enough in Pike County, Pa., and in the Southern Catskills, which are not far away from New York, and who shall measure their wanderings? In Pennsylvania last year 200 bears were killed by hunters. In "the heart of the Southern Catskills," celebrated by JOHN BURROUGHS, a dozen bears are slain and trapped every year. "The black bear," says Mr. HORNADAY, "is an interesting citizen. He harms nobody "nor anything." Furthermore, says this authority: "The black bear is a "timid animal, and always runs "when observed by man. It is a "good climber, runs quite swiftly "when pursued, but in a rough-and-"tumble fight it hawls, roars and "coughs." To this nature note is added: "If thine enemy offend thee, present him with a black bear cub." The bear seen upraised on the Croton Aqueduct was three feet tall. The opportunity of Westchester residents having antipathies need not be dwelt upon.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Extortion Resisted Successfully.

A highly complicated emotion must have developed in many minds when the possessors of them read of the vindication in court by the purchaser of a ham of his right to pay for it, not the amount demanded by the seller, but only the considerably smaller amount which in the opinion of the buyer would have been a reasonable charge. That is not, indeed, exactly what the court decided, its verdict being really that the buyer's judgment was sound in this particular case, that the seller could not collect for his merchandise and his services in preparing it for consumption more than they were worth when judged by the rule of reason as applied in such transactions.

The court rendering this decision is considerably lower than the United States Supreme Court, but its ruling is still of importance, and until, or unless, set aside it will justify consumers in taking what to many of them certainly will be a new view of bills rendered—the view that it is feasible and worth while to resist extortionate demands.

It may even arouse a new sense of civic or social duty, and well it may, for he who tamely allows himself to be exploited encourages the exploiters both to continue and to extend their activities, and so, in a sense and to a degree, himself incurs a moral if not a legal responsibility for the offense of which he is a victim. He becomes a sort of economic pacifist, leaving to others the trouble and expense of defending his own rights, and of this he cannot be guilty, of course, without imperiling the rights of others.

An Example Worthy of Imitation.

Something more and higher than a desire to save $11 on the price of a cooked ham must have moved the winner of this fame-deserving battle to stand suit rather than pay for the ham what he believed to be an excessive price, unwarranted even in days when all prices are high. He knew that even in case of success he would lose more than $11 worth of time, and if he had legal advice, as he presumably did, that, too, would go into $11 considerably less than no times with nothing over.

Evidently he was fighting for principle, not for $11, and if his appreciation of the principle was partly due to irritated weariness, the result of paying many previous charges of equally disputable righteousness, that should not be counted against him in decrease of merit. That he celebrated his victory by writing a check for $500 and handing it over to a worthy charity shows, as he said, that he is "no piker"—it also shows that the loss of $11 was no great matter to him in one sense, but was a great matter, as it should have been, in another sense.

If more men similarly would inconvenience themselves, the way of the profiteer would become a rough and thorny one, instead of the smooth and easy highway it is at present, and the cost of living would be measurably decreased for everybody.

"Necessary" Strained in Meaning.

Far more plausible than pleasant is an assertion made by one of the delegates to the recent convention in this city of the Retail Clothiers' Association. He said that prices of clothing were going to come down, but not for at least a year, and that meanwhile something of an advance was not impossible.

Such predictions are too familiar to be exciting, for they have been the basis of all the "buy now" exhortations that so kindly have been addressed to us all from so many quarters. If the prophetic clothier had been content only to prophesy, nobody would have minded; but he went on to explain why there could be no drop in prices for some time, and explanations are always more or less dangerous, as they invite inquiry and comment.

Reductions must be deferred, declared the expert, because "woolens now in our stocks have cost us from 50 to 100 per cent. more than they have ever cost us before, and it is necessary for us to sell these goods at a comparatively high price."

Why "necessary"? It would be not at all necessary, if they could be replaced at lower prices than were paid for them, for the economists who defend the fixing of retail prices by what they call "replacement value" do not insist that the rule works only one way—against the consumer. Competition is supposed to see to it that the rule works both ways, and the only means of preventing the "replace-value" principle from helping the consumer when wholesale or original prices go down is for the owners of stocks bought at high prices to get together and agree not to let it do so. The only "necessity" for them to do that is what they think the necessity for them to avoid losses. They are not to be blamed for regarding losses as painful, or for seeking to elude them, but their notions of "necessity" are a bit Teutonic.

Her Duty Not Yet Fulfilled.

Praise of any sort for the Germans comes reluctantly from their recent antagonists in war, but it must be admitted that the German Government is acting with propriety in regard to the assaults to which certain foreign officials now rightfully in Germany have been subjected. Not only has it promptly and adequately apologized for these outrages, but its authorised spokesmen have accurately and vigorously characterised the "rowdy patriots" who thus have disgraced themselves and added to the heavy burdens their country is carrying.

So far, so good. There remains something still for Germany to do, however—the taking of effectual measures to prevent a repetition of such crimes and the punishment of the men already guilty. That would settle the matter satisfactorily, for as every country has its "rowdy patriots," such stupid ebullitions are likely to occur anywhere, and no country can afford to regard them as irreparable injuries.

In Germany the insulting of foreigners who are also representatives of the Allies has an added seriousness because it indicates lack of repentance for past misdeeds and a determination to repeat them.

END THE TREATY FIGHT.

Senate Contest Doing Harm to the Whole Country.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The most absorbing public question in the United States today is as to what the Senate is doing with the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations and what is the cause of the irritating and altogether unreasonable and unbusinesslike delay in ratification.

We are now probably the richest and most powerful nation in the world and should be respected by every country and Government, but unfortunately at this moment we are not only ridiculed by the rest of the world but we have lost their respect, and we, as a people, do not deserve to occupy this humiliating position.

The Senate carries our honor and our character as a nation in its hands, and it has, I fear, proved recreant to its trust, and has, in effect, announced to the world that while we are rich in dollars we have no real stamina and do not loyally support our allies; that we are an aggregation of cowards, afraid of our own shadows and willing to see the whole structure of many Governments and the happiness and safety of their people sacrificed in order to make a long-drawn-out campaign issue of the League of Nations.

I say without fear of successful contradiction that upon this League depends the happiness and financial stability and even the food of many of the nations of Europe, and still some of our so-called wise Senators dare to dally with and split hairs over it when delays are grievously destructive. The American people want the treaty signed and the League put into effect at once and have wanted it for many months, as appears by the number of petitions presented to and delegations received by the Senate committee from representative bodies all over the country.

The situation is that the Senate is merely splitting hairs, and we must search for the motive. As far as I can understand it, there appears to be an underlying intention to make the treaty a party issue in the next Presidential campaign, and a large number of the Senators wish to carry out this plan for their personal interests.

The situation is a most humiliating one for the American people. Delegations and petitions of the people representing the whole nation have urged in vain for the passing of the treaty and League, and not one representative voice has been raised against it.

We were charged as a nation with only wanting to make money out of the necessities and terrible war strain in Europe, but we are proud of the fact that we finally entered the war and held up our end in a magnificent way. After this splendid accomplishment we are now, to all appearances, deliberately going back on our allies and leaving the world to its fate without the courage to join in the efforts to prevent future wars, and possibly a greater and more disastrous one than that through which we have just passed.

We have earned the suspicion and dislike of the civilized nations. We are giving aid and support to our enemies and building up the strength of Germany in Russia in such a way as to be a menace to the peace of the whole world. The dark cloud of Bolshevism can be met and dispelled only by united action under the League. And why is this? Not because the treaty and League are not acceptable to the American people and not even because they are not substantially approved of by the Senate itself, for on the one bone of contention, namely, Article X., the Senate has already, by a majority vote, accepted the Lodge-McCumber reservation. If the situation were not so grave and full of peril it would be a farce, and it reminds one of Nero fiddling while a great city was being consumed in flames.

If a large number of the Senators are using the power delegated to them by the people simply to suit their personal purposes and, absolutely against the expressed will of their constituents, it would look very much like a breach of trust. To relegate this question to become a party issue at the next Presidential campaign and be a football for the politicians is a subterfuge, and to allow this view of the matter to control his vote for political purposes would appear, I think, to be a prostitution of the great honor and dignity and responsibility of being a Senator of the United States. If the Republican leaders do not get together and pass the treaty and League without further delay, it will spell disaster for the party for many years to come.

It is reported that President Wilson would not approve of the League if the Lodge-McCumber amendment is substituted for the original Article X. I cannot believe that any President would take such a responsibility. If he should do so he would be more harmful to the public welfare than even Senator Lodge, and that is saying much.

CHESTER GLASS.

New York, March 4, 1920.

Mrs. Caroline A. Creevey.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mrs. Caroline A. Creevey of New York, who died in Florida last week, was one of the real "intellectuals." Interested in the best in literature and art, especially in music, she diffused around her wherever she went an atmosphere of culture and refinement. A graduate of the Leipsic School of Music, she played the piano with wonderful skill. She held the diploma of Wheaton College (in its seminary days), and upon the fiftieth anniversary of her graduation, in 1913, thrilled the commencement gathering there with her vivid reminiscences of the civil war.

Mrs. Creevey was an expert botanist and her two valuable books upon flowers and plants are authoritative. She was a deeply religious woman, after the old understanding of New England pattern. In a delightful book of reminiscences, which she called "A Daughter of the Puritans," she sketches inimitably her early religious experience. It was full of pathos, but was not without its humorous features, full of a subtle wit such as some of her friends had not suspected Mrs. Creevey of possessing.

Few women whom New York has lost in recent years will be missed as she will be by a large circle of friends as will this gifted, strong-minded, strong-souled daughter of New England.

KATE UPSON CLARK.

A BALLAD OF DEMOTION.

The Ides of General March have come!
Demote, ye men, demote!
Thou Colonel's eagle, fly away!
Perch not upon his coat!

The argent maple-leaf has turned
To its Majority;
Autumnal is the golden badge
Of almost-Colonelcy.

And he who was a Major grim,
Battalioning in France,
Is hoping that a Roman Two
Gives him a fighting chance.

Worse fate, a Major of the line
Is jugging 'fore a band;
And "Caps" and "Lieuts" are Sergeants—if
They hold a winning hand.

"Old Sarge" is just a Corporal;
And "Corp" is plain old "buck";
But here's to Them, and here's to Now!
There's always lots of luck!

STUARTS LEAD SALE.

Gilbert Stuart's "Portrait of James Conner" brought the highest price at the sale at the Anderson Galleries last evening of a collection of paintings, including a large number of American portraits, from London and other sources.

The portrait, No. 37, which went to the Ehrich Galleries for $2,000, was a bust at three-quarters, powdered hair, white neckerchief, jabot and waistcoat and light gray double-breasted coat. On a table at one side of the figure was a book open, "The Rights of Man," an ink well and quill pens and several legal volumes, one bearing the title: "Conner's Reports." James Conner was born in Youghal, Ireland, born in 1773, and came to America in 1795.

"Portrait of Miss Marie Louise Parker," by Thomas Sully, No. 12, went to the Ehrich Galleries for $526; for the "Portrait of Mrs. G. Burns," by Charles Willson Peale, No. 35, they paid $500, and $400 for No. 45, "Group of a Gentleman and Lady," by John Singleton Copley. "Portrait of John William Wallace," by John Neagle, No. 30, went to J. F. Lewis for $325; to Lewis went also No. 28, "Portrait of President James Madison," by George Cahill, for $200; No. 29, Portrait of Mrs. Elizabeth George," by Gilbert Stuart for $1,625; No. 39, "Portrait of a Girl," by Thomas Sully for $200 and No. 64, "Portrait of General Rochambeau," for $430.

"Portrait of Charles Merritt," by Gilbert Stuart, No. 20, went to Albert Rosenthal for $500, and No. 24, "Portrait of Martin Van Buren," by Gilbert Stuart, went to the same buyer for $625. Gilbert Stuart's "Portrait of George Washington," No. 22, known as the Bertram-Philip Washington, will be here hung in the Philip manor house at Tarrytown from the time it was built, went to M. De Reath for $1,500, the second highest price of the evening. Another "Portrait of George Washington," by Charles Peale Polk, No. 34, a pastel, a youthful work by the nephew of Charles Willson Peale, went to De Reath for $600. The returns for the evening were $14,445. The sale will be concluded tonight.

ILARIO NERI SALE.

Ancient Italian Wrought Iron Pieces Bring High Prices.

Many of the smaller articles of the Ilario Neri collection, which includes treasures from old palaces in Venice and Rome, were in the opening sale at the Clarke Galleries yesterday afternoon. A pair of sixteenth century wrought iron torchères brought one of the higher prices of the day, going to M. P. Villa for $300. A sixteenth century Florentine walnut refectory table was knocked down to Mrs. Amos Pinchot for $220, while Mrs. F. de R. Peale paid $210 for another refectory table of the same period, of Tuscan walnut. A seventeenth century Tuscan walnut cabinet went to Mrs. H. R. Peck for $195, and a seventeenth century Bolognese walnut table to Mrs. Peck for $155. Another seventeenth century Bolognese desk went to Mrs. S. P. Pierrepont for $175.

F. Burrall Hoffman gave $160 for a pair of eighteenth century Venetian iron lamps with standards and bases; a seventeenth century Venetian walnut cassone went to Mrs. W. R. Massie for $160, and an eighteenth century Venetian walnut bedstead to Mrs. E. S. Anderson for $160. The sale will be continued this afternoon.

INSURED AGAINST ILLNESS.

New Bill Presented by Senator Davenport to Protect Workers.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 11.—Compulsory health insurance for all workers in the State is provided in a bill introduced in the Legislature today by Senator Frederick M. Davenport. The measure provides minimum benefits for sickness and for medical, surgical, hospital, sanatorium, and dental treatment and cash benefits for sickness, maternity, and funerals.

Senator Davenport said he would not press for final passage of the bill until an intelligent public opinion was back of it. Public opinion now, he added, was possessed to "some thin and certain other great measures of social amelioration by a subtle and organized propaganda."

Employers and employes share all expenses and manage the illness prevention and insurance system through a Board of Directors selected by themselves equally, under the terms of the bill. There are no so-called "company physicians," workers calling their own physicians. There is no State fund, and the State does nothing except exercise a limited possibly geographical and financial supervision. Industrial establishments are organized into illness insurance units.

KANSAS OUSTING RADICALS.

Governor Allen Tells of State's Industrial Progress.

Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas, at a luncheon arranged by R. J. Caldwell, President of the R. J. Caldwell Cotton Fabrics Manufacturing Company, and attended by representatives of industrial organizations and prominent members of the bar, told of the labor situation in Kansas. He described how the Industrial Relations Court had, since it was formed in December last, driven many of the radical element from Kansas, and has aided in speeding up production.

"Radicals are gradually filtering away from the State of Kansas," said Governor Allen. "Let them drift, I say. We are building in Kansas a mecca of sane industrialism and industrialists which will wean industries away from even New York, if New York does not see the wisdom of adopting some measure similarly efficacious in place of out-worn methods of settling industrial disputes."

$100,000 GIFT TO CORNELL.

Income from New Dormitory Will Go to Endowment Fund.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 11.—A gift of $100,000 to Cornell University for erection of a new dormitory to be named in honor of the donors' parents was made today by W. G. Mennen and his sister, Mrs. Emma Mennen Williams, of Detroit, according to announcement tonight.

Income from the building is to be diverted to the university endowment fund to increase faculty salaries. Mr. Mennen graduated from Cornell University in the class of 1908.

Announcement was also made that Sao K. Alfred Sze, Chinese Ambassador to Great Britain and a graduate of Cornell University in 1901, has given $500 to the endowment fund. Mr. Sze was a Chinese delegate to the Peace Conference.

$450,000 RAISED FOR POOR.

Dwight W. Morrow Issues Appeal for Aid in $975,000 Drive.

Dwight W. Morrow announced yesterday that nine teams canvassing for the $975,000 fund sought by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor had raised $450,000. In emphasizing the need for obtaining the balance of $525,000 in the six remaining days of the campaign, Mr. Morrow said: "The A. I. C. P. is asking for a very small amount in proportion to those vast sums which have been collected during the last few years for people in foreign countries suffering like conditions. I firmly believe the residents of New York will furnish the response to this appeal in the same generous spirit which they have shown so many times before."

CATHOLICS TO ENLIST 20,000 IN CHARITIES

FORMS SIX BIG BUREAUS

Mgr. Dunn Placed in Charge of Membership Drive to Finance New Project.

Following the survey he has just had made of the charities of the Roman Catholic Diocese of New York, Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes announced to 301 pastors of the Archdiocese yesterday morning in Cathedral College, Madison Avenue and Fifty-first Street, that in an effort to coordinate, standardize and extend the charities he had formed an Archbishop's Committee of the Laity, had established a headquarters and charity week to conduct a campaign for 200,000 members through which he hopes the first year to raise $500,000; in the second, $750,000, and in the third, if possible, $1,000,000. The members are to be permanent and to make an annual contribution.

Archbishop Hayes said he had named as director of the membership campaign Mgr. John J. Dunn, Chancellor of the Archdiocese, and that he had appointed an Executive Committee and named as its Chairman George J. Gillespie, lawyer, of 20 Vesey Street.

The Archbishop said he had divided the archdiocese into sixteen districts, with the parishes as units, and that he wanted 20,000 volunteer workers. He stated he had divided the charities into six great bureaus: The Division of Relief, the Division of Children, General Administration, the Division of Health, the Division of Protective Care and the Division of Social Action.

The Archbishop's Committee of the Laity will undertake the financing of the bureaus. Mgr. Hayes called for 20,000 volunteer workers, laymen and women of the archdiocese, to labor in the sixteen geographical districts. The members of the committee will be known as the Parish Auxiliary.

Fees to Finance Work.

Through membership fees, the Archbishop stated, he would provide for financing the large body of workers. These, he said, would, when he requested, undertake other works as well as the financial campaign. This is to be carried on from April 25 to April 30.

At present the headquarters will remain in the suite of offices at 9 East Fortieth Street, where it has been for the last few weeks, but beginning May 1 permanent headquarters will be at Cathedral College, where offices are now being arranged.

Mr. Gillespie for the next few months will devote practically all his time to the work. Other members of the Executive Committee are John G. Agar, Nicholas F. Brady, W. Bourke Cockran, George L. Duval, Joseph F. Farrell, Thomas F. Farrell, Joseph P. Grace, William D. Guthrie, Henry Haide, Alfred J. Johnson, Peter J. Maloney, George McDonald, Alfonso de Navarro, Morgan J. O'Brien, John D. Ryan, Dr. Harry P. Swift, Myles Tierney, Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady, Mrs. Michael Devlin, Miss Georgine Iselin, Mrs. Thomas Hughes Kelley, Miss Teresa O'Donohue, Mrs. William F. Sheehan, Mrs. Henry W. Taft and Mrs. Cornelius Tiers.

The Archbishop himself has been named as honorary campaign Chairman. He said that Mgr. Dunn would be assisted with an office force consisting of the Rev. Robert F. Keegan, who has been the Supervisor of Catholic Charities; the Rev. Brian J. McEntegart, the Rev. John J. McCahill, the Rev. James H. Flood, the Rev. Edward A. Hayes, F. J. Hall, and Joseph C. Ryan. The Rev. James F. Kelly would be the director of statistics and supplies and the Rev. Ignatius Smith, pastor of the Dominican Church of St. Catherine of Siena, would serve as director of the Speakers' Bureau.

Location of Districts.

Archbishop Hayes said the fourteen districts mapped out so far would be as follows:

Division I., Staten Island, with its seventeen parishes; Division II., from the Battery to Fourteenth Street, west of Broadway, with its twelve parishes; Division III., from the Battery to Fourteenth Street, east of Broadway, with its twenty-five parishes; Division IV., from Fourteenth to Fifty-ninth Street, west of Fifth Avenue, with its twenty parishes; Division V., from Fourteenth to Fifty-ninth Street, east of Fifth Avenue, with its fifteen parishes; Division VI., Fifty-ninth to 145th Street, west of Fifth Avenue, with its fifteen parishes; Division VII., Fifty-ninth Street to the Harlem River, east of

BOLSHEVIKI STERN CRITICS OF ART

Discourage Mediocrity by Making Painters Scrape Off Pictures Exhibitions Reject.

FUTURISM FIRST RAN RIOT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 11.—The Russian Futurist sculptor Archipenko, one of the leading exponents of the Modernist movement in Paris, has given THE NEW YORK TIMES a remarkable account of artistic development under the Bolsheviki. He said:

"One of the results of the revolution was a great stimulus to painting and sculpture, especially of Futurist tendencies. There were three reasons for this. Firstly, every untrained youngster who felt the spur of artistic impulse seemed to think that futurism meant nothing but splashing a lot of brilliant color together on canvas—or any other available surface. Self-expression along these lines was easy, and friends of mine who were in Russia during the first year of the revolution say that some towns were a regular riot of vivid decoration. Walls, doors, roofs, palings, and even trees rivaled the rainbow with their variegated blaze of color.

"The second reason was psychological. Many artists who formerly abhorred futurism were caught by the wave of change and novelty that the revolution brought in its train and set themselves to rival the Futurists in wild and startling compositions.

"The third reason was a practical one. During the early days it was not certain whether artists would be considered workers or bourgeoisie, and many well-known members of the old school of court-painters and so on were harshly treated or imprisoned. Accordingly, to be a Futurist became a sort of guarantee of good revolutionary standing and old-fashioned painting was at a discount.

"Later there came a change for a rather simple reason. The Bolsheviki wanted to have portraits of their best-known leaders hung everywhere, even in small villages, to replace pictures of the Czar and royal family. Much as I admire futurism, I must admit that a futuristic portrait of Lenin or Trotsky would hardly be recognized as such by the average Moujik. So there was a sudden eager scouring of the country for painters whose pictures would resemble the subject.

"From dungeons, hovels and concentration camps old-school artists were summoned to the Kremlin and set to work. It was a veritable triumph for them. And since then they have been treated on an equality with the moderns and an allowance of food and painting materials was given to them.

"Art is greatly encouraged by the Bolsheviki. There are frequent exhibitions, each containing about 1,000 pictures. Therefrom 300 of the best are selected and bought by the State at a handsome price for distribution throughout the country. The rest are burnt—an effective but somewhat drastic method to discourage mediocrity. At least that was the original practice, but recently owing to the shortage of canvas, &c., I am informed that painters of rejected pictures now get them back with orders to scrape off their wretched daub and to try to accomplish something better next time.

"A sign of the changed times is the great interest taken by the masses in art. One of my friends wrote that literally hundreds of people crowded round him while he was painting a futuristic picture of the market in Moscow. One Philistine, who declared the artist was making fools of them because the picture resembled nothing on earth, was ducked in a nearby horse-trough. Evidently futurism has come to stay in Russia.

"But, seriously speaking, the Bolsheviki seem to deserve some credit. One of my old friends is Director of the Central Art Commission, though a painter of the old-school. He writes that the money put at his disposal by the Government is relatively ten times greater than under the old régime. He is able to provide good free teaching for all who want it in Moscow, and the promise has been made to him that when things settle down, similar schools with all materials free will be established in the principal cities."

BALL OF FINE ARTS BRILLIANT TRIUMPH

Pageant in Three Parts Attracts Leading Architects, Painters and Social Notables.

The Ball of the Fine Arts, the largest and most brilliant entertainment of recent years, was staged last night at the Hotel Astor by the Society of Beaux-Arts Architects, the affair being sponsored and carried through to artistic success by the leading architects, painters and the socially prominent of New York. It was a superb spectacle, more than 400 people taking part in the pageant of ancient France, amid gorgeous trappings and coloring.

Society flocked to the function in rich costumes and jewels of France from its ancient days up to the epoch of Louis XVI. No one was allowed on the ballroom floor during the pageant, or afterward at the ball, unless in costume, and the effect, without a note of the modern, was dazzling. Several artistic organizations, among them the McDowell Club, the Amateur Comedy Club, the Society of Illustrators and the Municipal Art Society, presented groups.

The pageant was divided into three episodes, arranged and produced by Henry Davenport. J. Monroe Hewlett, Arthur Hewlett and Charles Basing were responsible for the scenery, and the incidental music was arranged and conducted by Kenneth M. Murchison. Lloyd Warren was Chairman of the ball.

French Periods Reflected.

There was nothing dramatic in the presentation of the pageant. It was rather a series of pictures suggested by certain periods in French life, into which master hands had put color, movement and gayety. The visions of the artists' imagination grew into life at the south end of the ballroom, on a stage arranged like a huge dais, with background fading in and out of view like twilight and sunsets melting into indistinctness. The picture effects were remarkable for delicate shadings.

The pageant moved up the centre of the ballroom along a wide improvised aisle, through the spectators, grouped all around on chairs and in two tiers of boxes specially constructed for the occasion, with high lights flooding the floor, blotting out much that was modern in decoration.

A jester, personifying the imagination, aided by Beauty and Romance, led the minds of the spectators through the three scenes that composed the pageant. George S. Chappell appeared as the Jester, Miss Ruth Price as Beauty, and Miss Violet Kearns as Romance.

Far East Captives Dance.

First came the Court of Love with Raymond de Toulouse and the Queen of Beauty enthroned, before whom characters typical of the middle ages passed, while troubadours, magicians and astrologers mingled in the throng. Fair captives from the Far East, taken by the Crusaders, danced for the assembled company.

The scenes changed as the Jester's mood changed. He brought together the Duc de Guise with the Leaguers, and the Prince de Conde with the Reformers. Trouble was avoided by the appearance of Catherine de Midici. Later she received the marriage procession of Marie Stuart. The Jester brought Don Quixote and his faithful squires, Sancho Pansa, forward, and presented them to the Queen Mother. Then he pictured the daintiness of a later period, the days of the Regency. At the end was a tableau, arranged by Ben Ali Haggin, depicting the triumph of French gayety over time. Mrs. Edith Chapman Goold sang the Marseillaise.

Albert Sterner, Ernest Peixotto and Oswald Hering organized the first part of the pageant, representing the Middle Ages, and the Renaissance period was organized by Philip Cusacks, Frederick Godley and James L. Breese. The eighteenth century episode was organized by Frederick King, Stanley Dochanty and Ronald M. Pearse. The pageant, in the order of the program, with the full cast, was as follows:

DANIEL BACON MARRIED.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Mayo White of Key West, Fla., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Olive White, to Daniel Bacon of 116 East Sixty-fourth Street. The wedding took place on Wednesday evening, March 10, at Key West, Fla.

Mr. Bacon holds a commission as Lieutenant Commander in the United States Naval Reserve force. Previously he was a member of Company K of the old Seventh Regiment and later became an Ensign in the New York State Naval Militia. In 1917 he was one of the three members of the Shipping Board's Chartering Commission to supervise the handling of transports and supply ships in the harbor of New York. He is the son of the late Daniel Gorham Bacon of this city and is a member of the Union and New York Yacht Clubs and a former Commodore of the Seawanaka Yacht Club.

Mr. Bacon and his bride have known each other for a long time, but no formal announcement was made of their engagement.

Konstamm-Peck.

The marriage of Lothair Konstamm, formerly a Captain in the Chemical Warfare Department, U. S. A., and Miss Madelein Peck, daughter of Mrs. Leopold Peck, took place last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the bride's home. The wedding ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, Justice Samuel Greenbaum, and the Rev. Dr. Morris Harris.

Women to Hear "Persia's Hoover."

Isaac Tonan, sometimes known as the "Persian Hoover," because of his work as Food Commissioner of Persia during the famine period, will address the Women's Committee of the Metropolitan Area Campaign Committee of the Near East Relief at a meeting to be held this afternoon in the Ritz-Carlton. Mr. Yonan will tell from personal knowledge of the need for relief work in the Near East. Five hundred women, active in the social and professional life of the city, will be the guests of the committee, which is headed by Mrs. Henry W. Taft.

Hammerstein Funeral Bill Held Up.

An application by Arthur Hammerstein for an order reimbursing him from the funds of the estate of his father, Oscar Hammerstein, for $7,300 he spent for the expenses of his father's funeral and interment under an agreement that the money would be refunded, was denied yesterday by Surrogate Cohalan. The Surrogate decided that since the widow, Mrs. Emma Swift Hammerstein, questions the validity of the claim, and also contends that it is excessive, the payment must await the judicial settlement of the estate.

Rev. Dr. Augustus Krecker.

READING, Pa., March 11.—The Rev. Dr. Krecker, Professor of Theology at the Schuylkill Seminary here, died this evening after an illness of three days. He attended all the sessions of the East Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical Association here a week ago. Dr. Krecker was 66 years old.

CUBISTS PROMINENT IN ART EXHIBITION

INDIANS ARE REPRESENTED

The cubists, the futurists, and all the other ultra-modernists in art are liberally represented in the fourth annual exhibition of the Society of Independent Artists which opened last night in the roof garden of the Waldorf-Astoria. All may contribute without the fear of approval by jury or without the stimulation of a prise, provided they have the necessary $10 fee.

The result is that every one is on a par and the public is left to judge of the merits of the works placed on view. Even the Red Men have broken into this display of art, and the work done by the young Indians of New Mexico and Arizona forms one of the most interesting entries of the exhibition. Their inclusion was made possible by the Morton L. Schamberg Fund.

There are more than 1,100 works in the present exhibition, according to John Sloan, President of the Society of Independent Artists, who said that the organization had grown 33 1-3 per cent. since the war. Mr. Sloan favors a free gallery where all the artists may show their work.

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney is represented by a piece of sculpture, entitled "Honorably Discharged." It is the figure of a soldier leaning on a crutch. Irving Brokaw exhibits an oil painting of a "Nude," which is suggestive of a painting by Cabanel, in the Metropolitan Museum, entitled "The Birth of Venus."

The subway has furnished inspiration for a picture by Walter Pach, and there is a portrait of General Pershing by Anton I. Kanté. In the Futurist school Morris Cantor has produced a picture which he describes as "Wild Flowers," showing the back of a giant nude with the waist of a wasp. The only flower in sight is a single daisy in the hand of the figure. One of the foremost exponents of the Cubist school is A. S. Baylinson, who displays a piece entitled "Figure." "The Gloucester Trolley" is the title of one of the pictures exhibited by Mr. Sloan.

It was estimated that there were 3,000 visitors at the opening of the exhibition. In the foreword to the catalog the statement that the exhibits of the society have consisted of works of artists who believe that there should be a great annual showing of art in which every tendency can be represented, and that no attempt has been or can be made to keep out exhibits considered bad by one person or by many persons. All artists shall have an equal opportunity.

The result is that a visitor to the exhibit finds the entries listed alphabetically, and he has to make the round of the galleries in search of what he may consider worth while. Each exhibitor is entitled by his fee of $10 to have two pictures included in the exhibition, and nearly 600 are represented in the present collection. The exhibition is to continue to April 1.

Sings Primitive African Airs.

Rowland W. Hayes, tenor, one of those in whom music is a native gift that "just grows," and whose voice has the clear, pinging appeal traditional with his race, appeared in recital at Aeolian Hall last evening before a large audience. From "Muttering Thunder," a primitive African monotone, to others marked Afro-American, arranged by himself and by his accompanist, Lawrence B. Brown, he proceeded to lyrics by K. T. Burleigh and Coleridge-Taylor, classics of their kind, and to conventional concert and opera selections, of which Miss Tapley's "Dawn" was encored. The tenor's voice is one of real beauty, when not forcing a top note, and a gain in expression was marked since he last sang here.

Skolny Clothes

Factory Morale

The fabrics chosen for SKOLNY Clothes are the finest that are woven abroad and at home.

Our tailors are not only willing to do the best work, but they know how to do it.

They realize that skimped, insincere workmanship would discretit Skolny Clothes, and this would reflect upon them individually and collectively.

All our people share the sentiment that poor needlework would be treason against the organization—and a palpable fraud upon the public.

The honor of labor is the unchartered union that keeps them true to the Skolny ideal.

In the arithmetic of the Skolny shops two and two still make four. There is no attempt to have them make five or six.

The pace is not so rapid that no time remains for care, and slow, painstaking attention to details.

RESULT:

Stylish, fitting Ready-for-service Clothes at prices so economical that the custom-tailor exists simply as an extravagant habit and vanity of man.

N.Y.U. FIVE DEFEATS LOS ANGELES A.C., LAST YEAR'S A.A.U. CHAMPIONS

N. Y. U. AND RUTGERS REACH SEMI-FINALS

CRESCENT A. C. IS BEATEN

Brooklynites Lose to Kansas City, 27 to 19—Jersey Collegians Trounce Utah by 35 to 32.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 11.—A victory for the New York University five this afternoon clears the path for a new national basket ball champion to emerge from the tournament being held by the A. A. U. here. N. Y. U. today defeated the Los Angeles A. C. team, present champions, by 35 to 22, and won its way into the semi-final round.

Today's results were:

Kansas City A. C., 27; Crescent A. C., 19.

Rutgers College, 35; University of Utah, 32.

Y. M. C. of Detroit, 51; Atlanta A. C., 26.

Los Angeles, the champion team of 1919, fell before the savage attack of the Easterners, but there should be no humiliation for the Californians. Fighting to the last gasp and losing because no quintet on earth can win over such basket ball as the New Yorkers played, the Los Angeles Athletic Club team, dethroned king of the United States, may well be proud of the battle it waged.

N. Y. U. Has Amazing Strength.

The New York University five will, without doubt, be one of the contenders in the deciding battle Saturday night. One safe, conclusion to draw in these hectic times of basket ball endeavor is that the team defeating the New Yorkers will be crowned cage champions of the nation.

The passing of both teams was superb, but New York had a slight shade in this respect. The collegians took their time in passing the pellet over the court, never sending the ball to a comrade unless the latter was entirely free. There was little dribbling, both teams depending apparently on the passing game.

New York took few long chances, making goal attempts only within safe reach of the basket. Los Angeles, conservative team that it is, cool at all times, never giving way to the excitement of the battle, was forced to make luck shots, and many of them went in.

Contrary to established custom, the guards of both quintets were the men who attracted most attention on the floor this afternoon. Kincaid of Los Angeles and Baker for the winners gave marvelous exhibitions of the guardian's position.

The line-up:

N. Y. U. (35).		LOS ANGELES (22).
Cann	R. F.	Laswell
Goeller	L. F.	Swan
Mooney	C.	Olney
Baker	L. G.	Tate
Delaney	R. G.	Kincaid

Crescents Lead First Half.

The Crescents led the first half of their game with Kansas City by 13 to 11, but the Westerners went back into the fray in the second half with a vengeance.

With the red-topped Debarnard as the pivot of all operations the Kansas City outfit started a major offensive that swept it past the Crescent team and onward to victory. In the last period the passing of the Kansas City club, always good, was seen to improve visibly and it was the superiority in this department of play that probably counted most in the victory.

In the first half, and during a few minutes of the second half, the defensive work of the Brooklyn team was nothing short of remarkable. During this period the Crescent Club tried practically nothing but long shots from all parts of the court. With players all around him, standing far to the side, and about midway in the court, Kinney, the sparkling Crescent forward, shot two beautiful goals from the field, the ball sailing through the basket each time without touching the rim.

For the Crescents the work of Nicholas also stood out prominently. This little guard played the hardest game on the floor. He was mixed up in practically every play and his dribbling and passing were superb. Griffin also played brilliantly.

The lineup:

KANSAS CITY (27).		CRESCENT A.C. (19).
Singer	R. F.	Kinney
Moberly	L. F.	Parmele
Debarnard	C.	McTigue
Joyce	R. G.	Nicholas
Peabody	L. G.	Griffin

Rutgers Noses Out Utah.

Rutgers won another hard-fought struggle here tonight, defeating the University of Utah, 35–32, and by so doing earned the way into the semi-final round where the Young Men's Order five of Detroit will be met tomorrow. The Y. M. C. fought its way to the semi-final by clearly outclassing the Atlanta Athletic Club five tonight, 51 to 26.

The Rutgers–Utah match was one of the fastest and best of the tourney. There was not a time during the entire game when the two teams were separated by more than five points. Rutgers trailed Utah for a greater part of the game, coming through with a wonderful burst of playing in the later stages that spelled victory.

The score at the end of the first half was 14 to 12, with the Westerners on the big end. About the middle of the last half, with Utah leading, Benzoni, of Rutgers, scored three successive goals that placed his team one point in the lead. Thenceforth the Easterners were never headed, although the score was tied once.

Taliaferro played the best game of any man on the floor, his great speed, passing, and goal shooting being uncanny. His eleven goals from fouls turned the tide of battle toward his mates.

RUTGERS (35).		UN. OF UTAH (32).
Taliaferro	L. F.	Romney
Hall	C.	Woodbury
Meury	R. G.	Dean
French	L. G.	Harris

Field goals—Taliaferro (6), Meury (3), Benzoni (5), French (2), Clark (5), Romney (5), Woodbury (8), Dean. Foul goals—Taliaferro (11), Clark (4).

Substitution—Utah: Peterson for Dean.

Referee—Mr. Yates. Umpire—Tom Thorp, Columbia.

N. Y. U. vs. Kansas City A. C.

BAR HARVARD'S MAT STARS.

Crimson Loses Two Wrestlers on Eve of Yale Meet.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 11.—Captain McDonnell and Brown, the big football guard, mainstays of the Harvard wrestling team, were today declared ineligible to compete against Yale in Harvard's closing meet of the season here next Saturday. McDonnell and Managers Watkins and Hoeck were suspended from wrestling activity by the college athletic authorities as the result of canceling a recent meet on an hour's notice. Brown is at odds with the college officials.

Harvard, without a defeat thus far, hoped to conquer Yale, the Crimson seldom having beaten the Blue on the mat, but after today's wrecking of the team little hope of victory is entertained here.

Sunday Sports Bill Takes Stride Ahead In Bay State

BOSTON, March 11.—Legalising of amateur sports on Sunday was recommended to the Massachusetts Legislature today by a joint committee. The bill, which was favored by a vote of 11 to 4, would provide for local option on the subject, the sports to be held only between 2 and 6 in the afternoon. Horse and automobile racing, hunting and boxing would be prohibited. No admission fees could be charged and contestants could receive no pay.

BINGHAM REACHES PALM BEACH FINAL

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 11.—H. P. Bingham of New York and Harold Weber of Inverness are left to fight it out tomorrow for the golf championship of Palm Beach. Bingham's match with J. S. Thompson, St. Paul, in today's semi-finals was won on the last hole, their medal scores being 78 and 75, respectively. Weber and Willoughby became all square at the turn. When Weber's approach shot on the ninth hit the cup, bounced high in the air and dropped in, a piece of luck that seemed to disconcert his opponent, and he was off his game coming in, losing by 4 and 3.

There was a twenty-hole match in the third flight, in which W. J. Glidden, Willowick, won from A. Wineman, Detroit, and a second twenty-hole match in the first division consolations, resulting in the defeat of George A. Easton, Engineers, by J. T. Smith, Oakland.

The summary:

First Sixteen.

Second Sixteen.

Semi-Finals—George Nicolai, Oakland, defeated E. J. Northwood, Scarsborough, 3 and 1; G. W. B. Bartlett, Hangar Hill, London, defeated Myron L. Keith, Brockton, 1 up.

Third Sixteen.

Semi-Finals—George E. Warren, Country Club, defeated Archibald Selwyn, Great Neck, 2 and 1; W. J. Glidden, Willowick defeated A. Wineman, Detroit Country Club, 1 up (20 holes).

Fourth Sixteen.

First Beaten Eight.

10-FOOT PUTT WINS TITLE.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., March 11.—Miss Edith Cummings of Chicago, became the champion of Belleair today when she defeated Mrs. G. K. Morrow of the Engineer's Club in the final by 1 up. The contest was a splendid one to watch, and so evenly matched were the two players that it took the last putt to decide the contest.

Miss Cummings negotiated a putt of ten feet from the top of a mound, holing out for a par four while Mrs. Morrow, five feet away from the cup, missed her try for a half.

There was never more than a margin of one hole between them at any stage of the battle. Several pros watching the match, including Jim Barnes, predicted that Miss Cummings would be a national champion some day.

RULES BOARD TO MEET.

Football Solons to Act on Proposed Changes at Tonight's Session.

The radicals among football coaches and officials, held in restraint for the last three years because of the war, will break loose tonight at the Biltmore Hotel and fire a veritable barrage of proposals at the meeting of the Football Rules Committee. No gathering has been held since the memorable session three years ago this month, when, among other important changes, Foster Sanford's multiple kick was ruled out and incoming substitutes were prohibited from communicating orders from the coaches for particular formations until after one play had been negotiated.

The plan to make more difficult the one point after touchdown is the most important. Harvard suggests that both teams line up for a scrimmage on the 20-yard mark after a touchdown, and that the goal be tried either by a drop kick or a placement. Another proposal is to shorten the span between goal posts from 18 feet 6 inches to approximately 14 feet.

Other suggestions for improving the game are that there be forty plays during each period, or 160 for each game; that points be awarded the team that carries the ball inside the twenty-five-yard line and loses it there without making the touchdown; that a point be awarded for five consecutive first downs; that five yards only be needed to make a first down inside the twenty-five-yard line, and to create another official to whom incoming players shall report.

It is also expected that a rule will be proposed compelling teams to number the players. This matter was sidestepped altogether in the last meeting in 1917, and at the conference in 1916 it was merely discussed informally and then assigned as an optional privilege of individual teams.

Because of the fact that no gathering of football solons has been held in three years it is expected a full attendance will answer the call tonight. The committee comprises the following: E. K. Hall, Dartmouth, Chairman; Walter Camp, Yale, Secretary; Dr. James A. Babbitt, Haverford; Professor C. W. Savage, Oberlin; Dr. H. L. Williams, Minnesota; Professor Clyde Williams, Iowa State; Dr. W. M. Lambeth, Virginia; Lieutenant G. H. Francke, West Point; Dr. Carl Williams, Pennsylvania; Paul J. Dashiell, Annapolis; Parke H. Davis, Princeton; Professor A. A. Stagg, Chicago; Fred W. Moore, Harvard, and Dr. Al H. Sharpe, Yale. The three advisory officials are W. S. Langford, Nathan A. Tufts and William N. Morice.

POLY PREP GRAPPLERS WIN.

Defeat Marquand School by a Point in Wrestling Meet.

Poly Prep School's wrestling team continued its uninterrupted string of victories yesterday by defeating the Marquand School grapplers in their dual meet in the Poly Prep Gymnasium. The score was 15 to 14. The bouts were at six weights, and points were distributed on the basis of five for a fall and four for a decision. The Poly Prep lads scored three victories by falls, while the Marquand grapplers registered two falls and gained another victory on decision.

Stevens Lacrosse Candidates Out.

Lacrosse practice started in earnest yesterday at Stevens Tech., with seventy candidates reporting to Coach Briscoti. Eleven veterans, including Captain Hopkins and former Captain Heinen, were on hand. Practice will be held in the gymnasium until the field dries.

GOULLET AND MAGIN LEAD 6-DAY RIDERS

Team Scores 45 Points in Sprints and Has Total of 264—Trailing Teams Gain.

Ninety-eighth Hour.

	Miles.	Laps.
Goullet-Magin	1,710	4
Egg-Madden	1,710	4
Coburn-Kopsky	1,710	4
Buysse-Spiessens	1,710	4
Lang-Chapman	1,710	4
Kaiser-Hill	1,710	4
Godivier-Vannek	1,710	4
Dupuy-Hanley	1,710	4
Belle-Madonna	1,710	1
Bowker-Bowker	1,710	1
Byron-Markey	1,710	1

Leader, Hanley. Record, 1,945 miles 2 laps, made by Goullet and Grenda in 1914.

Alfred Goullet, the much hissed and hooted Australian rider at the six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden, came into his own last night in the fourth day of the grind. The veteran furnished most of the excitement for the assembled fans by winning a majority of first places in the evening sprints, incidentally carrying off a prize of $50 for the team achieving this feat.

The elimination of Maurice Brocco and Charles DeRuyter in the early hours yesterday morning because of injuries to the Italian resulted in an evening's competition marked by bitter rivalry and sprints packed with thrills. Eight teams automatically assumed the lead, following the withdrawal of the Italian-Belgian combination, and, with the one lap advantage erased, the race speeded up to a noticeable degree.

The evening's sprints were as fully packed with excitement as the Garden was with fans. Upward of 12,000 enthusiasts crammed their way into the inclosure, which was crowded with humanity from the infield to the eaves. The inclosure inside the saucer was filled with the overflow, and outside the Garden hundreds of would-be ticket purchasers were herded into long lines by the police.

Goullet assumed the crown lost by Brocco and DeRuyter, and, with his partner, consistently led the field in the evening dashes. The Australian himself won three first places and a second, while the crowd hooted and groaned and hissed in much the same manner it has every night this week.

Despite this evidence of popular disapproval the Goullet-Magin combination won the special $50 prize by taking four firsts, two seconds, two thirds and one fourth. The lucre thus gained, however, was reduced exactly in half by the officials, who detected foul riding by Jake Magin in the first sprint. Magin's points for third position were taken from him and he was fined $25.

The team of Oscar Egg and Eddie Madden captured second honors, a prize of $30, by rolling up 40 points, only five behind the winning pair. Kaiser and Hill were third with 35, and received a $20 reward for this feat.

Trailing Teams Gain Lap.

The three trailing teams in the race threw the crowd into near hysterics by stealing a lap on the field at 11:30 P. M. The first combination to start the pilfering was Tom Bello and Vincent Madona. At the end of two special sprints for a $50 prize, Bello crept up from the rear unnoticed, and dashed away for a quarter of a lap lead. On the Fourth Avenue curve he was picked up by his partner, Madona, and the latter, pedaling at a terrific clip, caught the rest of the field in three journeys around the saucer.

A few minutes later George Bowker repeated the feat with his brother, Lester Bowker. The former started the jam and finished it after he had been relieved for two laps by his partner. The third tall end combination, Byron and Markey, kept in style by duplicating the achievements, but with even greater ease. The three teams are now only three laps to the rear instead of four.

Brocco's demise came on the eighth lap of the second official morning sprint, shortly before three o'clock. On the previous lap, Magin and Godivier shot out from the field and assumed a lead of about twenty-five yards before the other cyclists realized the situation. Freddie Hill immediately took up the pursuit, with Brocco on his heels. On the eighth lap, just as Hill was rounding dead man's curve at the Fourth Avenue end of the arena, his wheel skidded and slid down the embankment directly in front of Brocco, who crashed into him and was thrown over his handlebars.

Both riders were unconscious when attendants carried them to the infield, where physicians labored for fifteen minutes before they revived the Italian. Hill recovered consciousness almost at once, but Brocco was in no shape to continue. Two leg tendons were pulled and he sustained a rupture that effectively eliminated him as a contender.

At 5 P. M. Brocco's partner, Deruyter, reported to the officials that he would not attempt to find another mate and continue the race, and the Italian-Belgian combination was officially declared out.

The Score by Points.

Goullet-Magin	234	Dupuy-Hanley	137
Egg-Madden	223	Coburn-Kopsky	116
Kaiser-Hill	149	Godiver-Vannek	87

Arthur Spencer's withdrawal was involuntary and came after the Canadian had stalled continually during the morning and had lost two laps by reason of his weakened condition. He was finally ordered off the track at 9 A. M. by the referee, and shortly afterward the Spencer-Drobach combination was entirely eliminated.

SWIMMING TITLE FOR CANN.

Detroit Athlete Wins National Indoor 100-Yard Championship.

Special to The New York Times.

BROOKLINE, Mass., March 11.—Ted Cann, of the Detroit A. C., is America's indoor champion 100-yard swimmer, winning the title tonight in the Brookline Tank in a sensational race, in which the four finalists finished with scarcely more than a yard separating them. Clement Browne, Chicago A. A., was second, losing by his finger tips. Harry Hebner, Illinois A. C., was third, a scant foot in the rear of Browne, while Leo A. Handy, of the Detroit A. C., trailed Hebner by but a few inches.

Cann's time was 55 3-5 seconds, breaking the tank record of 58 seconds, held by Handy of Detroit. His time was 1 3-5 seconds slower than the record held by former Champion McGillibray. Four years ago Cann won the national junior championship and he has since held the 500-yard senior A. A. U. championship.

Cann used an American crawl stroke similar to that of the other finalists. Better driving power and a display of stamina in the final ten yards gave him his victory. Cann first broke the tank record in winning his initial heat, his time in the trial being but one second slower than that in the final.

Hal Vollmer of the New York A. C. failed to get a place in his trial heat and George Cunha, the Australian, representing the Meadowbrook Club of Philadelphia, was also shut out in the trials.

Lewis Throws Madvas Twice.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., March 11.—Strangler Lewis, heavyweight wrestler, threw Ivan Madvas, the Russian, twice here tonight, the first time in 48 minutes, with a headlock, and the second time in 16 minutes, with an arm scissors and arm hold.

Life Just One Broken Bone After Another for Clothier

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—William J. Clothier, all around athlete and banker, has broken another bone. He is suffering from a fractured collar bone this time, which makes his twenty-seventh casualty in this line.

Mr. Clothier, who is a former national tennis champion, has received fractures from head to foot in the course of his very active life. His present injury, which has just become known, was sustained while practicing hockey on Valley Hill Farm, his country place near Phoenixville, a few days ago. His skate caught in a crack in the ice and he fell heavily on his right shoulder, breaking the clavicle.

Mr. Clothier had a fracture of the nose three times, of an arm three times and of a leg once. This is his second fracture of a collar bone, and he has had ribs broken five times, a hip broken once and the head bone broken once. He has had water on the knee three times. His other injuries were minor but painful ones.

The national three-cushion championship aspirations of Harry Frisch were given a severe jolt at Joe Thum's Academy last night in an American Amateur Billiard Association match. He was defeated by Henry Frantzen by a score of 50 to 38 in 114 innings. Until this upset, Frisch had generally been regarded as one of the favorites to win the title. He had been playing excellent billiards and seemed to be at the top of his game. His defeat leaves Joseph Primakow and William Blumenthal as the only undefeated players in the tournament.

Frantzen took the lead at the start and held it until the fifty-second inning, when Frisch tied him at 18 points. For the next ten innings the lead alternated between them, but by the time the sixty-fifth round had been reached Frisch was out in front, 26 to 20, and playing strongly.

In the next eleven innings, however, Frantzen unleashed his best work. He made five runs of two each and injected his high run of the evening, a cluster of three. Incidentally, three was the best either of the players was able to do at one turn at the table. After this display of billiards Frantzen never again was in danger, and he won by the fairly comfortable margin of 12 points.

RICE LOSES CUE MATCH.

Defeated by Low in Poggenberg Cup Billiard Tournament.

Two matches were played in the annual handicap 18.2 balkline billiard tournament for the J. F. Poggenberg Cup at the National Recreation Academy in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon and evening. In the first match Julian Rice, who requested to be rated as a Class A player, which compels him to play for a total of 250 points, met John W. Low, a Class C player, playing for 115 points. Low defeated Rice 115 to 114. In the evening match C. R. Lewis defeated Jake Ward 115 to 93. Both of these players are Class C men and they played on even terms.

The scores by innings:

Three Eights Dodge Floating Ice on the Quinnipiac River.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 11.—Leaving the gymnasium rowing machines today, Yale oarsmen took their first outdoor practice of the season. They paddled about seven miles during the afternoon on the Quinnipiac River, being compelled to stop frequently because of floating ice.

Three eights were formed, stroked by Captain Churchill Peters, Ward Cheney and Lawrence. Coach Guy Nickalls said tonight that the Yale stroke had changed but little since his departure three seasons ago. He was pleased with the form shown by the oarsmen at the first practice.

KELLOCK WINS AT SQUASH.

Defeats Strebeigh in Columbia Class B Tourney.

Harold Kellock yesterday reached the final round of Class B in the Columbia University Club's squash tennis tournament, defeating R. L. Strebeigh in straight games by scores of 15–13, 15–2. The loser put up a great fight in the opener, keeping Kellock on the run and using his speed to good effect.

In the second session, however, Kellock's headwork began to count, and by continually playing for his opponent's weaknesses, and making few errors, he rapidly forged ahead, to win easily with the loss of only two points. Kellock will meet H. H. Cornell in the final round for the club's Class B title.

MEET FOR FIGURE SKATERS.

Championships for Men and Women to be Held March 19-21.

Championships of America in figure skating will be decided at a three-day tournament to be held March 19 to 21 under the auspices of the New York Skating Club at Iceland Rink, Broadway and Fifty-second Street. There will be solo events for women and men, pair skating for men and women and contests in waltzing and the ten-step. In addition, junior championships will be awarded for both sexes.

Tuthill Is Elected Captain.

Frank Tuthill, former Morris H. S. basket ball player, was last night elected Captain of the New York Aggies quintet for the season of 1920-21. Tuthill played centre on this season's team and was a material factor in the Aggies' triumphs. He succeeds Charles Wenger as leader.

JOHNSON DECLINES HIS TENNIS RATING

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—Wallace F. Johnson, semi-finalist in the national tennis championships at Forest Hills last Summer, has asked that his name be withdrawn from the official ranking list. At the same time, Paul W. Gibbons, Philadelphia's representative on the National Ranking Committee, has declined to serve another year.

Both actions came as a result of the recent change in the ranking list by which Johnson was demoted from No. 5 to No. 6 and Richard Norris Williams, formerly of this city but now of Boston, advanced to Johnson's old place.

Philadelphia tennis followers are indignant over the change which was made two months after the list had been publicly announced. They feel that an injustice has been done Wallace Johnson.

Johnson, who has long been a leading figure in national and international tennis, wrote to Julian S. Myrick, President of the National Lawn Tennis Association, protesting against the change, but was informed that the revised ranking could not be changed.

"My objection was solely based on my demotion," explained Mr. Johnson today. "I told Mr. Myrick that if my original ranking had been No. 6 I would have offered no objection, but I considered the change after two months an injustice.

"I was further influenced in my protest by the fact that in the Wilmington tournament my records were mixed with those of Harry C. Johnson of Boston. They also had my scores wrong in the Church Cup matches. I expect some further developments."

EX-CHAMPIONS ENTERED.

Three Former Title Holders Seek Harvard Club's Squash Honors.

The unique position occupied by the Harvard Club in the field of squash tennis is emphasized by the entry list for the club championship, which begins next Monday afternoon. Among the twenty-two names in the draw are those of three former national title holders, John W. Appel, Jr., Dale S. Winston and Filmore Van S. Hyde, besides two other members of this season's "first ten," Anderson Dana and Ralph G. Coburn, of whom the former has three times been runner-up for the country's highest amateur honors. Practically all of the twenty-two contestants are ranked among the first fifty in this year's list, with the runner-up for the national Class B championship, A. H. Tomes, and two other semi-finalists included.

The complete draw is as follows:

First Round—W. P. Sanger vs. J. W. Appel, Jr., F. M. Morrison vs. Hewitt Morgan, J. W. Burden vs. F. Van S. Hyde, F. H. Davis vs. D. F. Phelps, J. G. Blaine, Jr., vs Geoffrey Taylor, G. N. Richard vs. John Munroe.

Second Round—Byes: P. S. Whitlock vs. H. R. Kuhnhardt, L. I. Grinnell vs. J. A. Richards, Anderson Dana, G. M. Rushmore, E. S. Winston vs. W. S. Seamans, A. H. Tomes vs. R. G. Coburn.

Two more matches were played in the third round of the Harvard Club's Class B Winter handicap tournament yesterday afternoon. W. M. Carson, Jr., and Geoffrey Taylor advancing through victories over F. H. Carmochan and F. H. Babcock, respectively. Carson, allowing his opponent four points to the game, won at 15–8 and 15–13, the second session being a close battle right up to the finish, with Carmochan almost catching up and forcing extra points. Taylor played with the heavy impost of minus five, and had to give Babcock six aces per game in addition, but also managed to win in straight games.

MISS WAGNER NOT TO PLAY.

Injury Keeps Her Out of Indoor Tennis Title Tourney.

Miss Marie Wagner, who has six times won the women's national indoor tennis championship, will not be among the entries for the title this year. An injury to her knee, sustained in a recent match at the Brooklyn Heights Casino, will make it impossible for the New York girl to play in the tournament which begins at the Seventh Regiment Armory next Monday morning. Miss Wagner at first was inclined to treat her accident lightly, and played Mrs. Samuel F. Waring in the invitation tournament at the Heights Casino when she was in no condition to do herself justice, thus aggravating the injury.

TENNIS MATCH POSTPONED

New York-Boston Tourney Is Deferred Because of Players' Illness.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 11.—The New York-Boston intercity tennis matches, scheduled to take place this coming Saturday on the Longwood covered courts at Chestnut Hill, have been postponed to March 20. Edwin Sheafe, President of the Longwood Cricket Club, tonight telephoned to New York that this action was unavoidable.

CUBAN RIDERS LOSE IN POLO CUP GAME

Miami Beach Aggregation Takes Close Match from Visiting Army Officers.

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., March 11.—The Miami Beach polo team won the first of a series of matches with the Cuban Army riders for the Carl G. Fisher International Polo Cup today by a score of 6 to 5. The Cubans were in the lead until the final stages of the game and the contest was one of the most thrilling ever staged on the local field. The Cuban officers were at a disadvantage in that they played on strange horses, borrowing ponies from members of the local club, but their skill largely overcame this handicap and they bid fair to be more at home on their strange mounts during the closing matches of the cup series.

H. E. Talbott, Jr., of Dayton, Ohio, playing at No. 3 for the Americans, was the sensatoin of the game, doing practically all the scoring for the home club and getting nine goals during the contest. Fouls called by Referee Holmes cut down the Miami Beach score by one point.

Lieutenant V. Torres was the most brilliant member of the Cuban team and his second goal was scored from near the centre of the field. Captain J. A. Gimines, Captain L. Heres Arocha and Colonel E. Silva each scored a goal, Gimines scoring at the close of the final period.

Society was well represented at the game, the club house being filled with members of the fashionable set from Miami and Palm Beach hotels. Approximately 3,000 persons attended, cutting the crowd watching the Cincinnati Reds to a bare 500. More than 100 Cubans accompanied the team from Havana.

The lineup:

Hassler	No. 1	Gimines
Andrew	No. 2	Arocha
Fleischman	No. 3	Torres
Talbott	Back	Silva

PERIODS.

PROLIFIC INNING FOR EACH

Two Nines Pile Up Thirteen Runs Between Them in Fifth—Mays and Devitalis a Bit Wild.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 11.—Both regulars and second team had large innings today in the third of the Yankee's practice games, and the boys hit with a little more ardor than on previous days, but without setting the St. John's River afire, though that stream is within easy ignition distance. The regulars made six runs in one inning and the second team seven, but the regulars had scored previously and they won a game for the first time in this year of grace. The score was 9 to 8. In these two lucrative innings the hitting was free, the pitching loose and fielding looser. It was a red-hot day, and the players responded with more drive and dash than in the other games. The batters had been complaining that the field fence made a background which dimmad batting eyes fearfully, and as expansive coat of green paint was applied to the offending fence. In appreciation the batters cut loose a bit with their sticks.

Mays Wabbles at Start.

Notwithstanding a bad start by Mays, the regulars made but one run in the first inning. Seven men reached first base. Fewster made a single, the next two walked, the next popped out, and the next was hit by a pitched ball, which forced in a run.

Poor fielding and the generosity of De Vitalis with bases on balls made runs easy for the regulars, who also bunched four hits in the fifth inning. The former Brunonian, in addition to poor control, did poorly at holding runners on bases. By getting a big lead Vick and Bodie stole three bases on him. Vick getting two of them. Bodie, incidentally, received word today of the death of his father in San Francisco.

Warren Collins, the Texan, made his first appearance in the box for Huggins. O'Doul and Ward slapped him for hits in the first inning. They slap somebody for hits every day. After that the Texan held the batters down to practically nothing. He pitched as if his shoulder had not wholly loosened up, but he had a right tidy amount of speed.

Rally Staged By the Colts.

The second team, a pugnacious aggregation who don't like to be beaten, disturbed the complacency of the veterans considerably in the fifth inning. They sprang a rally which contained hits by Meusel, Geiser, Hannah and Hoffman, passes to Gleich, Ward and Blemiller and a missed grounder by Fewster.

Ruth went hitless. He has made one hit in the three games, and the fences are still inviolate. He reached first four times today, however, twice on errors and twice on passes. His fielding was first class.

The Indianspolis team passed through the city today. While their manager, Jack Hendricks, went out to see the Brooklyns practice, the players all crossed the river to see the Yankees.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.

Batteries—Collins, McGraw and Ruel; Mays, De Vitalis and Hoffman. Hits—Fewster (2), Pechenaugh, Pipp, Gleich, Vick, Ruel, O'Doul, Ward, Meusel, Geiser (2), Hoffman, Mays. Two Base Hits—Fewster, Pipp, Pratt, McGraw, Ward, Meusel, Geiser, Hannah, Hoffman. Errors—Fewster, Hannah, (3), Blemiller (2). Double Plays—Blemiller, Ward and Hannah, Ward, Blemiller and Hannah, Passed Ball—Hoffman. Hit by Pitcher—By Mays (Vick); De Vitalis (Fewster, Vick). First Base on Balls—Off Mays, 3; De Vitalis, 3; McGraw, 2. Struck out—By Mays, 1; De Vitalis, 1; Collins, 1; McGraw, 1. NEW RULES BOTHER ROBINS.

Umpire O'Day Forced to Tell Mitchell a Thing or Two.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 11.—Having received lessons from Umpire Klem yesterday regarding the new rules which will be in force this season, the Dodgers were put to a further test in the afternoon workout today, when Umpire Hank O'Day appeared in camp and officiated in the daily game.

O'Day insisted on the pitchers twirling the way they will have to after the season opens, and during the contest, which lasted seven frames, he was forced to caution the slabmen several times.

Clarence Mitchell, one of the hurlers who will be allowed to use the spitter this season, was the chief offender. Mitchell pitched three innings, and O'Day had to remind him not to rub the ball on his uniform. Mitchell violated this new rule four times during his stay on the slab.

The game resulted in a 4 to 3 victory for the Yannigans. Schreiber pitched the first four chapters for the Regulars, and was relieved by Mitchell. John Miljus twirled the opening four rounds against the Regulars, and Leon Cadore succeeded him on the mound.

The Yannigans found Schreiber for two hits and as many runs in the first session. Kilduff started off with a single to left and Baird walked. Schmandt forced Baird, but Neis singled, scoring Kilduff, and Schmandt reached third. Neis stole second and Hood drew a pass. Krueger hit to Johnston, and Schmandt crossed the plate. Neis, however, overran third, and Johnston tagged him out.

The Regulars tied the count in their half of the fourth frame. Koney and Mitchell each singled, and Miller followed with a long single to centre, on which Koney scored. Miller went to second on the throw-in, and when Kilduff threw past second Mitchell registered. The Yannigans regained the lead in their half of the round, when Miljus tripled to left and scored on Heitman's sacrifice fly.

The youngsters increased their lead in the sixth. Krueger hit to Johnston, who threw past first, and Krueger reached second. He scored on Miljus's second extra-base hit, a double to right centre. The Regulars scored their final tally in the seventh frame. It was the result of singles by Miller and Johnston and a pass to Sherrod Smith.

Hack Wheat arrived in camp this afternoon, and now Burleigh Grimes is the only Dodger who has not yet reported to Manager Robbie. Wheat and Myers, who arrived this morning, did not take part in the workouts.

GIANTS SHOW SNAP AND DOWN ROOKIES

McGraw Drives Men at High Speed in Summer Weather and They Seem to Like It.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 11.—The Giants' regulars defeated the rookies in a six-inning game at League Park today 6 to 1. Barnes and Nehf pitched for the regulars while Fred Toney and Rube Benton worked for the rookies. The regulars made five runs off Toney in the second inning.

The sun blazed forth in mid-Summer splendor this afternoon, and, as it was as hot here as it will be at the Polo Grounds in July, Manager McGraw told his players to cut loose and show everything they had in the line of baseball talent. The veterans were ordered to shake off the lazy ease with which they have been playing, and before the afternoon was over the two teams were indulging in a ball game which progressed at full speed. The Giants' veteran pitchers, who have been throwing the ball around easily for more than a week, mixed curves and speed, and with regular pitching to hit at the veterans showed their superiority and easily defeated the recruits.

The regulars broke loose in a grand old batting rally in the second inning and larruped big Fred Toney, who was pitching for the recruits, for a large cluster of runs. George Kelly, Armstrong, Earl Smith and Barnes indulged in the assault on Toney, and, coupled with an error and an infield out, five runs drifted over.

Smith Shows Promise.

Earl Smith, who caught for the regulars, was the chief batting sensation of the afternoon. He soaked forth a triple, a double and a single. Not only that, but he performed behind the bat with rare skill. Smith looks as if he was ready to burst forth into a catching sensation during the coming season.

The dancing sunbeams made new beings of the ball players today, and they were on their toes every second. The players are sunburned and tanned tonight, but are feeling better than at any time thus far during the training season. Manager McGraw and Matty kept the whole squad hopping around, and there was no loafing among the big collection of youths, who had been showing signs of becoming drowsy during the last few sunny days.

The rookies worked this afternoon, and worked hard. Many of them went to the ball park reclining in the cushions of touring cars, but just as soon as they got to the ball park and were in uniform McGraw drove them at top speed.

A Land of Motor Cars.

Automobiles are thick as flies down here, and nobody walks. The rookies have quickly acquired the habit of riding out to the ball park, which is only about a mile from the hotel. After the morning rain Henry Fabian, the landscape gardener from the Polo Grounds, had the infield like a billiard table today, and there was some smooth, high-class fielding during the matinee. The only run the rookies got came in the first inning, when Kinsella jammed a hot liner to centre field. Benny Kauff missed the ball, and it trickled on to the fence. Kinsella raced around with a home run. Jess Barnes and Artie Nehf, showing real stuff for the first time this year, had no trouble in holding the opposition down after that, and there were no more runs.

The batting order of the teams today was as follows:

REGULARS.	RECRUITS.
Burns, lf.	Statz, cf.
Young, rf.	Kinsella, lf.
Frish, 3b.	Sicking, 3b.
Kauff, cf.	King, rf.

RUMORS FLY AROUND BAN.

Visit of American League Chief Starts Baseball Reports.

Ban Johnson's invasion of New York has caused another flutter of speculation up and down the highways and byways of baseball in this city. Rumors of many a color and shape are as rampant as base hits when the season is in full swing. Whenever the President of the American League decides to come to this business-laden city it is the signal for the rumor foundries to begin running day and night shifts.

Just what Ban's chief object in coming here was can only be guessed at. It was said that he came here to confer with John A. Heydler, President of the National League, with the naming of a Chairman of the National Commission to succeed Garry Herrmann as the objective, but late last night it was reported that Ban had pulled up stakes and had hied himself hence, supposedly to Chicago. It was also said that the National Commission situation was just as muddled as ever; that it was no nearer being solved than it was during the baseball meeting in Chicago. According to report Johnson and Heydler met on Wednesday night and discussed the situation at some length but nothing of a definite nature was done and the chairmanship was left high and dry for future consideration.

While here, however, Johnson did confer with Colonel Ruppert. What transpired at this meeting is not known. When questioned regarding it Colonel Ruppert said: "I saw Mr. Johnson on Wednesday afternoon. We discussed several things, but there is nothing to be given out for publication. I understand that Mr. Johnson left the city tonight."

WESLEYAN BASEBALL DATES

Lehigh, Johns Hopkins and Colgate Included on Schedule.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., March 11.—Wesleyan University's baseball schedule, completed today, includes games with Lehigh and Johns Hopkins, which have not been met for a number of years, while Colgate is a newcomer on the schedule. The dates follow:

CHIEF FIRST HOME IN FEATURE EVENT

Carrying Top Weight of 120 Pounds, Wins Amonastar Handicap at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 11.—Running at his best form again after a brief rest, Monty Murphy's Chief came back with an excellent performance today and easily captured the Amonastar Handicap at a mile and seventy yards, which was the feature of a good day of racing at Jefferson Park. With the top weight of 120 pounds up, this consistent son of Ballot won by three lengths from Matinee Idol. Bondage was third, only a neck away.

While this provided the principal event of the day, it was only one of a number of races on the program which served to make the players happy, despite a heavy sky and a flurry of snow. Chief was not a favorite, but he was a heavily played second choice, and other short-priced winners help to make up for some of the long shots which have upset the form recently. Tickilish scored handily in the Port Hudson Purse and was an odds-on favorite.

Jockey Whittington, who has come into the limelight with his riding in the last few days, brought home another winner in the first race, the four furlong dash for juveniles, when he scored a close victory with Joe Tag. Whittington saved much ground with his mount and, gaining the lead shortly after the start, was able to hold on to the end, though forced to hustle his mount every inch of the way through the stretch. Aunt Deda, which had been made the favorite, raced into second position in the first quarter and ran neck and neck with the winner for the balance of the distance. Joe Tag appeared to have disposed of his rival a sixteenth of a mile from home, but Aunt Deda made another rush and came within a neck of getting the decision. The others were badly outrun, Coomba taking third, eight lengths back of the second horse.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For two-year-olds; claiming; purse $600; four furlongs. Joe Tag, 106 pounds (Whitterington), 8 to 5, 2 to 5 and out, first; Aunt Deda, 102 (Wilda), 9 to 10, 1 to 4 and out, second; Coomba, 105 (Rodriguez), 7 to 1, 3 to 5 and 2 to 5, third. Time—0:50. Turf Report to Parliament Raps Some Canadian Tracks

OTTAWA, March 11.—Some Canadian race tracks in which American capital is heavily invested "are not being operated in the best interests of the public," according to an exhaustive report on Dominion racing conditions submitted today to Parliament by Dr. J. G. Rutherford, a special commissioner for the Government.

This report, which is expected to serve as a basis for legislation governing racing, makes no definite recommendations, but devotes considerable space to the question of eliminating certain tracks, further curtailing the length of racing seasons and banning "touts," railbirds and surveyors.

BLUE WRACK STEPS FAST MILE IN CUBA

HAVANA, Cuba, March 11.—A. H. Diaz's Blue Wrack proved himself a promising candidate for the $10,000 Grand National Handicap, which is to be run Sunday, March 14, when he galloped off with the Once Around Handicap, the feature event at Oriental Park today. The three-year-old son of Wrack-Ocean Blue was well supported, closing as the favorite. In winning, he stepped the distance, one mile, in 1:36 3-5, which is just 1-5 of a second shy of the track record.

AMEND RACE TRACK BILL.

Maryland House Takes Action on Burke Commission Measure.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 11.—By a vote of 51 to 49, the House tonight adopted amendments to the Burke Race Track Commission bill providing for a referendum to voters at the next election.

Before the rollcall was announced six members changed their votes, the object being to provide for a reconsideration of the vote by which the amendments were adopted. If there is no change in the vote, the bill, having gone to the third reading file with the amendments, will be passed and sent to the Senate.

BOSTON, March 11.—Earl Caddock of Iowa, defeated Tom Drask in two straight falls in their wrestling bout here tonight. The first fall was gained in 66 minutes, 20 seconds, and the second in 18 minutes, each with a head scissors and wrist lock.

SIX JOCKEYS FAIL OF REINSTATEMENT

Applications of Three Trainers Also Denied—Action Deferred in Butwell Case.

The bright hopes recently held out for the reinstatement of six jockeys who have been seeking to get back into good standing were shattered yesterday at the regular monthly meeting of the Jockey Club, which considered applications from jockeys and trainers as well as the appointment of officials for the coming season.

While favorable action was taken on the applications of a long list of both jockeys and trainers, licenses were refused to six riders, and similar action was taken in the cases of three trainers. The stewards refused to act favorably in the cases of Jockeys C. H. Shilling, Joe Byrne, Wilmer Ward, Eddie Taplin, Charles Gore and Rufus Walcott. The application of Jimmie Butwell was not refused, but was held over until another meeting. This was not taken to mean that Butwell would not be permitted to ride this year, but that further consideration of his case was desired by the stewards. Butwell is under contract to ride for J. W. McClelland.

Trainers R. Travers, Michael Sheedy and Moss Williams were refused licenses and the case of Thomas Hodge was held over. Travers is the trainer who was set down in connection with the running of Scotch Verdict at Empire City last October.

The appointment of officials for the coming season included the names of those who served in similar capacities last year, with the exception of C. H. Pettingill, who did not make an application to act as a judge this year and was therefore not considered in the appointments. The officials named yesterday were: Mars Cassidy, starter; W. S. Vosburgh, handicapper; E. C. Smith and C. Cornehlsen, judges; clerk of the scales, Albert Beirlen; timer, George Odom.

A new rule of racing was also adopted at the meeting. This declares that no trainer shall start any horse with toe calks on the plates. This rule is designed to prevent the cutting down of horses in races. No penalty for failure to follow the rule is provided, but the rule is one generally favored by horsemen and its presence in the code is expected to bring about the desired result.

The efforts of Colonel E. B. Cassett to have the by-laws of the Jockey Club amended so as to provide for the election of a member to fill a vacancy made possible by the votes of those present instead of the full membership was defeated.

The appointment of the officials for the Maryland courses was approved, and H. J. Morris at Pimlico steward to represent the Jockey Club at Havre de Grace; E. C. Smith, steward, to represent the Jockey Club at Bowie, and F. J. Bryan, steward, to represent the Jockey Club at Pimlico.

CROWD WITH A ROPE MENACED BERGDOLL

MOTHER WAVED AUTOMATIC

Policemen and Department of Justice agents rushed Grover Cleveland Bergdoll from his home in Philadelphia without giving him time to dress, according to testimony yesterday before the general court-martial trying him for desertion, because an excited crowd gathered outside when they captured him and some workmen near by had a rope ready "with which to string him up."

Two Philadelphia patrolmen, who were the chief witnesses in the Governors Island courtroom yesterday, told that the Bergdoll home, where they dragged the alleged deserter from his hiding place inside a window seat last January, was bristling with a great array of arms. They swore that Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, the prisoner's mother, armed with an automatic pistol, proved so formidable a menace they had to send for reinforcements after they had surrounded the house.

Charles Carroll, a Philadelphia policeman, said when he reached the Bergdoll home on the morning of Jan. 7 Federal agents were reading their search warrant to Mrs. Bergdoll, who flourished her pistol and refused them admittance. The party divided and his group forced its way through the kitchen.

"I discovered a window seat," he testified, "threw the cushion off, raised the lid and saw what looked like a bundle of clothes underneath. I felt a hard object which moved slightly. I pulled out Bergdoll, but I wasn't sure who it was until I looked him over."

Carroll told how Bergdoll refused to hold up his hands until a "gun was jammed against his ribs," and said Bergdoll denied being a German sympathizer, explaining that he got back from his vacation too late, after his draft notice had been served, and that he then was classified as a deserter, although the local board refused to reclassify him and allow him to enter the service. The prisoner, he said, denied that he had been hiding outside the country.

Charles P. Macready, another Philadelphia policeman, told the court he was on post when he saw eight Department of Justice men surround the home. They were held up at pistol point by Mrs. Bergdoll.

The police strategy aroused the interest of Captain Bruce R. Campbell, Bergdoll's military counsel, who commanded an infantry regiment of the Rainbow Division in the Argonne. His questions brought the witness's admission that the party waited an hour and a half for reenforcements before entering.

"Do you think you had sufficient men to make a frontal attack before the arrival of this last detail?" Captain Campbell asked.

"No, sir."

"Have you any knowledge of the theft of $5,300 on that third floor?"

"I have not."

"Did you see any division of money and diamonds?"

"No."

"Do you know any one in your party whose finances improved since then?"

"No, I don't."

Bergdoll, wearing only a shirt and a pair of trousers, was rushed away, Macready said, because they wanted to "take no chances, as every room had loaded revolvers, bowie knives, shotguns and Maxim silencers." Another reason was the crowd outside, Macready explained. It seemed excited, while workmen nearby had some rope ready for Bergdoll with which "to string him up."

The prosecution attempted to prove Bergdoll's "intent" to desert by showing that he drew from bank $25,000 the day after war was declared, but a representative of the Tenth National Bank of Philadelphia, cross-examined by Harry Weinberger for the defense, admitted that such withdrawals by Bergdoll were not unusual.

MAN SHOT DEAD BY FEDERAL AGENT

that when he saw no other way out he fired.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning J. J. Quigley, Assistant Collector of Internal Revenue, interviewed McMullin and the other agents at the station house. Quigley said McMullin had only done his duty in shooting Carlton when he tried to resist arrest, and added that the department would "stand by him." Quigley said the cases against Carveth and Benjamin Golosky, a chauffeur, of 125 East 113th Street, would be heard in the United States District Court today.

Golosky, according to the Federal agents, drove the automobile that carried them to the flat in East Seventy-sixth Street and assisted in putting some purchased liquor in the car. The charge against him was violation of the Volstead act.

McMullin Fought Moonshiners.

Stewart Nelson McMullin has had a life filled with thrilling experiences in running down the moonshiners in the mountains of Kentucky, where he was born and where he began his career as a detective and agent for the Secret Service. The class of criminals he has had to deal with in the mountainous region of Kentucky has taught him that those engaged in illicit liquor traffic are the most difficult criminals to apprehend and perhaps the most dangerous to deal with, and according to his wife, who was seen by a TIMES reporter at the Claridge Hotel last night, he takes no chances.

McMullin, on Saturday, arrested Daniel S. Kelliher and Marshall Sofield at Thirtieth Street and Eighth Avenue. It was charged that the night before they had entered the saloon of M. Mulligan at 403 Eighth Avenue and, saying that they were revenue agents, demanded $2,500 for protection.

Agent a War Veteran.

It was learned from Mrs. McMullin that her husband had been working off and on for the Department of Justice in New York for the last four months. He is a veteran of the European war, and went to France with one of the artillery divisions, and as soon as he was mustered out of the service he resumed his activities as a Secret Service operative.

Since he began his work in New York in connection with the apprehension of prohibition law violators, McMullin has operated in the district between Twenty-third Street and Ninety-sixth Street on the west side of Manhattan. At first he was not engaged altogether in the work of running down the violators of the liquor law, but, according to Mrs. McMullin, took assignments from time to time from the Department of Justice that involved the detection of various classes of criminals. More recently, however, his time has been devoted exclusively to a search for those who are illegally making and selling alcoholic concoctions.

McMullin is a sure shot with the pistol, and he knows no fear, according to his wife, who says that she sometimes helps him in his work of detection. The cool and deliberate manner of the Federal revenue agent has been a matter of remark by persons who have seen him as he comes and goes from the hotel. He is of medium build and has a clean-shaven face, set off with a very sharp nose. He has black hair and eyes and wears a crushed soft hat, with the brim always pulled far over his forehead.

Mr. McMullin and his wife have lived at the Claridge Hotel for only a short time. They were married seven months ago, after an acquaintance of several years. Mrs. McMullin came to New York City from New Orleans.

She first learned of the shooting when she got a telephone message from her husband, who told her to come to the East Sixty-seventh Street Police Station, without giving her any explanation.

She said she had complete confidence in her husband's ability to take care of himself, and she was not excited when she learned he was in a police station. At the station McMullin explained briefly to his wife the charge on which he was held, and assured her that the Federal authorities would arrange for his release so that he would be able to get back to their apartment last night. She was still waiting for him to return at midnight.

It was learned from Mrs. McMullin that her husband was 37 years old, and that this was the first time that his work as a detective, Secret Service agent and Federal revenue agent had resulted in the death of one of those whom he was sent to arrest.

For Compulsory Education.

ALBANY—March 11.—Assemblyman Slacer, of Buffalo, introduced a constitutional amendment in the Legislature today, intended to make elementary education compulsory "in public schools." In a statement explaining the amendment Mr. Slacer said that in his opinion "there can be no question that the solution of the disturbed conditions with respects to the attacks made upon our American institutions is proper education, thereby stamping out sedition and radicalism."

OAL WAGE BOARD SPLITS ON AWARD

perator and Public Representatives Recommend 25 Per Cent. Advance.

AKES NO CHANGE IN HOURS

XPECT PRESIDENT TO ACT

Majority Said to Favor Increasing Price of Coal to Meet Wage Advance.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The commission appointed by President Wilson o adjust the differences between operators and miners in the bituminous coal fields has been unable to reach a unanimous decision. A majority report, signed by Henry M. Robinson, representing the public, and Rembrandt Peale, representing the operators, and which recommends a general wage increase of 25 to 26 per cent. over the wages received when the coal strike was called on Nov. 1, without any change in working hours and conditions of labor, has been sent to the White House and is being considered by the President.

A minority report will be submitted tomorrow by John P. White, former President of the United Mine Workers of America, who represented the miners, recommending, it is reported, a seven-hour day and a 35 per cent. wage increase.

Secretary Green of the United Mine Workers, who called at the White House late today to see Mr. Tumulty, said that he was satisfied that an agreement would be reached which would prevent further trouble of serious nature in the coal fields. He did not see anything very alarming in the situation and scoffed at rumors that another strike of the miners might result about April 1 because of the position taken by Mr. Robinson and Mr. Peale.

The increase recommended in the majority report means, in the event of its acceptance, that operators and miners will be called upon by the President to enter into a contract whereby 11 to 12 per cent. will be added to the 14 per cent. increase which was granted to the miners by the operators when the recent coal strike was settled off.

It is understood that the commission does not favor forcing the operators to bear the full burden of the increase and that acceptance of the recommendations of the majority will mean an increase in the cost of coal to the consumer sufficient at least to cover the additional 11 or 12 per cent.

The majority report, it is understood, has recommended that the question as to whether the working day should begin at the mouth of the mine or the face of the coal, as now, as well as differentials and other matters involving hours and conditions of work, be referred to a special commission to be appointed by the next joint wage conference and report within two years.

The recommendations do not make the wage increases retroactive. As to the price which the public shall pay for coal, the majority is understood to recommend that this be left within the jurisdiction of the Fuel Administration during the tenure of the Lever act, and does not seek the authority vested in the Fuel Administration in order to make definite ruling.

The miners score an important point in the majority report in that it is recommended that the so-called check-off system be continued in force by the operators. Under this system the operators collect from the wages of the miners assessments for the union fund. The operators had asked that this system be abandoned.

WASHINGTON, March 11 (Associated Press)—In advance of the publication of the majority report, already submitted to the President, and the minority report of John P. White, to be submitted tomorrow, coal operators would not discuss the decision of the Coal Strike Commission. It was evident however, that the miners and some Administration officials expected the President to invite the two sides to get together on the basis of the majority and minority reports and reach an amicable settlement.

The commission has sixty days in which to render its report, which period expires tomorrow. While the commission would have no authority to enforce its findings even had its report been unanimous, the miners agreed to abide by its decision and the operators accepted its jurisdiction with the reservation that they could not be bound by any price advance for a period subsequent to the life of the Lever food control law, if this might subject them to prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

The approximate increase of 35 per cent. which it was reported Mr. White would recommend was said to have been worked out on the basis used by Secretary Wilson, with increases in the cost of living since November added. Wage increases were said to have been calculated by the majority on the basis of tonnage for pick and machine mining, a percentage increase for yardage and dead work, and a flat advance in the case of day laborers. According to some calculations the general advance probably would amount to 27 per cent or more.

President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America came to Washington tonight to acquaint himself with the situation and to confer with other union officials.

The existing contract between the miners and the operators will expire on April 1.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 11.—The miners of Illinois will not be satisfied with the award of the Coal Strike Settlement Commission but they must accept it or break faith, Frank Farrington, President og the United Mine Worker sof Illinois, said today:

"It is not what the miners expected," said President Farrington, "but they must accept it."

ST. LOUIS, March 11.—Thomas T. Brewster, Chairman of the Coal Operators' Scale Committee in the Central Competitive Field, asserted the price of coal would be increased if the miners received the 25 per cent. wage increase recommended today by the majority of the commission appointed by President Wilson to settle the coal miners' strike. Mr. Brewster refused to approximate what the price increase would be or discuss the recommended wage advance until he had received an official copy of the commission's report.

Floods Cut Hard Coal Output.

HAZLETON, Pa., March 11.—Thaws flooding the lower levels of anthracite mines have cut the production of coal about 20 per cent. in the Hazleton district and many sections in the Schuylkill field, according to a statement issued by the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Continuation of the present warm spell is expected to cause still more water to flow into the mines.

British Must Pay 6 Billions in Treasury Bills and Advances

LONDON, March 11.—Giving testimony today before the Committee on Taxation of War Wealth, B. R. Blackett, Controller of Finance to the Treasury, advocated special taxation. He said there was real necessity for large contributions to the reduction of the national debt and urgent necessity to obtain cash by taxation.

For this it was most desirable, he said, to get rid of what he termed the everlasting rise in prices. He said the longer this situation was left the worse it would be, for the vicious system would continue and a crash would come.

Mr. Blackett said there were £1,000,000,000 in Treasury bills and £200,000,000 in ways and means advances to be refunded or paid off, and until this was done it would be impossible to stop the "present vicious circle."

BRITISH LABOR BARS DIRECT ACTION

VOTE 3,370,000 TO 1,050,060

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 11.—Direct action as opposed to political action was today thrown out of court by decision of the specially called Trade Union Congress.

The particular point under discussion was whether direct action in a general strike should be taken to compel the Government to nationalize the coal mines. A card vote of delegates to the congress showed a majority against direct action of nearly two and three-quarters million votes.

To get a clear cut issue two motions were submitted to the delegates, and the card vote resulted as follows:

For political action in the form of intensive propaganda in preparation for the general election, 3,732,000; against, 1,015,000; majority, 2,717,000.

For trade union action in the form of a general strike, 1,000,000; against, 3,370,000; majority, 2,820,000.

Although the congress was cocerned only with the nationalization of the mines, it is believed that today's decision will govern the future policy of labor toward other industrial problems. Deduction made of the miners' votes, the strike policy found little support in the rest of the trade union movement. The miners will probably fall back on a movement for wage increases which may cause serious partial strikes if not a general one in the coal mining industry.

There were few speakers at the congress, J. H. Thomas, M. P., was in the chair, but Arthur Henderson was able to defense of political action. Pointing to the general belief in the early possibility of a labor movement, he said the party would find itself the guardian and protector of the whole community rather than of a section of the people.

"What right have we," he asked, "to call upon men and women to force the hands of the Government by action which cannot fail to inflict on the nation an upheaval which would inevitably entail bloodshed, while not necessarily achieving our object while a more simple, less costly, and certainly not so dangerous a remedy is within our reach?"

Frank Hodges presented the miners' case. He contended that the miners had been victims of a gigantic political fraud. The Government had promised to abide by the decision of the commission they appointed. That commission had recommended nationalization and the Government had broken its pledge.

Tom Mann supported Hodges, but other speakers denounced direct action as a dangerous experiment which could only recoil on the poor.

J. R. Clynes, M. P., said Lloyd George would welcome direct action.

"Lloyd George may be lacking in many characteristics, but he is not lacking in political strategy," he said. "Announce you are going to force him by a general strike and he would give you a general election under conditions in which we should find our own class rent in twain and every other class in the country determined and united to resist this aggressive step."

SWANSEA, Wales, March 11.—The strike of the Welsh steel workers, which has seriously crippled the industry in Wales for more than a week past, has been settled.

It was announced that an agreement has been signed in London today for ending the strike, the men being advised to return to their work.

Seventy thousand men were affected by the walkout, which was initiated to enforce a demand for a 40 per cent. increase in pay.

NEW NITTI CABINET IS TAKING FORM

ROME, March 10.—Reorganization of the Italian Cabinet is occupying public attention to the exclusion of virtually all other interests. Many forecasts of the personnel of the Ministry to be named by Premier Nitti have been printed, but the Giornale d'Italia has announced a list of Cabinet members which seems to be generally accepted as the probable composition of the new Government.

Premier Nitti, according to the newspaper, will, in addition to holding the post at the head of the Cabinet, be Minister of the Interior, while Vittorio Scialoia will continue as Foreign Minister. Signor Falconi or Signor Denicola, adherents of former Premier Giolitti, will be Colonial Minister, while either Signor Mauri or Signor Meda, Catholics, will be given the portfolio of Justice. Former Premier Luzzatti is expected to be Minister of the Treasury, and Signor Schanzer, who now holds that office, will be transferred to the Ministry of Finance.

Signor Bonomi, Reform Socialist, will be Minister of War, and Rear Admiral Secchi and Carl Ferraris will, respectively, retain their posts as Minister of Marine and Minister of Industry, Commerce, Labor and Food.

GOVERNMENT BACKS CHEAP MEAT DRIVE

Week of March 22 Set Aside for Campaign in Populous States for Money Saving.

DEALERS WILL STOCK UP

Hope Is to Get People to Buy Other Than Choice Cuts—20,000,000 Pounds of Army Beef for State.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Department of Justice announced today that New York would be included in the first group of States in which a "Save-Money-on-Meat Week" campaign will be conducted, during which consumers will be urged to turn away from high-priced cuts of beef, pork and lamb to those costing much less. The campaign will be held from March 22 to March 27 in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

"The Fair Price Commissioners of those States have been holding conferences with the retail meat dealers and with scores of different packing firms in that territory," the department announces. "It is expected that retailers will stock the less costly cuts in adequate quantities to fill the demand and that these meats will be sold, under the direction of the Fair Price Commissioner and with the co-operation of all factors concerned, at low prices. Only meat of unquestionable quality will be permitted to be sold. It is hoped that many thousands of consumers who have been buying porterhouse and sirloin steaks at prices ranging up toward 75 cents a pound will buy round steaks at perhaps half the price, and brisket, chuck and other nutritious cuts at even lower figures.

"When one remembers that the nation as a whole consumes 58,000,000 pounds of meat daily and that the States mentioned hold a considerable part of the national population, it is apparent from the tables given below that the saving in one week in this territory alone will run into prodigious sums. These tables embody quotations on some high-priced meat cuts and some relatively inexpensive meat cuts in the Middle Western markets recently. The prices are:

"Reports received by the Department of Justice from the Fair Price Commissioners indicate that the people in the various States are becoming actively interested in the campaign to lower the consumers' meat bill. The department is arranging for furnish charts, recipes, posters, and even lecturers to those interested. Fair Price Commissioners report that mass meetings will be held to forward the educational work."

20,000,000 Pounds of Army Beef for Sale.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 11.—New York City will have a share of the 20,000,000 pounds of army beef which will be distributed by municipalities throughout the State, it was agreed today following a conference of Commissioner Eugene H. Porter and representatives of the War Department.

The same plan of distribution is to be followed as in former sales of army foodstuffs. Mayors are asked to communicate immediately with Commissioner Porter their requests for beef.

1,046 FOOD PROSECUTIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Attorney General Palmer announced today that up to date 1,046 actions had been brought against alleged profiteers, hoarders and other violators of the Lever Food Control Act. He expressed the opinion that the prosecutions and the activities of the Department of Justice agents in forcing hoarded foodstuffs upon the market had been instrumental in preventing prices from going above the present level.

The Department of Justice announcement adds:

"Large quantities of foodstuffs, including 6,342,425 dozen eggs, 5,516,825 pounds of sugar, 641,533 pounds of butter, 99,067 pounds of cheese, 283,013 pounds of poultry, 262,786 pounds of fish, 20,066 cases of canned goods and five carloads of apples have been forced upon the market under proper supervision by means of the procedure prescribed in the Food Control act."

POLES AGAIN ROUT REDS IN SEVERE BATTLE

Repel Attack, Then Surround Foe, Taking Great Number of Prisoners and Guns.

WARSAW, March 11.—A staff communication issued by the Polish Army today says:

"The Bolsheviki, having concentrated great forces, attacked Wednesday in the section between Lake Osweia and the River Dvina. After a sharp struggle and the use of reserves the Poles repelled the attacks north of Mosir. The Poles surrounded and completely defeated the Reds and took eight guns, an artillery park and a great number of prisoners.

"The press points out enthusiastically the importance of the victory. The best elements of the Red Army are flying in disorder beyond the Dnieper, the right bank of which is in the possession of the Poles. The Polish commander is complete master of the situation. The booty taken is considerable."

MOTORISTS KIDNAP GIRL.

Three Flee in Car, Abandoning Victim in Road.

Special to The New York Times.

BALDWIN, L. I., March 11.—The local police are searching today for three men who kidnapped fourteen-year-old Florence Prior in an automobile here yesterday and later hurled her out and left her to make her way home afoot from a lonely spot. There is talk of lynching the men if they can be found.

The girl is the daughter of William Prior, a business man. After Florence returned from school she was sent from her home on the outskirts of the village on an errand to a village store. She was walking on a street near the centre of the village when she noticed a small touring car slowly following her. It soon drew abreast and stopped at the curb and three men alighted.

Florence did not become alarmed until the three suddenly rushed at her and seized her. One of the men pressed a hand over her mouth. Struggling wildly she was carried to the car, which was driven out of town. On a lonely road she was attacked.

After she was thrown out of the car the girl noticed that it bore no license plates. When she managed to reach her home she described her assailants to her father. He notified the police and aroused his neighbors, who armed themselves and started a man-hunt in their own autos. They found tracks of a car, but soon lost them.

Dr. Edwin Carman of Freeport is attending the girl, who is in a serious condition. She says she can identify the kidnappers.

Senate to Investigate Grain Corporation; Move Aimed at Hoover, Ashurst Charges

WASHINGTON, March 11.—An investigation of the United States Grain Corporation was ordered today by the Senate.

Senator Reed's resolution proposing the inquiry as the result of the recent report of the Federal Grand Jury at Spokane, Wash., was adopted after much discussion.

The investigation will be made by the Senate Manufactures Committee, of which Senator La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, is Chairman. It will inquire into the reported wheat pool as well as the "dealings, operations, speculations and manipulations, if any there has been," of the corporation or its officials.

Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, charged that the resolution was directed primarily at Herbert Hoover and that it was a "part of a policy that is being pursued to throw mud upon men who rendered valuable services during the war."

Senators Jones of New Mexico and Henderson of Nevada, both Democrats, opposed the resolution, saying the investigation should be made by the Department of Justice and not by the Senate.

Senator Kellogg, Republican, of Minnesota praised the efficiency and honesty of Julius H. Barnes, President of the Grain Corporation, who, he said, did not object to the investigation.

A letter from Max H. Houser, the corporation official named in the Grand Jury report, was presented by Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, Oregon. It urged a complete investigation of the charges. Senator Chamberlain said it was strange that a Grand Jury should make "a condemnatory and damning report against a man without returning an indictment."

Julius H. Barnes, Director of the United States Grain Corporation, said last night in New York that he would make no comment on the Senate's order for an investigation of the corporation until his appearance before the Senate committee conducting the inquiry.

ASQUITH TO FIGHT HOME RULE BILL

MORE KILLINGS IN IRELAND

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 11.—Former Premier Asquith today put down the following rejection motion for the second reading stage of the Government's Home Rule bill:

"That this House declines to proceed with a measure which is inacceptable to any section of the Irish nation, which denies national unity by setting up two legislatures and executives with coordinate powers, and which would indefinitely postpone the establishment of a united Parliament for Ireland."

Surprise is expressed in political circles at the second count in Mr. Asquith's indictment, since in 1914 Mr. Asquith was himself responsible for the Home Rule Amendment act, enacting separate legislative treatment for Ulster.

Police Sergeant Killed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, March 11.—Fresh shooting outrages occurred last night in Cork and Limerick counties.

At Rathkeale, Limerick, Sergeant Nealor and Constable Doyle, of the Royal Irish Constabulary, were confronted by masked armed men, who demanded their rifles and ammunition. In the struggle which followed, the sergeant was killed and Doyle was wounded.

In Cork, District Inspector McDonagh was fired on in the streets by a party of men and severely wounded.

FRENCH MOVE TO RENEW RELATIONS WITH POPE

PARIS, March 11.—A bill introduced in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon by the Government re-establishing relations between France and the Vatican was tabled at the end of the sitting. It was referred to the Finance and Foreign Committee.

The preamble of the bill says the measure is justified by national interests and will not affect the lay regime or the Church and State separation law. As important questions are being or are about to be discussed at Rome, the Government holds that France should not keep aloof in negotiations in which non-Catholic powers are participating.

"The principles which are inscribed at the very foundations of our republican institutions," says the preamble, "are not and cannot again be brought under discussion. The régime of separation has definitely become part of our customs as of the laws of the republic. It is, therefore, only fair to adopt a resolution which care for our interests in the world recommends.

"The Government judges that the moment has come to renew our traditional relation with the Pontifical government. French diplomacy ought to be represented where questions are being debated which are of interest to France. She cannot remain longer absent from the seat of the spiritual government at which a majority of the States have taken care to be represented. The coming into force of the peace treaties and the putting to an end of the World War make a resumption of relations with the Holy See particularly opportune.

"In our constant anxiety to avert the germs of new divisions, in our efforts to attain an international stable and durable peace, we have not the right to neglect any support. We should seek all counsels.

"The rebandling of the frontiers of Central Europe raises special religious questions. Most of such disputes come before the Roman Curia, and the intervention of a representative of France is natural and legitimate to support the demand of the Allies and strengthen the work of our treaties."

ARMENIAN VILLAGES BESIEGED BY TURKS

SAFA GIVES TURKEY'S CASE

Foreign Minister Denies Massacre Was Organized—Says Armenians Have Slaughtered Moslems.

LONDON, March 11.—Zeitun, Humit and various other Armenian villages in Cilicia have been besieged by Turkish bands for the last ten days, according to dispatches received from diplomatic sources today.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 6 (Associated Press).—The Turkish Minister of Foreign Affairs Safa Bey today discussed the Marash tragedy and the Cilician situation with The Associated Press. He emphatically denied that there was an organized massacre of Armenians, but said that 100 or 200 noncombatants, Mussulmans as well as Christians, had been killed or wounded.

"The truth of the statement that there was no organized massacre is evident," he continued, "as after the definite evacuation of Marash calm was reestablished and the Armenians there enjoy the protection of the very persons they attacked with such hatred.

"It was not an organized massacre. The only purpose of the tribes which rushed to the assistance of Marash was to deliver their co-religionists. The French and Armenians retired to the suburbs, and, having received reinforcements, resumed the bombardment of the city, which was two-thirds destroyed. Mussulman villages suspected of having co-operated with the defenders of Marash were surrounded by Armenians, who committed massacres without sparing women or children."

Since these happenings the inhabitants of Marash have been surrounded and cut off from communication and have suffered the terrors of starvation. Great numbers have died.

"It must be remembered that of the 20,000 Armenians in the Marash district more than half of them evacuated with the French troops or left the city later. So it is erroneous to attribute the diminution in their numbers to the Turks in order to bring the truth to light the Ottoman Government has asked that an investigation be made on the spot by a mixed commission.

"If one were to believe the reports circulated by malevolent means in an effort to make Turkey odious in Europe and influence the Peace Conference, 20,000 Armenians were massacred in Anatolia. But there has been no offense against the Christian population in Asia Minor since the armistice, except a collision in the region of Marash."

Safa Bey read from a mass of correspondence as he discussed the Marash situation. He spoke several times with great bitterness of the refusal of the Allied censorships to permit Turkey to tell its side of the story in the Turkish press, while permitting the Armenian and Greek papers to make statements unchallenged.

"The Government has done its best to keep order," he said, "but it is a hopeless task when foreign troops penetrate far into our country, as they have at Smyrna and Marash, and antagonize the population and submit them to indignities. Free men will defend themselves under such conditions.

"The French political agent, doubtless influenced by the Armenians, who persuaded him that the Turks were about to attack the French and massacre the Christians, arrested the Governor, the commandant of the gendarmerie and other notables. At the same time he went to the Governor's residence, where he declared he had assumed control of the country. Moved by these extraordinary measures, large numbers of Mussulmans, led by the municipal councilors, went to the Governor's residence to protest.

"The Mussulmans obtained from hostile manifestations, but apparently their intentions were misunderstood, for they were fired upon by the Armenians guarding the residence. The Turkish crowd was unarmed, but defended itself with stones when it saw it was followed.

"A little later Armenians, civilians and military, attacked the Mussulman population, without sparing the women or children. Then the Mussulmans, through the instinct of self-preservation, began firing.

"Immediately cannon and machine guns opened on the Turkish quarters, many of which were consumed by fire, while the Mussulmans were mowed down by hundreds. The fact that the fighting was exclusively in the Turkish quarters proves that the Turks were not the assailants.

"In the meantime the news of the massacre in Marash by the Armenians reached the country districts, and nomadic Kurds and Arabs rushed to the aid of their coreligionists. In the combats which ensued it was inevitable that 100 or 200 non-combatants should be killed or wounded."

Turkish Problem

DR. C. F. GATES, President of Robert College, Constantinople, contributes to The New York Times next Sunday an article on the Turkish problem.

Dr. Gates has spent forty years in relief and educational work among the people of the Ottoman Empire. Probably no American has a more thorough grasp of the political situation in Turkey and the problems which the Allies face in curbing Ottoman authority.

HEARD NUGENT WAS WILSON COUNCILOR

Contractor Sued for $100,000 Says Agent Told of Weekly Conferences.

GOT DRAFT LAW CREDIT

But He Really Failed to "Influence" Government Work, Defendant Insists.

That Joseph A. Wright, political friend and business associate of James R. Nugent of Newark, former Chairman of the New Jersey Democratic Committee, pictured Nugent as holding weekly conferences with President Wilson during the war, suggesting and drawing the draft law for the President, and wielding great influence at Washington generally was the testimony of William H. Fissell, a New York contractor, yesterday at the trial of a suit before Vice Chancellor Backes at Newark. Nugent is seeking to have Fissell account for the profits, said to total nearly $200,000, made on a contract for constructing buildings at Camp Merritt, Tenafly, N. J., alleging that Fissell had promised to split his profits on a "fifty-fifty" basis in return for Nugent using his influence at Washington.

"I had been unsuccessful in getting any contracts from the Emergency Construction Committee of the National Council of Defense, which had charge of the letting of the cantonment construction work," Fissell testified, "and I asked Joe Wright, a friend of Mr. Nugent's, whether the latter had patched up his little differences with the President."

"Mr. Wright told me," continued Mr. Fissell, "that Mr. Nugent and the President had fixed up their differences and that Mr. Nugent was going to Washington weekly to see the President, and that Mr. Nugent had suggested and drawn the Draft bill for the President. This was in the latter part of 1917. Then I said to Mr. Wright: 'Then Mr. Nugent ought to be able to use his influence at Washington to get me some of these contracts. I'd be willing to split fifty fifty on the net profits,' and Wright said he would speak to the 'big chief,' meaning Nugent."

Later Fissell heard from Wright, he said, that Nugent was enthusiastic about the proposal and would go to Washington to see what he could do for him. Wright went to Washington, Fissell testified, and established an office at the National Hotel, receiving $50 a week from Fissell.

Introduced to Nugent.

"About a month or six weeks after my talk with Wright, when I hadn't got any contracts and saw no prospect of getting any contracts, I thought I'd see Mr. Nugent myself and see what he was doing. We were introduced by a mutual friend. We talked about two minutes, and Mr. Nugent told me he was going to Waashington in my interests.

"I didn't see Nugent from that time, early in January, 1918, until after the Fourth of July of that year," Fissell continued. "Then I received word that Mr. Nugent wanted to see me, but I was so busy with the Camp Merritt work that I couldn't get down to his office, and we arranged a meeting at an hotel near the office.

"At this meeting Mr. Nugent told me he was interested in a $3,000,000 nitro plant that was to be built in the Carolinas and turned over to the Government that work had been held up because lumber could not be obtained; that he had gone to Washington and obtained a priority order for the lumber, and that now all he needed was a reliable contractor. He asked if I could do the work. I said I could if I had the capital, and he said he'd get the capital.

"By the way, how is the Camp Merritt job getting along? How do we stand on that?' Nugent asked me. I related a conversation I had with Kenneth B. Murchison, a New York architect, in which I was advised by the construction committee. Mr. Murchison had asked me if Joe Wright was in my firm and I said he was not. Captain Murchison said: 'That's good. That's what I told Colonel Starrett (Chairman of the committee). Starrett had told me that Wright was going around the lobbies of the hotels in Washington boasting that he, through his influence with Secretary Tumulty, had been able to land a $2,000,000 contract for Fissell, after others had tried for a year to get such work for him. Colonel Starrett didn't like this at all, and I told Wright that if he ingaged Colonel any further I would throw him out of a window.'

"I said to Nugent," Fissel continued, "that in spite of what Wright had done I would give him a share of the Camp Merritt profits if he could land other contracts he spoke of, totaling $6,000,000.

Hears of "Something Big."

"'That will be satisfactory,' Mr. Nugent said. 'There is lots of work going around and I'm going to see that you get some of it.' After that I didn't hear from Nugent until I got a telegram in August to go to his office. He asked me if I had heard from Washington, and when I said I hadn't he said he had word of something big, very big, so big that we'd better have our agreement in writing. He prepared the agreement and I signed it.

"I heard nothing for a long time and then I was invited to bid on a $300,000 housing contract at Kenilworth. I was sore and I told Mr. Nugent so. After wasting a whole year, I was invited to bid on this $300,000 job when at the same time there was a $2,000,000 one at Elizabeth and a $4,000,000 one at New Brunswick. Mr. Nugent said he was sore, too, that he'd go down to Washington and find out what they meant. If he didn't get somewhere he'd quit the whole business.

"'Washington needs me more than I need Washington,'" Fissell quoted Nugent as saying.

Mayor William Starrett of Madison, N. J., of the Fuller Constructions Company, New York, and formerly in charge of the letting of the cantonment contracts, denied that any political influence had figured in any recommendations of the committee. He had seen Wright in Washington and understood that he represented Fissell, but denied that Wright or Nugent, whom he did not know, had anything to do with the recommending of Fissell for the Camp Merritt work after another contract had been taken from Fissell and awarded to a Georgia concern for the construction of Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga. Other witnesses testified that they didn't know Nugent and that the Fissell contract was awarded without regard to anything Nugent may have done.

Major John E. Esterbrook, formerly Constructing Quartermaster at Camp Merritt, denied that Nugent had had him promoted from Captain, as testified by Nugent.

GIRLS IN PEKING UNIVERSITY

Had Hitherto Been Restricted to the Normal Schools.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, March 11.—A remarkable educational advance in the history of China occurred this week when five girl students were admitted to Peking University. Hitherto girls were restricted to the normal school, but after considerable agitation the university doors have been opened.

The significant feature is that this concession marks the first acceptance of the principle of co-education.

Atlantic Passenger Fares Will Be Further Increased

LIVERPOOL, March 11.—A further surcharge of 13 1-3 per cent. in passenger fares has been decided upon by the North Atlantic steamship companies, according to The Liverpool Post.

The increase in the cost of a voyage to America since July will now amount to 33 1-3 per cent.

GALE HURLED BACK SCHROEDER'S PLANE

TO TRY FOR ROOF OF WORLD

Thinks He Can Rise 48,000 Feet and Will Use Glass Cage and Three-Hour Oxygen Supply.

How he encountered such strong headwinds in the upper air regions on his record-breaking altitude flight that his airplane literally traveled backward 120 miles an hour, although he was supposed to be flying forward 100 miles an hour, was described here yesterday by Major Rudolph Schroeder. Major Schroeder, who ascended 36,020 feet at Dayton, Ohio, on Feb. 27, is recovering from the effects of a five-mile drop when his supply of oxygen was exhausted.

"I am not actually engaged in altitude flying for the sake of breaking records," said Major Schroeder in an interview at the National Aircraft Show. "As test pilot at McCook Field, it is my duty to explore the altitudes for scientific data regarding trade winds that scientists have long believed existed miles above the earth.

"I succeeded in locating one series of trade winds at a height of 30,000 feet. These winds blow always from west to east at that height. They attain great rates of speed, ranging from 100 to 300 miles an hour. At the peak of my climb, where I hung with slightly upward progress for fifteen minutes, I found the winds blew toward the east at the rate of 220 miles an hour.

"I had started thirty miles west of Dayton, my machine having a speed of 120 miles per hour, and as I steered westward I was literally traveling backward 120 miles an hour.

"I find that a man can breathe without artificial means up to an altitude of 18,000 feet. After that emergency oxygen must be employed.

67 Degrees Below.

"It would require too long in the telling to describe just what I found up there in the matter of trade winds and just what my sensation was when I commenced to fall. As to how I managed to climb that high, that is a part of the official record I am compiling.

"This much I can say: The temperature at the peak of the climb was 67 degrees below Fahrenheit. The centre section of my machine was coated an inch thick with ice. The exhaust from the motor sprayed fumes of carbon monoxide over me and I was breathing this continually along with the oxygen. I had set out with three hours' supply of oxygen and four hours' fuel supply. I have not been able to figure out exactly just what the roof of the world really is. I think it possible to go much higher than 48,000 feet, which scientists believe is the ultimate ceiling of the world. But I believe it to be a question of fuel supply.

"I was getting along rapidly. I knew by reading my instruments that I had broken the record. That I was flying higher than any man had ever flown before. I had an hour and one half supply of fuel left and was quite elated. I was wondering just how far I could climb in that time when I found my reserve tank of oxygen emptied.

"I had discarded the original tank some minutes before because it did not function properly, and when I exhausted my reserve turned back to it. It would not work. I had torn off my heavy goggles because the motor exhaust was crystallizing on them and interfered with my vision. I turned toward the instruments—then everything went blank. I fell into a flat nose dive.

Gas Tank Collapses.

"While I was falling my gasoline tank collapsed. You see, I was working a pressure system of three pounds per square inch up there at the peak. As I dropped down into heavier atmosphere the pressure from outside increased to fourteen pounds per square inch, and the pressure naturally caved in the tank.

"As far as I can remember, part of the fall was in a straight nose dive. The rest was a spinning nose dive. I believe I was really 34,000 feet high when I fell against the switchboard. My motor was on at the time. I was trying to turn off the switch as I neared the plane, head down. I must have turned the switch off.

"Yes, I actually lost consciousness and my head was out of the machine, hanging over the edge of the cockpit.

"One thing I might mention: It has been said that the temperature varies at certain altitudes. I secured a rise in temperature of 2 degrees at one point in the upward climb."

Major Schroeder said that while he was more than 35,000 feet high he could distinguish plainly points in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia. Dayton below him was easily recognizable, the race track of the city standing out particularly clearly, he said.

After his month's furlough is up, Major Schroeder will try to better his world's record, using this time a glass cage to protect himself and the machine. A three-hour supply of oxygen will be carried and, as on his previous trips, he will fly alone.

PAYNE FOR LEGISLATION TO DIRECT SHIP SALES

But Tells Senate Committee Board Should Be Allowed Full Discretion On Time and Manner.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Congress should include in merchant marine legislation a specific direction to the Shipping Board to sell the present Government-owned fleet, but should give the Board full discretion as to how and when sales should be made, Chairman Payne told the Senate Commerce Committee today. "The provisions for selling," the Chairman said, "should be included in the legislation by Congress to fix the policy of the Government, if that is the policy."

Chairman Jones presented a letter to the committee from Matthew Hale, Chairman of the Midwest-Gulf-South Atlantic States Foreign Trade Committee, protesting against the recent sale by the board to foreign concerns of a number of steel ships in the 8,000-9,000 ton class. This class of ships, the letter said, was needed for the West Indies and Caribbean Sea trade.

Chairman Payne said the board had found the vessels uneconomic in operation and stood ready to sell them either to Americans or foreigners, reserving the larger ships exclusively for sale to Americans.

SIMS CONDEMNS BASIC WAR POLICY

Attacks Navy Department for Putting Home Needs and Future Position First.

SAYS FLEET WASN'T READY

And Months Were Lost Before It Was Finally Decided to Send Battle Squadron Across.

HOOVER CALLED AS WITNESS

To Tell How Near the Allies Were to Losing the War Through Submarine Blockade.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Charges that the Atlantic Fleet was not kept in readiness for battle during the war were added by Rear Admiral Sims to his arraignment of Navy Department policy in testimony today before the Senate Investigating Committee.

He told the committee that frequent pleas for American warships were disregarded and months were lost in dispatching a squadron of battleships to join the British Grand Fleet. When the squadron finally was ordered abroad, he said, it was composed of four ships of different types, evidence that other ships to form a homogeneous unit were "not ready for sea service." He read also a message from the Navy Department showing that after the four were selected it was necessary to dock them before they could proceed, a delay of another two or three weeks.

Tribute to the officers and men of the battleships was paid by the Admiral, who said the work of fitting into the British Fleet was accomplished in four days, one of the finest exhibitions he had ever seen. Service with the British, he pointed out, necessitated the abandonment of all the American codes and signals and adoption of the British system.

Admiral Sims charged that it was three months after the United States entered the war before he received a statement of the Navy Department's policy; that for seven months the department failed even to answer his cables with regard to sending battleships and then denied the request, but a month later reversed its position and ordered the Sixth Battle Squadron abroad; that he first urged the dispatch of all available tugs to the war zone on April 23, 1917, but no tugs arrived until a year later, although forty-three were available to the Navy Department the day war was declared, in addition to many owned by private concerns; that although he asked on June 23, 1917, that American submarines be sent to the war zone to help combat U-boats, it was four months before his request was compiled with, and then but five submersibles were sent, five more arriving four months later.

Hoover to Testify Tomorrow.

Admiral Sims requested that the committee call Herbert Hoover to substantiate his statements that the war was in danger of being lost by the Allies because of the German submarine campaign. The Committee agreed to ask Mr. Hoover to appear on Saturday to tell of food conditions in the Allied countries in the summer of 1917.

Admiral Sims said he would like to have the former Food Administrator called before he proceeded further in order that there should "be no doubt in my mind that I have substantiated the part of my letter in which I described the gravity of the crisis which we faced in 1917 and pointed out how near to disaster the lack of action by the department at that time brought us."

"The Allies indeed barely escaped a peace without victory," said the Admiral.

Admiral Sims read a cablegram from the Navy Department dated July 10, 1917, containing an outline of the department's policy and declaring that "while a successful termination of the present war must always be the first Allied aim and will probably result in diminished tension throughout the world, the future position of the United States must in no way be jeopardized by any disintegration of our main fighting fleet."

The same cablegram, Admiral Sims said, contained this statement:

"The Navy Department announces as its general plan of action the following: Its willingness to send its minor fighting forces in any number not incompatible with home needs to any field of action deemed advisable by the Allied Admiralty Council; its unwillingness as a matter of policy to separate any division from the main fleet for service abroad, although it is willing to send the ent

SUFFRAGE STRUGGLE LIKELY IN DELAWARE

Governor Has Been Unable to Get Sufficient Pledges to Assure Its Ratification.

WASHINGTON STATE CERTAIN

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, Del., March 11.—Ratification of the suffrage amendment by the Delaware Legislature, to convene here in special session on March 22, is still in doubt. Governor Townsend, while confident that the amendment will pass, has been unable to secure sufficient pledges from the members of the Legislature to make ratification certain.

Both factions of the women in this State, the Delaware Equal Suffrage and the National Women's Party, have also failed to secure sufficient pledges from the seventeen Senators and twenty-five Representatives to warrant their full confidence in the result of the special session.

Reports from Sussex County predict that not one of the ten Representatives, or the five Senators, all of whom are Republicans, except one Representative, will refuse to vote for the suffrage.

Of the five Democratic State Senators the suffrage advocates can count on but one, with a possible refusal on his part to vote for the measure at the last moment. Of the twelve Democratic Representatives in the House assurances of but two can be relied upon.

It will require the votes of nine Senators and eighteen Representatives to pass the amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 11.—When the Legislature of Washington meets in special session March 22, the Suffrage amendment is expected to be ratified promptly. As a pioneer in woman suffrage, this State has shown a lively interest in the fate of the amendment, and the fact that it is one of the last of the States to vote, is due to a desire to keep down appropriations.

Among the measures certain to be introduced at the session is a soldiers' bonus bill, and relief appropriations for institutions of higher learning. Suffrage however, will be first on the order of business.

Washington enfranchised its women in 1910. Since then women have taken an active part in politics and have become Republicans, Democrats or Socialists, according to their opinions.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The West Virginia Senate in ratifying the suffrage Amendment after unseating Senator Montgomery "simply made the alleged ratification a matter for the courts to decide," the National Association Opposed to Woman Sufrage declared in a statement tonight.

Refusal to seat Senator Montgomery was said by the association to be a violation of the constitutional provision for a two-thirds vote to expel a member.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 11.—Governor Roberts announced today that he would call a special session of the Legislature to extend suffrage to Tennessee women if the Federal Amendment was ratified prior to the next regular session. This will be done to preclude the possibility of contesting elections in which women voted without enactment of State laws relating to payment of poll tax and registration.

DIFFER ON PARTY LOYALTY.

Ogden L. Mills Speaks for It, Francis H. Sisson Against It.

Opposite opinions as to the obligations of party loyalty were expressed last night by Ogden L. Mills, representing the Republican Party, and Francis H. Sisson, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, presenting the viewpoint of the political independent, in speeches at a meeting of the Manhattan Borough League of Women Voters at the Women's University Club, 106 East Fifty-second Street. State Senator James J. Walker, who was to have represented the Democratic organization, was not present.

Mr. Mills stated that political parties formed an essential function of American government and declared that party loyalty was necessary or party disintegration would result. Only in the exceptional case, he said, was a person justified in bolting a party candidate or platform.

Mr. Sisson said he could see nothing sacred in the two-party scheme of government. "I don't know why there should not be three, four or more parties," he said. "If labor wants a party to express its principles I don't see why there should not be a labor party, or why there should not be a farmers' party, or even a capitalist party, if capital feels it can not get a square deal from the proletariat."

Mr. Sisson said that if the Republican or the Democratic Party stood for any definite principles he had been unable to learn what they were. "Blind party loyalty," he declared, "is the source of corruption and misgovernment and is a blight upon democracy."

Eventually there must be a new party alignment along the natural lines of a conservative and a liberal party, Mr. Sisson said. He said he expected the entrance of women into politics to help create a genuine cleavage and said there was no class of voters of whom the party leaders stood more in awe than of the independent women.

GIFT TO TRAVELERS' AID.

Anonymous Contribution of $10,000 Starts Society's Campaign.

An anonymous donor started off the campaign of the Travelers' Aid Society of New York for $300,000 with a gift of $10,000 yesterday. No message or letter accompanied the contribution which was made through a third party, who cannot be traced.

Several other large gifts were reported last night following the receipt of the $10,000. Mrs. William Church Osborn, James McAlpin Pyle, and Rush Taggart each contributed $1,000; Mrs. William Fellowes Morgan, $500; Gilbert Colgate, $500; Robert J. Cuddihy, $500; Eugene S. Benjamin, $500; Ralph M. Johnson, $500; Mrs. Morris Loeb, $500; Mrs. Clinton L. Rossiter, $250, and E. E. Olcott, $100. Total contributions received amount to $16,050, according to the announcement last night of Miss Virginia A. Murray, Acting Secretary.

Chicago's Trolley Share $1,376,841.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 11.—The city's share of Chicago surface lines' profits for the fiscal year ending Jan. 31, 1920, will be $1,376,841, according to estimates made today in the City Controller's office on the basis of the traction companies' monthly statements for the year. With this addition the traction fund in the possession of the city will be $27,431,841.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED AT SOLDIERS' HOME

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 11.—Lieut. Gov. Harry C. Walker, after questioning Reuben A. Wright, 77 years old, a civil war veteran, here today, relative to alleged brutalities and thieving tactics of attendants and nurses at the Soldiers and Sailors' Home at Bath, disclosed at previous hearings, stated that drastic changes in the management of the home would have to be made.

For more than an hour the Lieutenant Governor and Cortland A. Wilbur of Binghamton questioned Mr. Wright as the veteran lay ill in bed. When Mr. Wright in his sworn testimony stated that while at the home "they tried to make me out insane," Mr. Wright whispered. "I guess your mind is as sound as the mind of any one."

The witness declared he was "doped" at the home on his birthday, Dec. 14, 1917, and that he was insensible for five days. He stated he saw an old soldier named Pierce choked by an attendant when he refused to take medicine immediately as ordered. "Pierce took the medicine, Mr. Wright said, "and I guess he is dead now."

The old soldier thus described the loss of $70.

"About the 16th or 13th of January, 1918, I suffered a stroke, and was taken to the hospital. I was unconscious for several days, and when I came to I found that about $70 that I had in a pocket in my clothes was gone.

"About two weeks after I missed the money, a nurse told me he was going on a vacation, and I said to him, 'I will give you $30 of that money if you will refund the $70.' And he says, 'Won't you tell anybody?' I says, 'Why, no.'

"Well, that was all that was said at that time. He went on the vacation, and was gone about two weeks. When he came back I says to him, 'How much of my money have you got?' 'Why, about $4, I guess.' And that is all that was said. He didn't say he would give it back to me.

"It went along about a week after, and I said, 'How much of my money have you got?' He says, 'I haven't got any at all.' So I was out."

Mrs. A. P. Ripley, Wright's sister, testified that Wright was brought to Syracuse in September, 1919. She stated he was taken out of the hospital because of a fear on her part and other relatives that he would break down completely, and that at the time he left the institution "his nerves were completely gone."

ROADS ENLARGE COMMITTEE

The Special Committee of the Association of Railway Executives, which has been meeting with the labor representatives on pending wage demands, was increased from eight to sixteen members at a meeting of the association here yesterday.

This action was taken by the Standing Committee after various subjects affecting operation of the railroads in connection with the new transportation act, which will be brought up at the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission March 22, had been discussed.

The eight new members chosen today include: C. H. Stein, Central Railroad of New Jersey; J. H. Dyers, Southern Pacific Company; E. G. Wills, Missouri Pacific; W. M. Jeffers, Union Pacific; J. H. Foster, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; J. R. Gould, Chesapeake & Ohio; G. R. Loyall, Southern Railway, and B. M. Starks, Louisville & Nashville Railway Company.

E. E. Whitter of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was appointed Chairman of the committee, which was appointed under Section 301 of the Transportation act at request of President Wilson in an effort to settle demands for wage increases that were pending at the termination of Federal control.

GEN. DYER TO REVIEW 69TH.

Regiment Nearing Federal Strength Requirements, Says Col. Phelan.

In announcing that the 69th Infantry would tender a review to Brig. Gen. George R. Dyer, commanding the 1st Infantry Brigade, New York Guard, tomorrow night, Colonel John J. Phelan said that the famous organization had raised seven of its sixteen subdivisions to the enlisted strength specified for federalization. According to Colonel Phelan, the regiment was the first of the local regiments to reach the strength of 100 men to a company, the personnel required for federalization.

Colonel Phelan asked that former members of the regiment, especially the veterans of the 165th Infantry, attend the regimental mass on March 17 at St. Patrick's Cathedral and also that the veterans parade with the Irish societies later in the day. The Irish regiment, according to Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, "is making sound progress."

ASKS $7,500 A YEAR FOR SON

Robert Kelly's Widow Appeals to Court for Allowance.

Surrogate Cohalan yesterday appointed Philip J. Sinnott referee to pass on a plea by Mrs. Dorothy Kelly, widow of Robert J. Kelly, who died May 6 last and who was the son of Eugene Kelly, banker, for an allowance of $7,500 a year from the Eugene Kelly estate for her son Robert, fifteen years old, who has been an invalid since the death of his father.

Mrs. Kelly stated that $18,000 a year was provided for her husband and herself, but his death reduced this to $6,000. A trust fund yields $30,000 a year for the invalid son and another son, Eugene, who is over 21 years old. The latter now receives his share, but his younger brother is entitled to nothing until he reaches maturity. Mrs. Kelly says she is unable to support her younger son and herself on $6,000 a year, because it has cost her $620 a month for her son alone.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

The Philharmonic Society.

Brahms and Wagner formed the combination on the Philharmonic Society's program last evening, a most irreconcilable one to music lovers of these days. Brahms furnished his Fourth Symphony; the Wagner numbers comprised a collection of orchestral passages arranged by Mr. Stransky from "Siegfried" and "The Dusk of the Gods"; the "Good Friday Spell" from "Parsifal," the "Funeral March" from "The Dusk of the Gods" and "The Ride of the Valkyries" from "The Valkyrie."

Brahm's Fourth Symphony has several times recently appeared on the Philharmonic Society's programs. The performance last night, like the previous ones, left much to be desired. Stransky's conducting was rigid and metronomic in beat, lacking in the plastic beauty that comes from modeling and finish of phrasing and subtle modifications of tempo; a reading without the romantic beauty, the poetic feeling or the magnificent elastic vigor with which the music is filled.

Mr. Stransky entered more successfully into the spirit of the Wagner numbers. His arrangement of the selection from "Siegfried" and "The Dusk of the Gods" is well made to produce an effective concert number; he is as justified in doing it as was Hans Richter in making his well known selection that utilized part of the same music and that no doubt had Wagner's sanction. It would be difficult to square the making of such pasticios with Wagner's dramatic principles; but as he was so indifferent to the subversion of his principles when there was a question of producing effective concert numbers, it is probably not necessary to undertake that task.

There was applause for the symphony by Brahms; it would be interesting to see how a really fine performance of the symphony would have affected the audience. Mr. Stransky's arrangement aroused enthusiasm.

SYMPHONY PLAYS WAGNER.

Damrosch Men Give a Program from Eight Music Dramas.

The orchestra of the Symphony Society, now in the last fortnight of its regular season, and on the eve not only of a gala Spring festival but also of an unprecedented European tour, appeared yesterday without a soloist in an all-Wagner program at Carnegie Hall, to be repeated at Aeolian Hall on the coming Sunday. Rosa Ponselle of the Metropolitan had been expected to appear on both these occasions, but the engagement was canceled at the last moment owing to the young soprano's duties at the opera.

A large audience heard orchestral numbers from eight of Wagner's ten music dramas, notably from "Parsifal," of which Mr. Damrosch gave the preludes and the Good Friday music, with violin solo for Gustave Tinlot. There were preludes to "Rienzi" and "Lohengrin," the "Tannhauser" bacchanale, "Tristan's" love scene, a dance from "Master Singers," the Rhine journey from "Siegfried" and the "Valkyrie" ride.

CHILDREN AT 'BLUE BIRD.'

Chalmers New in Role at Matinee—Caruso Sings at Night.

"The Blue Bird" was sung to an audience of many children at the Metropolitan yesterday afternoon, a sixth performance of the Masterlinck-Wolff fantasy of many scenes, which thus reached a record shared only by "Coq d'Or," "Carmen" and "Butterfly." The cast, including Delaunois, Ellis, Perini, Rothier and others, remained as before except for Thomas Chalmers, who was new as Tylo, the dog.

That faithful animal's death drew an audible wail from a quarter of the house where sat the baritone's little daughter Fiora, who had to be taken to her father behind the scenes before she could be comforted. Another young spectator was Pierre Wolff, son of the opera's composer and conductor.

Last night a house sold out greeted Caruso, Ponselle, Gordon, Amato, Mardones and others, led by Papi, in the season's fourth performance of Verdi's "Forza del Destino."

MUSIC NOTES.

Max Hirsch, who managed American tours of the French Army Band and the Paris Symphony Orchestra, had received, through the High Commissioner here, the French Government's decoration as an Officer of Public Instruction.

The Duncan Dancers, returning from appearances in Europe and South America, will be seen at Carnegie Hall tomorrow night, assisted by an orchestra led by Edward Falck.

The New York Symphony's last concert at Stuyvesant High School, postponed by the February blizzard, will take place tomorrow evening, when the program includes a memorial to the late Maud Powell.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Adele Rowland will enter the cast of "Irene" at the Vanderbilt Theatre Monday night, playing the title role. Edith Day, who created the part, is leaving the cast to head a London company of the piece.

The Hannaford family of equestrians, headed by "Poodles" Hanneford, has been reengaged for the Hippodrome for next season.

Frisco, the dancer, and Pauline Chambers have been engaged for the new edition of the Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic, to be presented on the New Amsterdam roof Monday night.

Frederick La Salle will be in the cast of "A Week-End Marriage," Owen Davis's new comedy.

Minor McLain, who won the title of "The Apollo of the Navy" and posed for many navy posters, has been engaged for the "Florodora" sextet.

BOSTON ORCHESTRA TO REPLACE STRIKERS

Symphony Management Gives Men Until Today to Return—Will Make Southern Tour.

BOSTON, March 11.—The Boston Symphony Orchestra, depleted by a strike of one-third of its players, will be recruited to full strength within a day or two, according to a statement by the management today. The men struck first on Saturday because of the discharge of Concert Master Fradkin and again yesterday because their pay was withheld pending disciplinary action. They are forming an independent orchestra with Fradkin as leader for a tour of New England.

The strikers will be given until tomorrow to return, after which their places will be filled, it is said. Former members of the orchestra, some of whom have already volunteered, will first be called upon. The possibility that women may be taken into the organization for the first time has been suggested.

The orchestra held its daily rehearsal today without the thirty-two strikers, who met at union headquarters and discussed their further procedure.

The orchestra will make its Southern tour beginning next week, the management announced.

ISBA AT THE LEXINGTON.

Russian Village Festival Shown in Third Theatre Here.

Russia, not filtered through Petrograd, was again presented in sample form to New Yorkers last night, when the Russian Isba, which left the Manhattan Opera House last week, reappeared at the Lexington Theatre for an additional three weeks' run. This latest imported entertainment from the land of Soviets attracted particular, and deserved attention, when it drifted into town less than a month ago, and found its first American audience at the Belmont Theatre.

On the larger stage it is spectacularly more satisfactory, and the details of the program have been somewhat changed, but it still divides itself into much the same music in an impressive and dignified setting, a merry village party in Uncle Ivan's cabin (or Isba) and a night scene beside a gypsy campfire on the steppes. The folksongs of the cabin scene and the dancing of Nina Sergeyeva, Edward Stanislawski and Vera Zimeleva continue to command the greatest general interest and applause.

DRAMA LEAGUE INDORSED.

Authors and Managers Approve Campaign for Endowment Fund.

To aid the New York Drama League's campaign for a membership endowment fund, John Drinkwater, Daniel Frohman, Rupert Hughes, Arthur Hopkins, Josephine Preston Peabody, Laurence Housman, Robert Edmond Jones, James Forbes, Stuart Walker and Walter Hampden have signed the following indorsement of the league's work:

"We believe in the work of the New York Drama League in showing the public the possibilities of the theatre and encouraging the theatre to realize those possibilities. Every single addition to the membership list helps the league on its way."

13 DIE IN MISSOURI STORM.

Two Are Missing and Eight Are Injured in Tornado.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 11.—Ten persons are known to be dead, another is reported dead, two are missing and eight are injured as the result of a tornado which swept through the valley of Turkey Creek, near Branson and Hollister, in Taney County, today.

At Nevada, Mo., three persons were killed and property damage, estimated at $100,000, involving every building in the business section, was sustained when a tornado struck the town.

Opening of "Musk" Postponed.

The opening performance of "Musk" at the Punch and Judy Theatre, which had been announced for last night, did not takep lace, owing to the sudden illness of Burnel Lunbec, a member of the cast. The premiere is now announced for tomorrow night.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Conflicting forces were at work in stocks throughout yesterday's session, realising sales on a large scale being quite evident in some quarters at the same time that special issues were bid upward. In the first hour the market was strong, with the exception of some of the rails, whose rise of Tuesday and Wednesday had evidently been mainly the result of buying for a quick profit. It was in this period that the foreign exchanges bulged sharply, sterling gaining 6 cents to the pound over the preceding day's final quotation, and as the sentimental relation between the recent improvement of exchange rates and the stock market has been pronounced it was likely that sterling's upturn influenced the further advance of industrial shares yesterday morning. Cotton, too, gained ground, with a later reaction, and grain prices moved forward on the Chicago market. Before noon the exchanges declined in a subdued movement and at the same time irregularity became pronounced in stocks. In final dealings a number of specialties and motor company shares were 2 to 5 points above Wednesday's last quotations, while a softening tendency was described by other departments.

What the day's movements in the stock and foreign exchange markets reflected more than anything else was speculation that had not become altogether convinced that higher levels were to be reached and maintained in the immediate future. The discussion of gold imports, with their consequent effects upon banking reserves; the growth of favorable sentiment about conditions in Europe as the Spring months approach and an optimistic feeling over the railroad outlook have had much to do with the forward price movements in various markets. The net advance of more than 50 cents in sterling quotations from the minimum level of February has evidently resulted in part from a revulsion of speculative endeavor, due to a realization on both sides of the water that the decline had gone further than the underlying European financial situation warranted. Whether the altered outlook has been discounted by the exchanges remains to be seen. It is yet to be established that the British and French Governments intend to send really large amounts of gold, at least before the due date of the Anglo-French loan draws near. The rise of stocks in the last ten days, allowing for a round amount of short covering, has occurred coincident with the thought that credit conditions are gradually strengthening, yet such improvement remains to be disclosed in bank statements and until this event is patent there will hardly be room for large-scale speculative activity in stocks. The "dips" which have occurred in stocks after forward swings in the last fortnight show that traders are not taking undue chances with paper profits.

The Bank of England in yesterday's report showed a gain of nearly $12,000,000 in gold at the par of the sovereign and the ratio of reserve to liabilities gained in the week approximately 2½ per cent. to 21.62 per cent. Thus, the Bank's accumulation off the metal showed forth additional proof of its ability to add to its holdings from week to week. The price of gold on the London market declined 4 shillings 7 pence from Wednesday's last quotation and silver also moved off sharply. Sterling exchange at New York, following its early rise, fell back under substantial offerings to a point 3 cents under the preceding afternoon's closing quotation.

PALMER WILL PUSH TRUST PROCEEDINGS

FINDS CASES DIFFERENT

Department Is Free to Bring New Charges of Law Violation, Officials State.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Department of Justice will proceed against all corporations alleged to be trusts regardless of the recent decision by the Supreme Court in the Steel Corporation case.

In announcing the Department's policy today, Attorney-General Palmer said: "The Steel case does not indicate what the high court will do in other similar trials." He added that the department staff had given careful consideration to the Steel decision and had found that there were many differences from a legal standpoint in all other cases now being prepared by the government.

"Mature study" of the Steel Corporation decision, the Attorney-General said, disclosed no weakness in the Sherman act, under which the suits were brought.

Officials explained that the four-to-three decision, the vote in the steel trust case, could not be construed as meaning that that was the view of the high court on the Sherman law. The decision stated that the corporation was not committing unlawful acts now, but officials pointed out that the department was left free to institute new proceedings if violations were discovered.

Nine anti-trust suits are before the Supreme Court. Among suits in the lower courts is the action against labor leaders and manufacturers in Chicago, who are accused of collusion to restrain the installation of electrical fixtures in Chicago unless manufactured in that city. The important phase of this case is its connection with the relationship between capital and labor.

SUES TICKER SERVICE FOR FALSE TAX NEWS

MILLIONS REPORTED LOST

Other Litigation Awaits Outcome—News Agency Blames "Aberration" of Reporter.

An action against Dow, Jones & Co. for losses alleged to have been suffered on Monday because of its erroneous ticker report of the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Macomber case as to the taxability of stock dividends was brought in the Supreme Court yesterday by Gaston Jaillet, a customer of Josephthal & Co., through Martin C. Ansorge of 100 Broadway, his atttorney. Mr. Ansorge stated that the action, which is only for $2,218.75, alleged to have been the amount actually lost by Mr. Juillet in transactions in the stock of Crucible Steel, was a test case, in the result of which a number of clients, with losses aggregating thousands of dollars, were interested.

Mr. Ansorge in his complaint charged Dow, Jones & Co. with "negligence, carelessness, and recklessness," both in sending out the original erroneous report and in failing to correct it promptly. Mr. Ansorge said that the action was brought against Dow, Jones & Co. because it was from its ticker service that Mr. Jaillet obtained the erroneous information which is alleged to have caused his losses. He declared that suits would be instituted against other agencies which sent out the erroneous report if losses of some of his other clients were shown to have been caused by the reports of these agencies.

Says Millions Were Lost.

Millions of dollars had been lost and many innocent investors had suffered serious financial setbacks as a result of the erroneous report that stock dividends were taxable as income, said Mr. Ansorge. He said he intended to investigate the circumstances which immediately preceded and followed its circulation. Mr. Ansorge said he had in possession originals of the report and the correction as sent out on the Dow, Jones & Co. ticker, which showed that the erroneous report was sent out at 12:09 P. M. and the correction at 12:54. He said he wished to learn why so long a period of time as forty-five minutes had elapsed between the report and the correction. Some time after the correct information concerning the decision was in possession of practically every brokerage house.

Complaint in the action was served upon Joseph Cashman, Treasurer of Dow, Jones & Co., shortly after noon. Mr. Cashman would not comment upon the action nor would C. W. Barron, President of the company. About that time, however, the company issued a further explanation of the incident in its regular service. This explanation stated that the error was due to a mistake of its reporter in the Supreme Court chamber in Washington.

The reporter, the company explained, prepared an advance bulletin in such a manner that he merely would have to use or strike out the word "not" in announcing the decision. "The first impression that the reporter and others received," the statement said, "was that the lower court had been reversed and therefore stock dividends were taxable, and the word 'not' was stricken out."

The bulletin was then held fifteen minutes for confirmation, it was stated, and it became apparent that the lower court had been affirmed. "By some mental aberration," the statement said, "the reporter was confident as he handed the bulletin to the messenger that he had put back the word 'not.'"

Tells of Erroneous Report.

In his complaint, Mr. Jaillet, whose home is in Newark, N. J., stated that Dow, Jones & Co. maintained a ticker news service located in stock brokerage houses and elsewhere which is relied upon by persons throughout the country in making investments and in buying and selling stocks and bonds. On March 5, the complaint stated, this ticker service sent out at 12:09 P. M. a bulletin from Washington that the Supreme Court had ruled that stock dividends are income and therefore taxable, and had sent out a second statement in correction at 12:54 P. M.

"Said alleged information purported to report the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in a test case known as the Macomber case," the complaint said. "The decision in said case was one of the greatest importance in the determination of the value of stocks, bonds and securities and said decision had been anxiously awaited for many months and it was well known to the defendant that its report thereof would have a material effect upon the stock markets of the country."

The publication of the erroneous report was due to the "negligence, carelessness and recklessness of the defendant, its servants, agents and employes," the complaint alleges, and for a "long time afterward" Dow, Jones & Co. are alleged to have "negligently, carelessly and recklessly failed to correct said false report with the knowledge that in the meantime persons throughout the country, and particularly customers of brokerage houses, were relying upon and acting upon the alleged information contained in the report."

Describes Plunge of Stocks.

"The market prices of stocks, bonds and securities were violently precipitated downward as the result of said false report," the complaint continues. "The plaintiff was present at said stock brokerage offices at the time of the publication of said report and, believing the representations contained therein to be true, sold stocks which he owned at the lower prices which resulted from the false report and sold other stocks short at said lower prices, which stocks subsequently violently reacted and rapidly advanced upward before defendant corrected its report and before plaintiff knew of the falsity thereof and was able to act thereon."

News of the action was received with great interest in Wall Street. Belief was expressed that there would be greater chance for a favorable decision if the suit had been brought by a brokerage house, because the brokerage firms are the direct customers of Dow, Jones & Co. for its ticker service and customers of the brokerage houses get the ticker service merely as a courtesy.

Mr. Ansorge said that brokerage firms as well as their customers are interested in the action, although no firm is directly involved in any legal steps so far taken.

Dow, Jones & Co. Statement

Mr. Barron, President of Dow, Jones & Co., announced during the day that the President of the New York Stock Exchange had denied his request for an investigation on the ground that such an investigation was out of its province. The statement issued by Dow, Jones & Co. said:

"It is not within the memory of the oldest employe that the Dow, Jones & Co. organization ever made an error in transmitting a Supreme Court decision before this week. It has at times stood alone and been found correct when everybody else was wrong.

"The Washington reporter of the organization who sent the poom of the Supreme Court, Monday afternoon, had grown up with the service and for several years had so admirably reported the Supreme Court decisions as to hold an enviable reputation for accuracy as well as speed.

"It has always been the fear within the Dow-Jones organization that sometime there might be a slip in reporting a Supreme Court decision by misinterpretation of the decision, by a hasty conclusion or by the exercise of accuracy to speed. But nothing of this kind occurred Monday. It was something against which no human provision could have been made.

"The rule of procedure always is that if the decision is not clear, the exact language of the court and no other must be transmitted. But, of course, the 'yes' or 'no' of the decision, when clearly defined, must be flashed without the delay of a second.

Wires Crippled By Storms.

"The storms have played havoc of late with the wires. The usual telegraph wires between the Capitol and the Dow, Jones & Co. Washington office was put out by the storm and as luck would have it the Boston wire was interrupted between 12 and 1 by an accident at the New York end. Otherwise a correction of the Washington decision could have been had in New York earlier, as The Associated Press when appealed to before 12:30 had in the public interest given the Boston office the correct flash.

"The reporter for Dow, Jones & Co. made his telephone connections and messenger arrangements and carefully prepared his copy so that it could be sent by inserting or leaving out the word 'not' in the line 'stock dividends are not taxable as income Supreme Court decides.'

"The first impression that the reporter and many others received was that the lower court had been reversed and therefore stock dividends were taxable and the word 'not' was stricken out. Then the message was held for confirmation and in a few minutes it became positive that the lower court's decision had been affirmed.

"By some mental aberration, which nobody on earth can explain, the reporter was confident, as he handed the bulletin to the messenger, that he had put back the word 'not.'

"He sat in the court room for more than fifteen minutes with no suspicion but that he had delivered the first flash and delivered it correctly.

"Later than the Dow-Jones announcement other news organizations flashed what it is fair to assume was their first incorrect interpretation of the court decision.

"When the brokers' Washington wires in about fifteen minutes began to doubt the correctness of all the previous Wall Street reports, the Washington office was asked to confirm. It was a few minutes before the reporter could be reached.

"Of course the correction came promptly back and the reporter was nearly crushed when he learned of the lapse he had committed.

STOCK DIVIDEND RULING.

Collector William H. Edwards issued a statement yesterday explaining the effect of the decision of the United States Supreme Court declaring stock dividends non-taxable for income purposes, in so far as it relates to claims for credit of taxes paid on stock dividends taken in connection with the payment of this year's income tax. Collector Edwards said:

"Claims for credit against the first installment March 15th, on account of tax paid in prior years on stock dividends may be accepted but must not be permitted to reduce payment on March 15 installment unless claim on Form 47 A is filed setting forth detail of dividends received and taxes paid thereon and a statement of all details of any subsequent sale of shares received as a stock dividend and unless claim is accompanied by statements from the corporations which distributed dividends as to the amount distributed to taxpayers and the years in which profits were earned.

"In filing returns for prior years taxpayers reported dividends received, including both cash and stock dividends, without segregation. It will therefore be necessary for the department to have specific information, verified by the corporations declaring the dividends, as to the amount of dividends distributed to each taxpayer.

"The taxpayer should present formally to this office a claim for credit for any overpayment of taxes in prior years on the regular form for that purpose and on this form must be set forth the full details of dividends received and taxes paid thereon. This claim must be accompanied by a statement or certificate from the corporation distributing the dividends showing the amount distributed to the taxpayer and the years in which profits distributed were earned."

Mr. Edwards said yesterday that, with only three days remaining for the payment of taxes, it was advisable to send returns by mail, thus relieving the long lines at the branches of the Internal Revenue office.

NATIONAL BANKS GROW FAST

Expansion of Past Six Years Exceeds That of 51 Years Previously.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency, said today that the national banks had grown more in the last six years than in the preceding fifty-one years, from the original passage of the National Bank act in 1863, to 1914. He made public figures which have just been completed to show the strong condition of the banks.

"The national banks," said Mr. Williams, "held on Dec. 31, 1919, resources of $22,711,376,000, exceeding by $266,383,000 the greatest amount ever previously reported. The increase in resources Dec. 31, 1919, as compared with Dec. 31, 1918, was $2,869,151,000.

"As the total resources of all national banks at the time of the call of Jan. 13, 1914, amounted to $11,296,355,000, there has been an increase since that date of $11,415,020,000, or more than 101 per cent.

"The total cash on hand and due from Federal Reserve banks Dec. 31, 1919, including lawful reserve and items with the reserve banks in process of collection, amounted to $2,277,312,000, of which $508,605,000 was cash in vault.

"Circulation of national banks Dec. 31, 1919, was $685,769,000, an increase over Nov. 17, 1919, of $4,800,000, and an increase over Dec. 31, 1918, of $8,942,000.

"Capital, surplus, and undivided profits of all national banks Dec. 31, 1919, amounted to $2,456,301,000, an increase over Dec. 31, 1918, of $162,688,000."

Gulf States Steel Profits.

The Gulf States Steel Company for the year ended Dec. 31, shows net profits, after charges and Federal taxes, of $279,421, which is equivalent, after first and second preferred dividends, to $1.20 a share on the common stock. In the preceding year, the company reported net profits of $1,192,662, or the equal of $9.28 a share on the common after providing for preferred distributions.

COTTON CONTINUES ITS UPWARD TREND

Market Reacts, but Rallies, Closing with Active Months, Except July, Well Up.

The further sharp rise in sterling exchange and the rather unexpected strength of the Liverpool market in the face of this development brought about another rise in the local cotton market, where all options were strong all through the forenoon and well into the afternoon. The buying came from all sorts of quarters. The Wall Street houses sent in their share and the South and West contributed, while Liverpool account bought here to hedge its selling at home.

The opening saw the market practically unchanged for near months other than March, but up 20 to 30 points for October and December. Then, as the buying appeared, prices advanced rapidly 20 to 30 points more throughout the list and at the high prices held well until the last hour. At that time, after a good many shorts had covered and the speculative bulls had taken on about all the contracts they cared to carry, profit-taking by the ring hit the market and sent it down from its high levels.

However, the reaction did not accomplish much for the market, after the brief dip, came back again and finished at gains of 25 to 30 points for the active months, except July, which finished the day at a gain of only 2 points. March, the spot month, sold up to 39.75, a gain of 30 points, but ended at 39.50, up only 5 points on the day. Spot contracts were unchanged at 41 cents.

The Liverpool market, notwithstanding the further rise in sterling, did especially well. It was firm at the opening and at the close it was up 20 to 40 points for futures and 17 English points for spots.

Exports for the day were heavier than expected, amounting to 48,628 bales, making the total for the week to date 177,770 bales. Of yesterday's exports, 20,595 bales went to Great Britain, 4,995 bales went to France and 23,138 bales were shipped to the Orient.

BRITISH WILL PUSH COTTON DEVELOPMENT

Lancashire Capitalists Will Provide £15,000,000 for Growing Product in the Colonies.

LONDON, March 11.—Empire cotton growing on a commercial basis almost immediately is foreshadowed from a meeting held yesterday in the House of Commons, which was attended by some of the Lancashire members of the House and other persons financially interested in the cotton trade, according to The Manchester Guardian.

A suggestion was approved, says the newspaper, that the Lancashire capitalists provide £15,000,000 for commercial development, to be invested in cotton growing in some selected colony or colonies, subject to reasonable facilities by road and rail to be provided by the colonies where the cotton is grown.

The meeting was adjourned for a week in order that inquiry might be made into the practicability of Lancashire providing the £15,000,000. The Manchester Guardian says it is believed this money will be readily forthcoming, because Lancashire at present is full of money through the cotton trade boom. The newspaper adds that it is considered, if the plan materializes, the proposed grant from the Treasury of £100,000 yearly and a levy of 6 pence a bale would be forthcoming, which would be spent in pioneer work.

RAILWAY EXECUTIVES MEET.

About ninety railroad presidents and other executives discussed valuation for rate-making purposes and whether or not rates should be based on the aggregate value of the railroads as a whole or in groups, at the special meeting held yesterday in the offices of the Association of Railway Executives, 65 Broadway. The meeting was preliminary to the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing which has been set for March 22 in Washington. After discussion the matter was referred to the Association's Law Committee.

It was decided to increase the number of railroad representatives who will attend the wage conferences now going on in Washington with representatives of railroad labor. C. L. Bardo resigned as Chairman of the executives' representatives and E. T. Whiter of the Pennsylvania Railroad was elected in his place. The following were added to the list published a few days ago: C. H. Stein, Central Railroad of New Jersey; J. H. Diers, Southern Pacific; E. C. Wills, Missouri Pacific; W. M. Jeffers, Union Pacific; J. H. Foster, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; J. R. Gould, Chesapeake & Ohio, G. R. Loyal, Southern Railway, and B. M. Starks, Louisville & Nashville.

BAR ASSOCIATION OPPOSES RENT BILL

FAVORS BALLOT AMENDMENT

Thompson-Downs Bill, Designed to Make Voting Simpler, Is Indorsed.

The Committee on Amendment of the Law of the City Bar Association, in the second of this year's bulletins on proposed legislation, made public yesterday, disapproves of the Dimin bill in the Assembly, which would make the rent fixed in May or any month thereafter for any apartment house, tenement house or other dwelling place the maximum chargeable for the consecutive months until the following May. Violation of the statute is made a misdemeanor by the bill.

"It is the opinion of this committee," the bulletin says, "that, however well meant this effort at legislation may be, it cannot be carried out in practice; it is too broad in its requirements, and cannot be constitutionally enforced. Circumstances might easily be conceived which would require a change in rent and which would naturally lead to a consent to such change on the part of both landlords and tenants, such, for example, as alterations which may be made in a building during the period referred to; but the landlord, under the drastic terms of this act, would be guilty of a crime if he entered into such an arrangement. This bill is also objectionable because it seeks to embody into the real property law penal provisions which, if enacted, belong in the penal law."

The bill introduced by Assemblyman McKee to re-enact the old law, repealed in 1918, whereby occupation of real property in New York City, when the duration of occupancy was not stated specifically, was construed to run until the following May, is approved. The committee, however, would leave out reference to rent being due on "the usual quarter days," which it finds obsolete, and suggests monthly payments in advance.

Of the Thompson-Downs bill, to change the official ballot so that if two or more Justices of a court of record are to be elected there shall be a separate section on the ballot for each vacancy, the committee finds that many voters do not understand the present system of making several crosses to fill several vacancies. In 1916, with three vacancies in the First Judicial District, the committee was credibly informed more than 10 per cent. of the voters failed to express their preferences. It also finds that a large percentage of voters fail to make more than one choice.

"We believe that such an amendment of the law would be in the interest of the electorate as well as of the Justices of the several candidates," says the bulletin. "It would simplify for the voter the exercise of his choice. It would relieve him from uncertainty and confusion. It would encourage him to vote for a candidate for each of the vacancies to be filled, and avoid the risk of nullifying ballots because of failure to understand the complicated mechanics of voting, for which there is no reasonable excuse."

The committee again emphatically disapproves "legislation which would create a public defender, as it has in the past, believing such an office unnecessary. It also disapproves a proposed law which would make present grounds for legal separation grounds for divorce.

TWO RENT BILLS READY NEXT WEEK

Speaker Sweet Says Effective Legislation Will Be Passed Before Adjournment.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 11.—Speaker Sweet announced today that next week legislative plans for dealing with the rent problem and housing situation would be perfected and bills presented to the Legislature.

"We are determined that this Legislature before adjourning shall pass effective legislation to relieve the situation," said the Speaker this afternoon. "One measure which we believe will prove effective as a curb on rent profiteering is almost ready. There will be a companion measure, dealing with other phases of the rental and housing problem, but I would rather not say anything regarding the details of that bill until it is before me in completed form."

According to Speaker Sweet, the plan for creating a State Rent Commission has been abandoned and control would be lodged elsewhere. A conference of all who have introduced relief measures will be called at the Capitol as soon as the two bills are ready, when the situation will be talked over thoroughly and some eleventh hour suggestions possibly incorporated in the measures.

A Land Loan act is the latest relief measure proposed. A bill providing for the creation of a Land Loan Board, empowered to make mortgage loans on real property to be improved with dwellings, was introduced today by Assemblyman J. Fairfax McLaughlin, Democrat, of the Bronx.

To raise the funds necessary to finance the loans and administer the department the proposed board would be authorized to sell certificates, exempt from State taxation, including State income tax, and secured by the property, as improved, pledged with the board. Such loans would be limited to $100,000, and the bill provides that no loan must exceed 75 per cent. of the assessed valuation of the property as improved. Loans under the bill could run for twenty-five years, but no longer, provision being made for amortization by payments on the principal in equal annual installments.

A bill aimed at profiteering in rents was introduced by Senator Dunnigan of the Bronx and Assemblyman Hamill of New York. If it becomes law, summary dispossess proceedings cannot be maintained unless the landlord shows that the rent of the premises involved has not been increased above the rate paid by the tenant defendant and that it has not been raised more than 10 per cent. during the twelve months preceding the litigation.

In the Senate a bill introduced by Senator Lockwood of Kings as Chairman for the Legislative Rent Investigating Committee and lodging discretionary power with Municipal Courts Judges to stay execution of eviction warrants for not more than thirty days, upon payment on deposit of rent at the old rate by the tenant, was recommitted for a public hearing.

Dinner to Aid Charities Campaign.

A dinner and concert were given for Brooklyn lawyers by the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities last night at the Pennsylvania Hotel. The affair was in the interest of the million dollar campaign although no subscriptions were taken at the dinner. Meier Steinbrink, Chairman of the Committee, outlined the aims of the campaign. The artists included Miss Cecil Arden, contralto, Rafaelo Diaz, tenor and Oscar Seaton, pianist.

SAYS LOWER FARES WOULD SAVE LINES

Lawyer Submits Brief Explaining How Plan Would Increase Traction Revenues.

The suggestion of Henry H. Curran, President of Manhattan Borough, at the inquiry into the New York Railways Company's financial condition by the Board of Estimate on Wednesday, that a downward revision of fares to 3 or 4 cents might solve the financial problem of the surface lines, has already received considerable attention. It was learned yesterday that a brief on the subject had been prepared by William McMurtrie Speer, a lawyer, for Elon S. Hobbs, who represents the minority bondholders of the Interborough Consolidated Corporation. The brief was sent for consideration to the Public Service Commission, to Judge Mayer of the Federal Court, and to the various receivers, counsel, and committees at work on the problem.

Mr. Speer says that it is obvious that the man who pays 5 cents to ride from Canal Street to South Ferry is overcharged, while he who pays 5 cents to ride twenty-eight miles from White Plains Road to New Lots Avenue in Brooklyn is receiving a gift. He says if the long haul travel losses exceed the short haul travel profits there is a lack of adequate revenue. He makes these points:

"The short haul traffic, instead of being diminished by a uniform increase in fare, should be increased by a reduction in fare. A three-cent fare would be very profitable from City Hall to South Ferry or Broadway to the West Twenty-third Street ferry or similar short distances. Besides being profitable it would tend to fill cars which are run almost empty near their terminals. The three-cent fares would be confined to the surface roads and short hauls.

"The uniform five-cent fare should continue in the shape of commutation tickets. A fare like that issued by the suburban railroads should be sold for 60 or even 50 cents for a six-day week. It would be less trouble to punch this card or detach a coupon at the gate than it is to sell a ticket and drop it in the box. On surface roads this should include one transfer without additional charge, other transfers should be charged for.

"There should be a universal transfer system, to include all the underground, elevated and surface lines, so that for 7 or 8 cents one could ride anywhere. A universal transfer would increase the short-haul travel and be correspondingly profitable.

"The cash fare should be increased to 6 or 7 cents. That is, casual riders and people who do not live or do business regularly in New York should pay higher fares than people who do. The sale of twenty-four tickets for a dollar, with a single 6 or 7 cent fare, is common in other cities."

Mr. Speer says that the foregoing plan would increase the gross operating receipts without increasing either the investment or the operating cost; that it would increase the short-haul travel, which is the most profitable, and would not increase the fare of any workingman going to and from his work six days a week. In conclusion the statement reads:

"The hundreds of thousands of visitors to New York and casual riders would pay an increased fare to make up for the deficiency which is now a charge on the New York tax rate."

MINERS CUT ONE DEMAND.

Anthracite Committee Drops Request to Change War Contract.

At a meeting of the Scale Committee of the Anthracite Miners' Union with representatives of operators at the Union League Club yesterday it was decided to eliminate the sixteenth demand of the miners for an agreement to supplement one of Nov. 15, 1918, under which the contract miners received a wage increase of 40 cents a day, while the day laborers got an increase of $1. This agreement was to be effective until March 31 next.

The conference was devoted to a discussion of the other fifteen demands of the miners regarding which no attempt was made to reach any decision. The operators and laborers' representatives will hold another meeting at the Union League Club this morning at 10 o'clock.

An agreement between the anthracite miners and operators may not be reached until a decision has been made by the commission in Washington considering the demands of the bituminous workers. John L. Lewis, when asked if he expected an early award, said: "It is impossible for me to forecast the date of a possible decision." Mr. Lewis went to Washington in the afternoon to see John P. White, former President of the United Mine Workers, who is representing the miners on the Bituminous Coal Commission.

2,500 PUPILS COOL AT FIRE.

They March to Safety After Boy Warns Principal.

In two minutes 2,500 school children marched to safety yesterday morning when fire was discovered in Public School 25, Lafayette Avenue, near Sumner Avenue, Brooklyn, and Public School 79, directly at the rear of No. 25. News of the fire spread quickly, and reserves had to be called to control frightened mothers, who swarmed into the streets.

Solomon Sorger, 10 years old, discovered the fire in the teachers' wardrobe room. He ran to the office of Dr. Isadore Spinger, Principal, who sounded the fire drill-call. Although smoke was eddying through hallways, the children formed in line and marched quietly out and stood a block away from the schools.

Two alarms were sent in, and firemen made short work of the blaze. Aside from loss of personal belongings by teachers, water caused $10,000 damage, according to Fire Marshal Brophy, who added that he would investigate the blaze.

HIS STROLL ENDS IN CELL.

Detective William Raftis was strolling about the uptown shopping district yesterday when he noticed a man who later described himself as George Adams, a painter, of 228 West Twenty-ninth Street. Adams, according to Raftis, reminded him of a man he had arrested ten years ago on a shoplifting charge, so the detective decided to follow.

Adams, said the detective, went into a department store in Thirty-fourth Street, just west of Fifth Avenue, and picked up a shirt, which he carried outside and examined. Apparently he thought it wasn't worth taking, said the detective, because he went back and returned it. Following along, the detective finally arrested Adams in Gimbel Brothers', after, it was alleged, the man had picked up eleven yards of silk and was about to depart. Adams was held in $2,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

WOOLWORTH PROPERTY SUIT

Jules S. Bache, banker, got permission yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Erlanger to sue Hubert T. Parson, as committee of the property of Mrs. Jennie Woolworth, widow of Frank W. Woolworth, for $20,000 he deposited under an agreement to buy the Woolworth mansion at 990 Fifth Avenue for $400,000.

Mr. Bache stated that after he had made the cash payment he had the title examined and found out that the bay window and foundations of the structure extended three feet beyond the building line both on Fifth Avenue and on Eightieth Street, and for this reason he decided not to buy. The committee of Mrs. Woolworth's property has no power to refund the money without a court order.

Permission to sell the Fifth Avenue residence was granted in order that the cash realized from the sale could be used in paying inheritance taxes.

HORTON ASKED CUT IN OUTPUT OF MILK

EXPORTING AT STANDSTILL

Health Commissioner Royal S. Copeland yesterday charged the Sheffield Farms Company with urging dairymen not to increase their production of milk, and if possible to decrease it. He made public the following notice issued by the milk company, which he received from James B. Stafford of Buffalo, representative of the Department of Justice, and the Federal Fair Price Commissioner of the State:

Feb. 24, 1920.

The export market of milk products has entirely stopped.

It is therefore necessary that we restrict our purchase of milk.

Under no circumstances can any creamery take on an additional dairy without first getting permission from this office, and permission will not be granted for new dairies until conditions change. All dairymen are urged not to increase their production of milk, and if possible to decrease it.

SHEFFIELD FARMS COMPANY, INC.

"Needless to say, this action on the part of the Sheffield Farms Company harmonizes with their entire policy of dealing with the public. Just at the moment when conditions in the dairy market are such that if the normal supply of milk were permitted to flow into the city, under the law of supply and demand, of which the milk distributors have so much to say, our citizens, for the first time in two or three years, would be able to buy milk at a low price. Immediately this great corporation takes advantage of its power over the farmer and says to him, 'we will not permit you to increase your number of cows,' and in effect says, 'if you do not find some way of reducing the amount of milk, we ourselves will find an excuse to reduce our receipts.'

"It is a shame to think that the upState members of the New York Legislature should bow to the will of the Milk Trust and refuse to give even the slightest consideration to the milk bills pending in the Legislature at the present time. Why not permit this milk to be brought into the city? It certainly is better for the farmer to have the milk taken at any price than to have it thrown away and wasted, so far as human need is concerned. The citizens of New York, particularly the undernourished children, would gladly have the milk that, under the operation of the rules and regulations of the Sheffield Farms Company will be kept from this market."

Luton Horton, President of the Sheffield Company, said last night that the Health Commissioner's statement misrepresented actual conditions. The exchange situation, said Mr. Horton, prevented further shipments of condensed and evaporated milk to France and England, and this was one reason why additional milk was not wanted. At this time of the year, he added, many farmers who do not produce milk during the Winter desire to have his company take all their milk. He said he did not propose to take milk from these farmers until their farms had been inspected, and until he saw what the price of butter and cheese, which controls the price of milk, would be. A similar notice is posted up every year, he asserted.

FIREMEN FIGHT BLAZING OIL.

New York Wire & Steel Co.'s Washington Street Building Burns.

A three-alarm fire, which started on the second floor of the New York Wire and Steel Company's seven-story brick factory, at 583 and 588 Washington Street, yesterday afternoon, swept upward through an elevator shaft and burned out the entire building. The blaze started at 4:02 o'clock, when some oil used for tempering wire became overheated. Deputy Fire Chief Helm ordered a second alarm sounded, which brought Fire Chief Kenlon and Deputy Chief "Smoky" Joe Martin.

Chief Kenlon turned in a third alarm, and soon eleven engines, three hook-and-ladder companies, three fireboat crews and a water tower arrived. Dense clouds of smoke from the blazing oil hampered the firemen in their work, but by 4:45 the fire was under control. None of the 150 employes in the building was injured, as a fire-bell system in the building warned them in time for escape. Two firemen were slightly cut by falling glass.

Kentucky Negro Pays Penalty for Murder of 10-Year-Old Girl.

EDDYVILLE, Ky., March 11.—Patrie Kimbrough, alias Will Lockett, convicted slayer of Geneva Hardman and confessed slayer of four other women, died in the electric chair at Eddyville Prison at 4:32 o'clock this morning.

There were slight signs of emotion in the negro's face as he was placed in the electric chair. Two brothers of the Hardman girl and seventeen Lexington citizens, together with eight soldiers and twelve prison guards, witnessed the execution.

The negro refused to make a statement when he was taken from his cell. During the night he prayed aloud and sang religious hymns. He declared yesterday that he was ready to die and that he had prayed for the little 10-year-old Hardman girl, whom he killed, and the entire Hardman family.

TO FREE GEORGE G. RICE.

Former Broker, Accused of Larceny, Will Be Released Pending Appeal.

George Graham Rice, former broker, who has been in the Tombs since his conviction before General Sessions Judge Malone of grand larceny in the first degree because he got a check for $721 and a $100 Liberty Bond for the purchase of stock in behalf of a customer and didn't buy the stock, will be released pending his appeal as the result of a decision by Supreme Court Justice Erlanger yesterday.

The court decided that a question was presented which is reasonably open to argument whether the check was applied by the defendant under circumstances constituting embezzlement, or was money obtained by false pretences, and permission will not be granted for new dairies until conditions change. All dairymen are urged not to increase their production of milk, and if possible to decrease it.

The trial will be continued this morning.

Cruise on Dewey Flagship Offered.

In an appeal for recruits yesterday, Commander F. H. Poteet, Navy Recruiting Officer, at 24 East Twenty-third Street, announced that the famous U. S. S. Olympia, the flagship of Dewey, would soon undertake a cruise. In seeking musicians, Commander Poteet said the men would be assigned immediately to the Olympia and go on the trip to Constantinople, the Suez Canal, Monte Carlo, the Riviera and points in the Adriatic and Mediterranean.

FOUND $500 ON TAX AGENT.

Former Revenue Employe Testifies in Pictorial Review Bribery Case.

Isador Schlanger, a former employe of the Internal Revenue Agent's office, was called yesterday as a witness in the trial of Jay A. Weber, Secretary of the Pictorial Review Company, who is charged with attempting to bribe Internal Revenue agents to approve the company's income tax returns.

Schlanger, who was associated with Nathaniel W. Gropper in investigating the company's books, corroborated Gropper's story of incidents relating to the alleged offer of a $25,000 bribe. He asserted that he was with Gropper just before his meeting with Weber in the Hotel McAlpin, when Gropper charges, Weber gave him $500. He testified that he had gone there on instructions from Daniel L. Porter, the Internal Revenue agent, and, according to orders, searched Gropper before he entered the washroom, where he met Weber, and again after he came out. Gropper had only $16 when he entered, Schlanger testified, and $500 more when he was searched later by Internal Revenue agents.

The trial will be continued this morning.

FUR PRICES UNPRECEDENTED

Adirondacks Trappers Estimated to Have Made $1,000,000 This Season.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., March 11.—Adirondack trappers received approximately $1,000,000 for raw furs this Winter, in the estimation of leading fur dealers in this region. One furrier alone paid $65,000 for pelts.

Buyers from Utica to the Canadian border purchased all the pelts trappers could obtain, paying 100 per cent. more than a year ago when prices reached an unprecedentedly high mark.

Mink has been the leading Adirondack fur pelts selling for $18 to $20, or double the price of last season. The price of the muskrat pelt almost trebled, increasing from $1.65 to $5. A few years ago these pelts sold for 10 cents.

The trapping season, which opened in November, is now drawing to a close, as pelts are not in good condition after cold weather ceases. From now on until next November the pelts will be manufactured into costly garments which will sell. It has been estimated, at an increase of 150 per cent. over a year ago. Buyers in this section believe the apex in fur prices was reached this Winter.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

OVERSEAS PRODUCTS CORP.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Overseas Products Corporation, importing and exporting, at 67 Wall St., by G. J. Berger, a creditor; for $1,067. Judge Hand has appointed Arthur F. Gotthold receiver, in $25,000, with orders to continue the business for five days. It is alleged that the liabilities are about $75,000, and that, with the exception of a small amount of furniture and fixtures, the assets are not more than $2,000, consisting almost entirely of accounts and bills receivable and equity in discount drafts. It is also stated that there are certain orders against which purchases of merchandise have been made, the present market value of some of this being greater than its cost.

L. WEISS—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Louis Weiss, doing business as L. Weiss, jobbing in women's hats, at 656 Broadway, by the following-named creditors: Isidore Scheinberg, $93; Morris S. Silver, $180, and Louis Rawitz, $220.

M. FEUERSTEIN & SON—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Morris Feuerstein and Alexander Feuerstein, individually as copartners, trading as M. Feuerstein & Son, retail delicatessen, at 3,514 Broadway, by the following creditors: Austin, Nichols & Co., Inc., $356; Isaac Gellis, $5,192, and United Pickle Works, Inc., $132. Liabilities are said to be about $3,500, and assets about $500.

BENJAMIN GROSSMAN, at 561 West 175th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $4,741 and no assets. Among the creditors are F. Hennessy, Philadelphia, $2,015, and Goldstrom Brothers, Baltimore, $1,255.

FRANK J. DUB, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., has filed a petition in bankruptcy here, with liabilities of $4,000 and no assets. Among the creditors are the J. Chr. Hupfel Brewing Company, $3,700; Joseph F. Hassler, $1,120

PRUDENTIAL LITHOGRAPH COMPANY, INC.—Judge Hand has appointed John L. Lyttle receiver for the Prudential Lithographic Company, Inc., at 65 Duane Street, in $12,000 bond, with orders to continue the business five days. It is alleged that the assets consist of plant and equipment worth fully $25,000 at forced sale, but it is believed considerably more under favorable circumstances, and a valuable lease of premises occupied. Liabilities are given at approximately $55,000.

ANDREW GULICK & CO., INC.—Judge Hand has issued an order dismissing the petition in bankruptcy filed on Oct. 16, 1919, against Andrew Gulick & Co., Inc., export and import, at 236 Broadway, on consent of creditors.

CHARM CLOAK & DRESS HOUSE, INC.—Judge Hand has issued an order dismissing a bankruptcy petition filed on Feb. 25 against the Charm Cloak & Dress House, Inc., at 45 Avenue B, on consent of creditors.

Furnishings Slow Up.

Evidence of a slackened trade in men's furnishings has been noted by those who check credits for the wholesale houses. Slowness in meeting obligations is particularly marked in the city trade as compared with that out of town. Even large dealers who were formerly very prompt "pay" are understood to be taking their time about meeting bills, and the smaller concerns are even more backward. The prosperous condition of the trade for the last year drew many speculators into the business who were not possessed of adequate capital to carry on operations except under the most advantageous conditions. These, it is believed, will be out of the trade as quickly as they got into it.

Maturities Not Up to Mark.

Although credit men in the local dry goods district are fairly well satisfied with the way debtors have met their obligations maturing now, there was said yesterday to be a little more promptness needed to make payments up to the mark. From the viewpoint of what some of the market prognosticators imagined might be the case, however, the results so far are better than what were expected. The fact that income taxes must be paid, along with restricted bank credits, has acted in making creditors a trifle lenient. The impression seems to prevail in the market that, once the present collections have been completed, a new program of credits will be arranged on a more conservative basis than has characterized the "loose" methods of the last year.

A Buttonless Overcoat.

In a line of English overcoats displayed here for the first time, one of the novelties is an overcoat without buttons. It is a double-breasted design with wide lapels. The belt performs the function of the buttons. The model has been used extensively abroad. Another garment that has attracted considerable attention in the same line is an overcoat patterned after that worn by the Prince of Wales on his visit here. It is a topcoat with tacked-in belt in the back and pockets cut at a slant.

The Retail Point of View.

It seems a difficult matter for most wholesalers to get the present retail point of view. Most of the first-hand sellers see no reason why the retail buyers should be backward in placing their usual amount of orders, and yet the demand so far has been sub-normal in many dry goods lines. According to the manufacturers, a continued stoppage of trade from the retailers must mean a stop in manufacturing operations with the result of boosting prices to even higher levels than now prevail. One manufacturer in the neckwear line stated yesterday that one factor absent this time in the "bear" market that ordinarily might bring lower prices through a cessation of buying. This, he explained, was the impossibility of bringing down wages paid to labor. In former times the employes would be willing to take less for their work but not so at present. This prevents, he said, the usual reductions being made.

Keeping the Range Together.

In a sample line of imported woolens being shown here the full range in every weave is kept together. The samples are all displayed on very good cardboard stock and those in the same range are bound with a ribbon. According to the representative of the line, the practice of keeping the same weaves together is a profitable one. It enables the buyer to pick out the colorings he desires once he is attracted to a certain weave. By carrying the range scattered throughout the line it is claimed the customer, this representative said, that when the right color design is reached it may be passed over.

Drug Prices Easing Off.

Crude drugs continue to decline. Drug and Chemical Markets will say today, particularly imported botanicals. Trade in heavy chemicals is affected by shortages of a number of things, including cars, raw materials and steel drums. A feature of the market for oils is the rise of 5 cents a gallon that has taken place in linseed oil. In the essential oils there has been a sharp advance in oil of orange. Lemon oil also is firmer. Stocks of trees and intermediates are low and the demand continues to exceed the supply. Dimethylaniline is held at an excessively high price, owing to its scarcity. Natural dyes are slightly weaker, due to the arrival of large shipments of dyewoods from South America.

Raw Silk Quotations Steady.

Business is still limited in the raw silk market at Yokohama, but prices are nominally unchanged on the basis of 3,550 yen per picul for Sinshiu No. 1. It is not impossible, however, that some concessions might be obtained. Cables received by H. A. Gwalter & Co. of this city say that stocks at Yokohama are moderate, amounting to about 11,000 bales. The Canton market is quiet, with prices showing some irregularity in consequence of the fluctuations of exchange. Offerings there are mostly for June and July shipments, which are too far off to interest buyers at the present time. The Shanghai market continues dull, with sellers holding out for prices above the levels of other markets. Milan is quiet, with prices down about 25 lire per kilo from the high level of last month. Buying for current needs is being done in a quiet way locally, with prices unchanged.

Fur Market Is Very Strong.

Strength of prices continues to be the keynote of the fur market, according to the March report of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, which, in part says: "Prices for most articles at the points of consumption are the highest on record, a situation justified by the tremendous demand for furs and the decreased supply of many kinds of skins. The confidence of the primary markets, both domestic and foreign, is indicated by the high prices now being paid for some of the popular furs, which in some instances are higher than those registered at our recent sale." The report also points out that an appreciable portion of the furs sold at the recent auction was purchased for immediate shipment abroad, which is said to be due no doubt, to a return of confidence with the improvement in foreign exchange. The Spring sale of the corporation will begin on April 19, and the opening date of the Fall auction will be Oct 18. Furs meant for disposal at the Spring sale must be received here on or before March 25.

Gray Goods Again Active.

Gray goods, more particularly printcloths, were again active in the local market yesterday. Prices were higher generally. Spot Eastern 39-inch 64-60s brought 24 cents, while Southern goods fetched 23 cents. Southern 64-60s also brought 22 cents for delivery in May and June. Buyers paid 23¼ cents for March-April 39-inch 68-72s early in the day, but later the same goods were purchased for 24 cents. May-July delivery 68-72s were sold at 23¾ cents. May-June deliveries of 39-inch 72-76s were let out at 27 cents. Among the business transacted in sheetings were March-April 4.70s and 5.00s at 21 and 20½ cents, respectively. Fine yarn goods were quiet, but some further pedr-by sales of the clothing styles were made at prevailing prices.

Snow Beats Out Cotton.

Opinions expressed by experienced traders in the dry goods trade indicate that the high prices which are again being paid for certain printcloths are due less to the record quotation on spot cotton than to the severe snowstorms that have racked the country in the last few months. Most of the goods called at current figures, it is asserted, are wanted to replace other merchandise that is snowbound and which promises to remain that way for some time. Particularly severe has been the tie-up of the railroads in New England, and with most of the bleacheries located there the seriousness of the situation is not hard to figure out. When 38½-inch 64-60s and 39-inch 68-72s bring the same price, as was the case yesterday, it is said to be very plain that the market is temporarily "out of joint."

COUNTY EMPLOYES SHARE PIER PROFITS

Court Is Told Two in Register's Office Made $50,000 on Capital of $500.

COMMISSION IS CLAIMED

Allegations that Michael J. McCarthy, special Deputy Register of New York County, and James A. O'Reilly, Chief Satisfaction Clerk in the Register's office, brother of L. J. O'Reilly, political representative of William R. Hearst, made from $50,000 to $75,000 in six months in the leasing of city piers with a capital of only $500, were filed in the Supreme Court yesterday when Justice Erlanger denied an application by O'Reilly and McCarthy. They had asked the court to vacate an attachment against their property for $6,000 on a claim by Clark C. Anderson that he is entitled to that sum as commission for services rendered to the defendant in partnership as the Sun Navigation Company.

Justice Erlanger, in refusing to vacate the attachment, directed that the plaintiff increase his bond, from $250 to $1,000 to keep the attachment in effect. The court said that the affidavits submitted present a serious question as to whether the defendants are about to dispose of any of their property with intent to defraud the plaintiff or other creditors, but that such question could not be passed on in view of the fact that Justice Finch, who granted the attachment, decided that sufficient allegations were made to show that the intent existed.

Anderson, in asking for the attachment, asserted that O'Reilly and McCarthy were changing their business from a firm to a corporation, called the Sun Shipping Company, and that they had both stated that they intended to defraud their creditors in this manner. Both O'Reilly and McCarthy denied making such statements, and said that Anderson and James V. Malley, who was in partnership with them but is now associated with a rival concern, are engaged in a "corrupt conspiracy" against them.

The defendants said that the attachment had tied up $19,975 due them from the United States Shipping Board for docking space and that later all but $7,500 of the funds were released. They say they have since used this money and other cash in their possession to pay $12,529 to their creditors. They say they have paid all but the plaintiff, but are resisting his claim because they owe him nothing.

WORK MORE, TALK LESS ADVISES GOV. SPROUL

Not Enough Labor to Avoid Rough Spots, He Tells Grocers.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 11.—Governor William C. Sproul declared in an address today to the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Delaware Wholesale Grocers' Association that there was too much talk and not enough work going on at present.

"The American people learned to talk during the war drives and some of them haven't stopped," he said. "But America has not been swept off its feet. We have been getting along all right this year and will continue to get along. Taxes are high, but you have the money to pay them, most of you are making more money than you ever made in your lives before. There's been a lot of talk about hard times, but not enough work to avoid the rough spots."

ANTI-BRITSH LABELS USED.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 11.—Charges that anti-British propaganda stickers have been placed on its outgoing mail after it left the company's offices were preferred to the Post Office authorities today by the McClellan Refrigeration Company, 570 West Adams Street.

According to the officers of the refrigeration company the firm has received a number of letters from customers, either protesting or praising the printed labels, "Buy nothing that is made in England," on the McClellan envelopes. Several customers wrote in to ask where the labels could be found and others wrote criticism of the propaganda.

"If any one in Government employ is attempting to spread anti-English propaganda in this method we will have him in custody in short order," said Inspector Stuart. "This is the first case of the kind that has come to our attention. The labels may have been affixed to the envelopes without the firm's knowledge and before they reached the Chicago Post Office."

PASS SOLDIER BILLS.

Several Adopted by Assembly Relate to War Veterans.

ALBANY, March 11.—The Assembly today passed many bills. Among those approved were: To give veterans of the World War all preferences and privileges under the civil service law.

To authorize the State Controller to permit the Federal Internal Revenue Department to inspect the State's income tax returns if a like permission is granted the Controller to go over the Federal returns.

To prohibit the unauthorized wearing of the badge or button of the American Legion.

To provide for exemption under the State income tax law of the pay received by soldiers, sailors and marines while in service during the world war.

The Senate passed the bill of Senator Mortimer Y. Ferris, Republican, of Essex, designed to limit the size of motor trucks and the weight of their loads.

Cox, Wood, Harding on Ohio Ballot.

COLUMBUS, March 11. — Governor James M. Cox will be the only Democratic Presidential candidate to go before the voters of Ohio at the primaries April 27. The Republican ticket will contain only the names of Senator Harding and General Leonard Wood. Secretary of State Smith today sustained the Democratic objection to the petition of James O. Monroe of Chicago, on the ground that his petition was not certified by five electors. The Republican fight was narrowed through the withdrawal of James R. Garfield, who, however, authorized Wood candidates for delegate to name him as their second choice.

Pershing to Visit Panama Troops.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—General Pershing will leave about March 25 for the Panama canal zone to inspect the military defenses there. This will constitute the last lap of his inspection tour of the nation's military posts. He will be away two or three weeks.

DEMAND PUNISHMENT OF GERMANS AT ONCE

PARIS, March 11.—The Conference of Ambassadors today decided to send the German Government a very firmly worded note demanding immediate application of the penalties promised for the outrages suffered by officers of the Interallied Commission to the Baltic States during the German evacuation of this region, which has hitherto been delayed.

At the demand of the British delegation the conference has decided to demand again that the Government at Belgrade order the evacuation of Radkersburg, thirty-seven miles southeast of Gratz, which is still occupied by the Jugoslavs, contrary to the decisions of the conference.

The conference has sent precise instructions to the Commissions of Control in Germany, as the German Government has contested their right to visit fortresses which are not to be destroyed. The Control Commissions were meant to have the right to visit all German fortified places.

BERLIN, March 11.—Prince Joachim Albrecht of Prussia, cousin of the former German Emperor, and Captain von Platen are still being detained in the Moabit Jail for the part they played in the attack on members of the French Commission in the Hotel Adlon dining room last Saturday night.

Joachim was confronted today by Count Metternich, an Austrian, who was in the dining room at the time of the attack. The meeting was in the presence of the State's Attorney, and Metternich reiterated his original testimony that Joachim not only shouted "Throw out the swine; kill the dogs if they refuse to go!" but that he also threw crockery and glassware at the French party.

The attorney for the imprisoned men will petition the military court for a writ of habeas corpus, as they are being detained under the jurisdiction of Minister of Defense Noske.

PARIS, March 11 (Havas).—A version of the attack on March 8 on eight men believed to be members of a French military aviation commission at Wernitz, near Potsdam, published by the semi-official Wolff Bureau of Berlin, says that guards caught the men poaching and fired shots as a summons to halt, according to a dispatch from the German capital.

The Frenchmen fired at the guards, the bureau version asserts.

The Frenchmen who were attacked, contradicting this description of the incident, declare that only two of the party carried hunting pieces and these men fled without firing, while two others ran in another direction, the other four surrendering. Volleys were fired at them, they assert, even after one of the fleeing men fell mortally wounded.

NEW PARTY IN THE FIELD.

Forty-Eighters to Put Forward Candidate for Presidency.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 11.—A new political party, with the Committee of Forty-Eight as its nucleus, will have candidates for President and Vice President in the forthcoming national election, it was announced today.

Paul Harris Drake of Boston, a Director of the "Forty-Eighters," said the proposed party would be composed of "liberal" organizations, such as the American Labor Party and various farmers' societies. Candidates would be selected at a national convention, to be held probably here next June, he explained.

The Committee of Forty-Eight is a national organization of "constructive liberals," formed a year ago in New York. J. A. H. Hopkins of New York is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the organization.

At a conference of liberals held here last December under the auspices of the committee resolutions were adopted demanding public ownership of public utilities and all natural resources.

RISE IN OCEAN FOOD RATE.

British Ministry Announces Jump from 40 to 75 Cents Per Hundred.

The British Ministry of Foods, 165 Broadway, yesterday announced an increase in freight rates on foodstuffs to England from 45 to 75 cents per hundred pounds. The Ministry now has 300,000,000 pounds of hog products, mostly hams and bacon, in warehouses in this country. The new rate will mean that the British public will have to pay $90,000,000 on this one item.

The rate of 45 cents was fixed by the British Ministry of Shipping and shipments were made in space requisitioned by the British Government. Just now consignments are held up until the new rate is confirmed by the British Government or until some other rate is found satisfactory. Robert Graham, Chairman of the Ministry of Foods in New York, will sail for England this week to present this and other matters connected with his office. The 75 cent rate has been concurred in by British steamship lines.

SALVATION ARMY RESELLS.

The Salvation Army has resold its war hotel at 145 to 153 West Forty-seventh Street to a syndicate of Cubans and South Americans who are organized as the Hotel America, Inc., taking a profit reported to be about $200,000.

The property consists of a nine-story building on a plot 120 by 100, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues. When erected fifteen years ago by the Potter Mordecai Syndicate the property comprised three apartment hotels, which were later converted innto the Hotel Victoria.

The Salvation Army purchased the realty in February, 1919, for about $700,000 as a home for enlisted soldiers and sailors. It spent about $100,000 remodeling and refurnishing the building and changed the name to the Hotel Argonne. Having no further need for the property it accepted an offer of $1,000,000 made by the above-mentioned syndicate. John J. Fleming negotiated the transaction.

Plans East Side Dwelling.

Electus D. Litchfield sold, through Douglas L. Elliman & Co., the two three-story dwellings at 246 and 248 East Sixty-eighth Street, with a frontage of 32.6 feet, which will be altered into one American basement dwelling by Mrs. Clark Davis for her own occupancy. This is the block in which Mr. Litchfield bought twelve houses, besides the two sold yesterday. He has resold 240 to Francis C. Danforth, 242 to Mrs. Winston Hagen and 224 to Mrs. D. Leroy Dresser.

Merchant Is Buyer.

The Selkirk Realty Company, Bernard F. Golden President, sold 29 and 31 East Twenty-second Street, a twelve-story store and loft building, on plot 52 by 100, to a client of Henry I. Cooper and M. Cohn & Co. The purchaser, who is a merchant in the textile business, will occupy the store, basement and first loft at the expiration of the present lease, which terminates in February, 1921.

Syndicate Buys Heights Apartment.

The Manshvell Realty Corporation, a syndicate of investors, has purchased from Nathan H. Stone the Andrew Jackson, a seven-story elevator apartment, on the northwest corner of Riverside Drive and 149th Street. The structure, which was built in 1912, occupies a plot 108 by 172 feet. It was held at $950,000.

MAKE $60,000 PROFIT ON ASTOR PLOTTAGE

WILL BUILD A THEATRE

The first resale of Astor properties offered at auction on Tuesday netted a profit of $60,000 and will result in the launching of another Times Square theatrical improvement. L. and A. Pincus and M. L. Goldstone resold for $375,000 to Sam H. Harris of Cohan & Harris, the group of dwellings at 239 to 247 West Forty-fifth Street, which they bought at the auction for $315,000, taking a profit of $60,000 on their brief ownership. Mr. Harris plans to begin at once the construction of a high-grade theatre.

At this point are five four-story brownstone houses, each on a lot 20 by 100.5, about midway between Broadway and Eighth Avenue, and in the heart of the theatre district. The site is about 125 feet west of the Morosco, Bijou and Astor theatres, sold at the auction to Robert E. Dowling, President of the City Investing Company.

The strength of Times Square realty values is exemplified in the transaction, since Messrs. Pincus and Goldstone paid almost double the valuation placed upon these properties for taxation purposes, which was $177,500, and yet found a buyer who was ready to pay a substantial profit for their contract. They also purchased at the Astor auction 251 to 257, twenty feet west of the plot resold, for $202,625, or $77,625 more than the assessed value. Other important resales are known to be pending.

Another Times Square deal was closed yesterday by Alfred M. Rau, who sold for Blumenthal & Levy the three buildings 157, 159, 161 West Forty-fourth Street, on a plot 63 by 100, adjoining the New York and Criterion Theatres, recently sold to the Famous Players Corporation. This propesty is within 100 feet of the corner of Broadway and Forty-fourth Street, and directly opposite the Claridge Hotel. The property has been sold to a syndicate represented by Armin H. Mittleman, President. The owners intend erecting an office building to take care of the space required by the moving picture and theatrical firms.

Other Manhattan Sales.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., sold for the Sallye Realty Corporation the six-story building at 54 West Twenty-second Street, containing approximately 17,000 square feet. The property was held at $100,000. All leases on the building expire Feb. 1, 1921.

A. W. Mead sold the four-story building 133 West 125th Street for Annie E. Palmer to a client of Ernest T. Bower.

Pepe & Brother sold for Antonio and James Biancuill the remainder of the lot at 46 Leroy Street, now Seventh Avenue and Varick Street, to a client.

Frederick Brown bought from John A. Lewis 10 and 12 Vandewater Street, an eight-story loft building, on plot 35 by 100 by irregular. Leases on the property expire next May. William C. Walker's Sons were the brokers.

The Burden Realty Company, Kenneth P. Newman, President, purchased from a client of Jerome A. Kohn the five-story loft building at 522 and 524 East Eighty-first Street, on a plot 60 by 100. The property was held at $50,000 and rents for about $6,500. Spear & Co. were the brokers in the deal.

Justice Erlanger, in the Supreme Court, has granted permission to the trustees of the House of Mercy, New York, to sell a lot on the north side of 120th Street, 100 feet west of Second Avenue, 25 by 100.11, known as 230 East 120th Street, to Martin Seider for $16,000.

The Brooklyn Market.

The Meister Builders, Inc., sold to a client for investment 1,133 Seventy-fifth Street, a one-family house on a lot 13 by 100, and also have sold to a client of A. Mignone, 625 Baltic Street, a three-story house on a lot 18 by 70.

Tutino & Cerny sold for Mary N. Lane to a client for investment the two-story brownstone two-family dwelling, 524 Forty-seventh Street.

Bulkley & Horton Company sold in conjunction with Charles E. Rickerson 363 East Seventy-third Street, between Ditmas Avenue and Farragut Road, semi-bungalow and garage, on a lot 35 by 100, two and one-half story, for H. A. Hawley to R. Bengochea, Jr., Consul General of Guatemala.

The Realty Associates sold 218-20 Skillman Street, between Willoughby and DeKalb Avenues, two-story frame buildings on a plot 50 by 100, to Carmine Petracci; broker in the transaction was Herbert I. Benward; also 46 Noll Street, a three-story double frame building, 25 by 57 by 100, to Mary A. O'Neil, and 52 Noll Street, a three-story double frame building, 25 by 57 by 100, to John J. McCauley. The broker in the latter two transactions was John J. McCarthy.

Henry Pierson & Co. sold 892 Seventh Street, near Prospect Park West, a two-story dwelling, for C. & C. Friel to a client for occupancy.

Private Dwelling Buyers.

M. A. De Baun sold for Mary S. Clarkson 426 East 144th Street, a two-story and basement brick dwelling, on a lot 16 by 100.

Pease & Elliman sold for Louis Kalmanowitz to the Atlas Finishing Company the four-story and basement dwelling, 25 by 100 feet, at 5 West Thirtieth Street. It was held at $100,000 and will be altered and used by the new owner.

Mrs. Ida Kempner sold to Mrs. Rose Weiss the four-story private dwelling at 39 West Ninety-first Street, 18.0 by 100. D. Kempner & Son and M. Cohn & Co. and Henry I. Cooper were the brokers.

The three-story dwelling, 16 by 100.11, at 360 West 122d Street, adjoining the Morningside Presbyterian Church, at the southeast corner of Morningside Avenue, has been sold by Nelson M. Strong.

The Brown-Wheelock Company sold for Margaret A. Knapp the three-story dwelling at 179 East Eightieth Street, 16.8 by 100, to a client for occupancy.

W. C. Ivison Dwelling Leased.

Crawford Burton of Burton Brothers, cotton goods, has leased from William C. Ivison, stock broker, the residence at 12 West Forty-eighth Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, occupied by his family for the last fifty-four years. The lessee will alter the property extensively for business purposes. The lease, which is for twenty-one years, calls for an annual rental of $9,500. Mr. Ivison has taken a lease of an apartment for five years in 400 Park Avenue. Douglas Gibbons & Co. were the brokers.

MORE APARTMENT DEALS.

Strong Demand for West Side and Heights Holdings.

A number of apartment houses in various parts of the city passed into new ownerships yesterday. Many of them being acquired by investors. The sale of the twelve-story San Domingo at 949 West End Avenue, held at $600,000, was a feature. Byrne & Bowman sold this house for Stewart Forshay to the 112 Madison Avenue Corporation, which will hold it for investment. The building occupies a plot 75 by 100, facing Straus Park, at the junction of Broadway and 106th Street.

The Bolton Apartments, three six-story structures, covering the block front on the west side of Amsterdam Avenue, between 170th and 177th Streets, 200 by 100, sold by the Great Northern Apartment Corporation to Morris Resnick. The buildings contain twelve stores and 120 apartments, which return a yearly revenue of $90,000. They were valued at $450,000.

Frederick H. Allen of Frederick Zittel & Sons sold for William E. Keyes to Abraham Zaunderer 4,925 to 4,935 Broadway, southwest corner of 207th Street, a five-story apartment house, 125 by 100. This is one of the largest non-elevator houses in the northern end of the city, and now figures in the first change of ownership since its erection about four years ago. It was held at $300,000. A. H. Levy and Jacob Cohen were associated as brokers in the deal.

The Winter Realties, Inc., Benjamin Winter, President, sold to the Vane Realty Company, John Mushakunai, President, the easterly block front on Columbus Avenue from Eighty-fifth to Eighty-sixth Street, known as the Sterling and Carlyle Apartments, two six-story elevator apartments, each on a corner plot 100 by 100. These properties were recently bought for Robert E. Dowling. The brokers were M. Cohn & Co. and Henry I. Cooper.

Charles Wynne and Louis H. Low resold to an investing client of I. Kohn the five-story apartment house, 763 and 765 Columbus Avenue, on a plot 50 by 100. This property was acquired last week by the sellers, and was held at $80,000.

BIG LEASES CLOSED.

Operators Sublease Walton Block on Eighth Avenue.

Two large leasing transactions were closed yesterday, involving big frontages on Eighth Avenue and on East Fifty-fourth Street. The Broadway-John Street Corporation, Elias A. Cohen, President, subleased through Henry Shapiro & Co., to Harry Silverman, Joseph Meltzer and Joe Reinhorn, the Walton block on the west side of Eighth Avenue, from Fifty-first to Fifty-second Streets, covering a plot 200 feet on the avenue, and 100 feet on each street, now improved with fourteen separate buildings. The lease is for a term of twenty-one years from May 1, 1920, at an aggregate rental of $750,000. Most of the leases expire May 1.

Greenfield & Saffir leased for the Cahane Realty Company, to a client of the Silverman's Exchange, from the plans, the two-story garage now in the course of construction at 215-221 East Fifty-fourth Street, on plot 100 by 100, for twenty-one years, at an aggregate rental of $350,000. This plot was formerly the brewery of the Jacob Hoffman Brewing Company, and was sold by the same broker to the present lessor.

Westchester County Sales.

Howe & Thompson sold the Louise Davies residence on Nutgrove Street, White Plains, to George B. Galbraith.

Chauncey B. Griffen & Co. sold for James J. Lipsett of Greenwich, Conn., his property situated on Chatsworth Avenue, Larchmont Terrace, consisting of a private dwelling on large plot, to Herman F. Lampe of Manhattan.

Keep Your Finger on the Business Pulse

THE doctor keeps posted on the health of his patient by knowing at all times the action of the pulse. It indicates to him how the human machinery is functioning.

The business executive keeps posted on the condition of his business in much the same way.

VICE-GRAFT INQUIRY TO SWEEP WEST SIDE

Policemen, Merchants, Shop Girls, Watchmen and Others Will Be Examined.

DOE INVESTIGATION BEGINS

With the opening of the Grand Jury John Doe investigation into allegations of graft in the Police Department yesterday it was learned that for the present the activities of the investigators will be focused on conditions in the Fourth Inspection District commanded by Inspector Dominick Henry.

Practically every policeman in the district, from commanding officer to patrolman, will either be questioned, it was said, or evidence will be sought as to his activities. Great numbers of subpoenas will be served on merchants, shop girls, watchmen and women of the underworld, who will be expected to testify before the Grand Jury.

Among the witnesses who appeared yesterday before the Grand Jury conducting the inquiry were Police Inspector Thomas McDonald, Jennie Carello and Kitty Daly. Chief Inspector John Daly appeared at the Criminal Court Building, but was not called.

The police officials were called, it was said, in order to identify certain records of arrests made in Inspector Henry's district.

Inspector McDonald supplied to Mr. Smith a list of the arrests made by his men in the Fourth Inspection District over the head of Inspector Henry, in charge of affairs in the district, which comprises the section between Sixth Avenue and the Hudson and Forty-second and 110th Streets.

The list as supplied to Mr. Smith showed a total of 354 arrests in the district by Inspector McDonald's men in 1919. Of these 154 were for vice, 42 for handbook operators, 124 for craps, 116 for poolrooms, and 118 for miscellaneous offenses.

During the ten weeks of the present year 40 vice arrests were made by Inspector McDonald's men and 69 poolroom arrests. It is expected that Chief Inspector Daly will have a list of arrests made in the Fourth District by his men over the head of Inspector Henry when the Grand Jury resumes its deliberations next week.

Judge James T. Malone fixed March 19 as the date for the trial of Detective John J. Gunson of the Fourth Inspection District, indicted on charges of bribery and extortion on the complaint of Rebecca Melyade, who accused him of receiving money from her in return for which he failed to do his duty.

In addition to the witnesses it is understood that certain public documents, together with bank accounts, will be subpoenaed and placed before the Grand Jury. It was announced that a special panel of jurors would be selected from which to draw a jury to try Gunson and that the trial would proceed without further delay on March 19.

In fixing the date Judge Malone said emphatically that counsel on both sides must be ready as he wanted no adjournments. Before Inspector McDonald entered the Grand Jury room Mr. Smith was asked whether McDonald or Inspector Daly would be required to waive immunity.

"I will gladly waive immunity," said Inspector McDonald, who was present in Mr. Smith's office.

"I'll not ask you to waive," declared Mr. Smith. "Neither you nor Inspector Daly. There is no reason why I should ask you to waive immunity. I have never heard a word against either of you."

Nine men were arrested last night in a raid by Inspector Dominick Henry's men on a room in a West Forty-seventh Street hotel. Eight men were charged with disorderly conduct and the ninth, who gave the name of Harry Bandy, 40, of 150 West Forty-seventh Street, was charged with bookmaking. A telephone was confiscated by the detectives, who allege that the men were indulging in loud and boisterous language. They were locked up in the West Forty-seventh Street station.

DOLAN CASE BEFORE JURY.

Witnesses Tell of Refusal to Pay Fare and of Assaults.

As a result of the examination of witnesses yesterday in the office of Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, subpoenas were made out for eight witnesses who are expected to appear before the Grand Jury today in order to testify concerning the alleged assault by Detective Thomas Dolan and Traffic Policeman William Sullivan on patrons in the Unique Restaurant, 111 Lenox Avenue, last Sunday morning.

Among those questioned by Mr. Smith were Michael Ornstein, owner of the restaurant; William Haber, a waiter; Alexander Gordon, a taxicab chauffeur; Joseph Stern, John McNally, a hackman, who was beaten over the head with a blackjack, and Patrolman Herman Stoffer.

The witnesses told of driving the policemen, men and women and the refusal of the policemen to pay the fare. There was also testimony of a disturbance in the restaurant in which patrons were assaulted.

RATHOM MADE COMPLAINANT

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, March 11.—John R. Rathom, editor of the Providence Journal, who last January asked the Senate Naval Committee to investigate charges against the Navy Department, was called as a witness before the Naval Court of Inquiry, now sitting here, and was made by court ruling a complainant, despite his personal protest.

Mr. Rathom had an armful of papers and memoranda, some of which had been asked for by the Judge Advocate.

The Judge Advocate began his examination on the charges made to the Senate committee. This was objected to on the ground that they had never been made to the Navy. Mr. Rathom declared he would not submit the same charges to the court until he had changed them.

Joseph C. Cawley, special Assistant United States Attorney, of Providence, appeared first as a witness and later as counsel for the interested parties to the present proceedings.

CAILLAUX WEEPS IN COURT.

PARIS, March 11.—Further testimony concerning the trip of former Premier Joseph Caillaux to Italy in 1916 was heard by the High Court of the Senate today in the trial of M. Caillaux on the charge of having had treasonable dealings with the enemy.

Camille Barrere, French Ambassador to Italy; Charles Roux, counselor of the French Embassy at Rome, and Prince Ghika, Rumanian Minister to Italy, testified to the unrest created in Italian official circles by M. Caillaux's relations with suspected persons.

M. Caillaux broke down and wept when Henri de Jouvenel, correspondent at Rome of the Matin, referred to Mme. Caillaux's expressed enthusiasm at having found in Rome a welcome which she declared had been denied her in Paris since the shooting of Gaston Calmette, editor of Figaro, in 1914.

Passage of Teachers' Bill Urged.

A resolution, urging passage of the bill for increasing the salaries of teachers, now before the Legislature, was passed unanimously at the Americanization Luncheon of the New York City Colony of the National Society of New England Women, at the Hotel Astor yesterday. Commissioner A. S. Frall, President of the Board of Education, was the chief speaker.

Crescent Phonograph

A musician visited a half a dozen dealers to find out the points which really count in choosing a phonograph. He found that there were six such points and he chose—a CRESCENT.

Factory Trucks—Warehouse Trucks—Freight-house Trucks

They Stand the Gaff

You cannot afford to buy cheap trucks that spend half their time in the repair shop and are on the scrap pile in six months. Labor and material are too costly.

It's real economy to buy Better Trucks for in addition to their durable, lasting qualities they are easy running and require very little lubricant. They give years of full time service.

These three valuable qualities of Better Trucks are made possible by the use of Hyatt Roller Bearings.

Ask your regular truck manufacturer for Better Trucks equipped with Hyatt Roller Bearings. When they come on the job they eliminate a fertile source of worry and expense.

By the Look in His Eyes

When one of our young Hyatt Engineers is talking to you about Better Trucks you can tell by the look in his eyes that he knows trucks and internal transportation problems.

You'll know that any advice he gives you about your trucking system is practical because based upon results obtained by other men who have trucking propositions similar to yours.

You can find out from him how Better Trucks are designed and built and how to get them the next time you are in the market for trucks.
